LONDON, July 29.—The Prime Minister made an important speech today at a conference with about 120 Unionists, of both houses of Priliament, on the Irish situation.

The proceedings were private, and an official report will be issued tomorrow.

The meeting was a sequel to one held by the Unionists on July 7. The Daily Chronicle political correspondent says that the Duke of Northumberland today repeated the speech he made on the former occasion, in which he argued that the Sinn Fein movement was connected with the anti-British movement in various parts of the world.

"Sir Edward Carson said that all over the world there were enemies of this country, in India, Egypt and America, and they had an organization which poured out hostile manifestos and literature on somewhat the same lines as the Sinn Fein. The latter, he asserted, was not really a Home Rule propaganda in any Irish sense, but had for its object the detachment of Ireland from Great Britain. He suggested, it is understood, that the Germans, who did not acquiesce in their defeat, were at the bottom of some of this hostility. The Sinn Fein movement was not run by ignorant men, but was inspired by very clever spirits. Some indeed, he thought, were honest men advocating what they thought was best Others were not. In any case it was a grave danger, for the enemies of England hoped that if Ireland could gain complete independence, England would lose her command of trade across the Atlantic.

Mr Lloyd George, in his reply, is understood to have said that he remembered many bad times in Ireland, but that the present was by far the worst. He did not believe the trouble in Ireland was a Bolshevist movement, considering that it was deeper rooted in the soil—a riling of hostility that smouldered and burst at intervals, sometimes after years or generations.

He recognized that in various parts of the world there was, as Carson had said, an anti-British feeling. He referred to the hostile opinion in America and elsewhere, and realized that, the world being so small, public opinion there did matter much to this country.

But what mattered far more was public opinion in the United Kingdom. It was absurd to suppose for a moment that the mass of the British working classes was extremist or revoluntionary in feeling. A small proportion of them were Reds, and these were vocal, while others were more generally silent. But he felt sure that the mass of opinion here was temperate and moderate.

He dwelt on the need for forming a right opinion on Irish matters in Great Britain, and urged all to do their best to this end. Unless there was sound judgment here the instrument of Parliament would be powerless.

The Prime Minister concluded by saying there was no change of policy with regard to Ireland, and he reiterated that in no circumstances could the demand of the Sinn Fein for an Irish republic be entertained.

The Premier was asked whether the Government's policy went beyond the present Home Rule bill, referring to recent rumors as to Dominion Home Rule.

Mr. Lloyd George is stated to have denied that this was the case. The Government, he repeated, would restore law and order, and next week they would bring in a very drastic measure for this purpose, which was to be put through in two days. (This referred to emergency courts, &c.)

But behind this bill, said the Premier, they might be assured that there would be the great factor of moral liberty, for liberty and freedom within the empire was the underlying principle of their dealings with Ireland.

Seven More American Warships Ordered to Turkish Waters

WASHINGTON, July 29.—American naval forces in the Near East will be augmented by six destroyers which were ordered today by the Navy Department to proceed from Philadelphia as soon as the personnel can be raised to the required complement, probably within the next ten days.

The six destroyers will increase the naval forces in Turkish waters under Rear Admiral Mark L. Bristol to ten destroyers in addition to the cruiser Chattanooga, the Admiral's flagship.

It was explained at the department that the additional destroyers were being sent to Turkish waters purely as a precautionary measure, so that American lives and property could have immediate protection in the event that the necessity for such action arose.

It was announced later at the Navy Department that the cruiser St. Louis, commanded by Captain O. E. Theleen, had been ordered to proceed to Turkish waters with the six destroyers. The St. Louis is now at Philadelphia.

$40,000 IN LIQUORS SEIZED IN BIG RAIDS

$6,000 IN WOMAN'S FLAT

Two Men Are Arrested When They Try to Bar Way to Bedroom Hoard.

Federal prohibition enforcement agents drafted in this city, Philadelphia and Washington yesterday afternoon descended on scores of saloons, wholesale liquor dealers and "speak easies" in cities and towns in Hudson and Essex Counties, in New Jersey, and by nightfall had seized thousands of dollars' worth of liquors on search warrants issued within the last week by United States Commissioner John A. Mathews in Newark.

Enforcement squads up to late last night had acted on fifty-two warrants in Newark, seizing four truckloads of liquors, valued at between $35,000 and $40,000, and arresting two men who interfered with them when one force of raiders uncovered $6,000 worth of whisky in the apartment of a woman above a saloon at 117 Washington Street.

The warrants executed up to that time called for investigation of the premises of saloonkeepers and wholesale liquor dealers, but those in charge of the Newark raids declared that they had many more warrants to serve.

The raids were conducted under the personal supervision of E. P. McGrath, from the National Prohibition Enforcement Office in Washington, and were said to be the outcome of the complaint several weeks ago of Samuel Wilson, Assistant Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of New Jersey, to John F. Kramer, National Prohibition Commissioner, to the effect that the counties in New Jersey adjacent to this city "were as wet as the Atlantic Ocean." Mr. Wilson supplemented that statement within the last thirty-six hours with a letter to Commissioner Kramer in which he alleged that in Newark alone, which is the county seat of Essex County, there were 866 saloons and "speakeasies" flagrantly violating the Volstead law.

New Men are Assigned.

Mr. McGrath was assisted in organizing the raiding squads by Jacob G. Slonaker, assistant to Leo Crossen, Supervising Prohibition Enforcement Agent for New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Delaware, whose office is in Philadelphia. To prevent possible interference with the work of the raiders twenty-five agents of the staff of James Shevlin, Supervising Prohibition Enforcement Agent in this State, were transferred to Mr. Crossen's office in Philadelphia and a like number of Crossen's men were sent to aid Mr. McGrath in the raids in Hudson and Essex County. Mr. Shevlin also sent twenty-five of his newest recruits in the enforcement of the prohibition law in this city to Jersey City and Newark to aid Mr. McGrath and

SUGAR HOARDER GETS TWO YEARS IN PENITENTIARY

EXAMPLE MADE OF CULPRIT

5-DAY TRIAL HAS QUICK END

Jury Returns Verdict Shortly Before Midnight and Sentence Is Passed 15 Minutes Later.

A. Lessen, a small east side grocer, was sentenced to two years in the Atlanta Penitentiary shortly before midnight last night by Federal Judge Harlan B. Howe, about fifteen minutes after a jury in the Federal Court had found Lessen guilty of violating the Lever act section providing against hoarding of foodstuffs. Another grocer, Aaron Arrison, tried jointly with Lessen, was acquitted.

The sentence imposed upon Lessen was the maximum penalty provided by the law, and in imposing it Judge Howe declared he had decided not to "put the dollar mark on this judgment," a reference to the fact that he might have given the defendant the alternative of a $5,000 fine. Judge Howe also said he hoped the sentence would "have a salutary effect on anybody in this city who contemplated profiteering or hoarding."

The trial of Lessen and Arrison began five days ago. Assistant United States District Attorney J. Mattox prepared the case for the Government, while A. Wetmore appeared as attorney for the accused grocers. According to the evidence adduced by the Government's representatives, evidence largely gathered by J. J. Price, Chief Assistant to A. W. Riley in charge of the Federal "flying squadron," Lessen some time ago began to purchase sugar in small lots.

As soon as he had established a connection in the trade, Lessen was able to broaden out and, at one time, according to the Government's case, the grocer had upward of 200,000 pounds of sugar stored in storehouses in this city and in Jersey.

Assistant District Attorney Mattox offered evidence to the effect that Lessen's plans of operation were to withdraw the sugar in quantities specified by customers and ship it into towns in Pennsylvania and into Virginia. Counsel for Lessen sought to disprove the claims of the Government's lawyers, making an especial effort to break down evidence tending to show that his client had nearly a quarter million pounds of sugar in warehouses.

Following the summing up of Judge Howe the case went to the jury at noon yesterday. Sending out from time to time for instructions and reading of the testimony, the jury did not report itself ready to bring in a verdict until 11:15 o'clock last night. Then the foreman rose and said that the jury's decision found Lessen guilty as charged, while his co-defendant had been exonerated.

"I could have sentenced Lessen to pay a fine of $5,000," said Judge Howe last night, "as the law provides, but I thought that I did not want a dollar mark on the judgment. I do not know whether this is the first jail sentence for sugar hoarding or not, but I do know that it is the first sentence of its kind imposed by me. I have had corporations before me, but I could do nothing except impose a money fine. With Lessen, an individual, it was different, and I imposed the maximum sentence.

"I hope," he continued, "that this sentence will have a salutary effect. Jail sentences will, I am sure, go a long way toward halting both hoarding and profiteering."

Lessen did not take the stand in his own behalf.

An indictment charging S. Fisher & Co. and Ascher S. Fisher, Treasurer, with profiteering in sugar in violation of the Lever act was returned yesterday by the Federal Grand Jury to United States District Judge Sheppard. Three counts charged that:

On May 7 the firm sold 100 bags of South Porto Rico sugar, for which it had paid $10.33 a hundred pounds, to Farr & Co. for $24.50 a hundred pounds; on May 7 the firm sold ninety bags of the same sort of sugar, for which it paid $10.33 a hundred pounds, to Frank H. Gregher for $22 a hundred pounds; on May 18 the firm sold 100 tons of Brazilian wash sugar, for which it paid $19.375 a hundred pounds, to the West Royal Candy Company for $22.60 a hundred pounds.

Under the Lever act wholesalers are permitted to make a profit of only 1 cent a pound.

$60,000,000 Share in Profits Is Voted To International Harvester Workers

Stockholders of the International Harvester Company voted at a special meeting in Hoboken yesterday to set aside $60,000,000 stock to be divided among employes under an extra compensation and stock ownership plan open to all workers in this country and Canada. In size and scope the profit-sharing system is unique in the annals of American business. The program devised by the Directors provides for special disbursements each year beginning Jan. 1, 1921, consisting of stock and cash. It is planned to divide annually an amount equal to 60 per cent. of the company's net profits in excess of 7 per cent. upon the corporation's invested capital.

The full amount of the company's investment is not specifically set forth in the latest statements. At the end of 1919, however, total assets amounted to $188,869,500 which may be considered an approximate value of working capital, plant investment, inventories, etc. In that year net profits amounted to $21,011,761. Seven per cent. of the aggregate assets would be $13,220,865. Deducting this from the profits and taking 60 per cent. of the proceeds there would be approximately $4,675,000 to be divided among employes on the basis of 1919 income. The company employs about 40,000 workers when operating on a full schedule.

The stock reserve for the purpose consists of $20,000,000 common and $40,000,000 preferred. In order to provide for the compensation plan and for other purposes the stockholders increased the authorized preferred stock from $60,000,000 to $100,000,000 and the common from $80,000,000 to $130,000,000. The Directors today will vote on a proposal to distribute $10,000,000 common stock as a 12½ per cent stock dividend. The management proposes to pay out $20,000,000 of the new common later on in semi-annual stock dividends of 2 per cent.

Acording to the plan the employes will be divided into two groups, those who are in executive and managerial positions and those who are not. The former will receive one-third of the extra compensation fund and the latter will receive two-thirds part in the company's 7 per cent. preferred stock and part in cash. The funds will be distributed in proportion to the actual earnings of each employe for the year and the relation it bears to the aggregate earnings of other employes in each group. Common stock will be distributed instead of preferred to the employes in the first group.

Peace Resolution Mandamus Is Refused; Mecartney Will Appeal to Supreme Court

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Chief Justice McCoy of the District of Columbia Supreme Court today dismissed the petition for mandamus to compel Secretary Colby to promulgate the Congressional peace resolution vetoed by President Wilson and declare the United States at peace with Germany and Austria.

Harry S. Mecartney, an attorney of Chicago, who filed the petition, gave notice of an appeal to the District Court of Appeals and also announced his intention of seeking writ of certiorari from the United States Supreme Court to transfer the case to that tribunal without waiting for the action of the District Appellate tribunal.

Waiving the point of absence of formal demand, as pointed out by the court, Government attorneys called the attention of the court to the section of the Revised Statutes of the United States in which is set forth the power of the Secretary of State over the laws as passed by Congress.

The attorneys asserted that the Secretary may declare as laws only such acts of Congress as had received the approval of the President or had been sent to the Secretary by the President of the Senate or the Speaker of the House, depending on which body was the last to pass the act over the veto.

As the peace resolution, after being veteod by President Wilson, failed of re-enactment in the House, the Government contended that the peace resolution never reached Mr. Colby, and that a mandamus to compel him to promulgate something which he had never received would be vain and useless.

DENIES JAPAN HAS RIGHTS IN SAGHALIN

HARA DEFENDS THE SEIZURE

Demands Reparation for Massacre of Japanese, Even at Risk of 'Russian Resentment.'

TOKIO, July 28 (Associated Press).—The Japanese Government has received a communication from the United States pointing out, among other things, that America is unable to recognize Japan's occupation of the northern half of the island of Saghalin. The Nichi Nichi says of the nature of the protest, however, that the impression exists here that the communication is not really a protest, but rather an exposition of the American viewpoint on occupations of Russian territory, with something of America's attitude toward the territory to be occupied.

It is apparently felt here that any publication of the details of the note should emanate from Washington and not Tokio. Meanwhile it is considered likely that Japan, after mature deliberation, will forward an answer to Washington in an attempt to clarify official opinion there and remove any misunderstanding of Japan's position.

Japan's intention to occupy Saghalin, Siberia, stationing troops at Khabarovsk and elsewhere, was the subject of an interpellation recently in the House of Peers. Ichizo Hattori, former Governor of Hyogo Province, wanted to know whether Japan intended to occupy Saghalin permanently in event of failure to obtain satisfaction for the Nikolaievsk massacre from such a Government as might eventually be established in Russia.

Hattori declared that nothing caused deeper and more sustained resentment than when a nation's territory was partly occupied by another nation. He said Russia was in confusion now, and might prove easy to deal with, but that the fact should not be lost sight of that Russia was a country of great possibilities.

Her strong latent power in Siberia, he added, offered a field for peaceful and economic expansion by the Japanese, whose migration there was a possible solution of Japan's over-populated condition. But this, he asserted, would meet with a serious check if bad blood existed between the Russians and the Japanese.

Premier's Statement.

Premier Hara, replying, said it would be detrimental to Japan's interests to disclose what the government proposed to do if no satisfactory settlement of the Nikolaievsk massacre was found.

"Hattori fears occupation of Russian territory by Japan might leave indelible resentment on the part of the Russians," declared the Premier. "I share his fear, but think it impossible that Japan will do nothing to obtain satisfaction for a massacre in which 700 Japanese lost their lives, even though action is taken that may be productive of Russian resentment.

"As there is no stable government in Russia at present, there is no alternative but to occupy the necessary points in Saghalin province pending establishment of a legitimate government. The diplomatic world and history provide ample precedent for an injured country to take the steps it thinks proper. I am desirous that such a government as will give Japan satisfaction shall be established in Russia as quickly as possible."

Appearances here indicate that Japan is passing through another "nervous crisis" concerning her relations with the United States. Numerous interpellations have been made in the Diet about the American attitude, and while the important newspapers are counseling their leaders to keep cool it is apparent that a certain amount of apprehension exists concerning the result of the Congressional inquiry in California. The Japanese, however, seem convinced that it is being conducted with the utmost fairness, and attention is being called to statements that a number of Americans have come forward spontaneously to testify in favor of the Japanese.

Among the incidents which have tended to fan anti-American feeling was the publication here of the report that the burning of Japanese stores in Marysville, Cal., was possibly the act of anti-Japanese elements. Articles also have been printed declaring that Americans were engaged in attempts to steal Japanese maps, and these have resulted in increased surveillance of American tourists.

With regard to the Marysville affair, the Foreign Office today gave out a cable message from Consul General Ota in San Francisco stating that the fire started July 21 in an automobile garage owned by an American and that three or four Japanese houses and stores were burned. The Consul General called attention to reports that were current

BRIDGE BLAZE CUTS OFF WILLIAMSBURG

Flames, Spreading Beneath Structure, Prove Baffling to Firemen and Fireboats.

BARGES MOVED TO SAFETY

Sugar-Laden Craft Saved from Burning Area—South Roadway Reopened at 2 A. M.

Shortly before midnight last night, persons on the Brooklyn shore noticed a blaze beneath the wooden roadway on the north side of the Williamsburg Bridge, about 100 feet from the water's edge on the Brooklyn side, where the bridge is about 125 feet above the water.

One alarm of fire was turned in, but before the Fire Department could respond the blaze had spread rapidly, and the wooden ties of surface car and elevated tracks on the north side of the bridge were ablaze. The ties were burned for 250 feet. The flames ran rapidly along the under side of the planking of the roadway, making the river bright from the fire and its reflection. Two sugar-laden barges of the American Sugar Refinery were almost directly under the burning area, and by the light of the blaze firemen and longshoremen got to work on the barges and moved them from under falling embers.

The firemen who arrived first on the bridge attached hose to standpipes, which were placed there after a blaze on the Brooklyn Bridge had proved difficult to manage from the shore. Because the fire was mainly on the bottom of the bridge and difficult to reach with streams from the hose, the first efforts of the firemen were ineffective, and the blaze continued to spread.

Surface and elevated cars and vehicular traffic over the bridge was brought to a stop and at 1 o'clock this morning there was a line of automobiles held up at the Manhattan entrance to the bridge. As the fire under the arch of the bridge was spreading until it lighted the river and Brooklyn shore for several hundred yards, two fireboats arrived underneath and started to shoot jets of water at the fire, but the streams fell back into the river without carrying to the blazing structure.

Because there was no danger of injury to the steel backbone of the bridge, the fire-fighters were content with turning in a single alarm. Additional streams were turned on the blaze from standpipes on the bridge, and the water poured on the surface of the roadway checked the spread of the blaze underneath.

In spite of the difficulty in getting the water on the fire, which was fanned by a strong wind, the firemen had it extinguished shortly after 1 o'clock. Several lines of hose were finally run upon the bridge from hydrants on shore. Firemen were forced to climb down the ironwork of the bridge and fight the blaze with hose and hand extinguishers. It was found that some of the steel rails of the elevated had been bent by the heat and some of the iron work on the bridge slightly twisted.

Shortly before 2 o'clock vehicular traffic was opened on the south roadway, and it was found to be only slightly damaged. Its opening was delayed by the congestion of firefighting apparatus there. The surface tracks were only slightly damaged, but the elevated tracks on the north side of the bridge were so badly damaged as to make it apparently a matter of days before they will be in use again.

The police of the Bedford Avenue and Clymer Avenue Stations in Brooklyn, and reserves from the east side stations in Manhattan, were called out to keep in check the thousands who crowded the shore on both sides of the river to watch the spectacle.

Deputy Chief Maher and "Smoky Joe" Martin were in charge of the firemen, and Fire Commissioner Drennan arrived while the blaze was in progress. It was learned later that one of the causes of the delay in getting lines of hose in action was the necessity of first shutting off all electric power currents crossing the bridge because of the possibility that otherwise firemen would be killed or injured by shocks from electricity traveling backward on the streams of water.

Hundreds of automobiles, taxicabs and sight-seeing buses reaped a harvest by congregating at the bridge plaza in Williamsburg and charging passengers 25 cents for the trip to Manhattan by the Manhattan and Queensborough bridges.

CONFESSES MURDER JUST AFTER YOUTH DIES FOR IT IN CHAIR

Man Phones Police to Save Elmer Hyatt's Life and Is Caught Leaving Drug Store.

DETECTIVES DOUBT STORY

Prisoner Refuses to Answer Any Questions Bearing on Details of Rochester Murder.

HELD IN BELLEVUE HOSPITAL

Placed in Psychopathic Ward After Doctor Recognizes Him as Boyhood Schoolmate.

Six minutes after Elmer Hyatt, an eighteen-year-old boy, died in the electric chair in Sing Sing Prison last night the police of the West Forty-seventh Street Station told prison officials over the telephone that they had in custody a young man named Robert Barron who confessed the crime for which Hyatt had been executed.

Barron was seized as the result of a telephone call to Police Headquarters in which he said that he and not Hyatt shot to death in Rochester thirteen months ago Patrolman O'Brien of that city.

The police held Barron on a temporary charge of vagrancy and were professedly skeptical of his story, believing either that he had made a futile attempt to get a stay for Hyatt, or else that his belief in his own guilt was pure delusion.

At 2 o'clock this morning the prisoner was removed to the psycopathic ward at Bellevue for observation by Dr. Smith, an ambulance surgeon, who said he recognized him as an old schoolmate in the Brooklyn High School and was sure his real name was not Barron.

Barron had sent a telegram to Sing Sing on Wednesday, asking a stay for Hyatt on the ground that he, Barron, and not Hyatt had committed the crime. He sent, or at least exhibited copies of, five similar telegrams which he said he had dispatched today. He refused to answer any questions that would tend to establish any familiarity with the circumstances of the killing, and further doubt was cast on his story when the police here learned, they said, that Hyatt confessed, and so did his pal in the robbery which resulted in the killing.

Fears to Incriminate Himself.

Barron based his refusal to answer questions upon the ground that he might incriminate himself in the absence of counsel to protect his interests. He insisted further that all he wanted was a half hour with Governor Smith in order to get a stay for Hyatt. He was not told that Hyatt was dead for fear the news would excite him and make him incoherent.

He made several confessions, each of which he wrote out himself on a typewriter, but each time he refused to sign the document. Most of them he tore up. One which he allowed the detectives to keep read:

> The undersigned at this hour, 12:15 A. M., July 30, assumes full responsibility for the offense committed in Rochester for which the 18-year-old boy Elmer Hyatt was to die tonight at Sing Sing Prison. On the basis of this statement, which is made with full understanding, it is earnestly requested that the execution be postponed twenty-four hours. The offense referred to for which this youth was to suffer the death penalty had to do with the shooting of a policeman in the city of Rochester, N. Y., about one year ago, in his official capacity.

Barron said he was 30 years old and a real estate operator living at 482 Atlantic Avenue, Brooklyn. He telephoned to police headquarters at 11 o'clock, saying he was the guilty man and asking that Hyatt should not be electrocuted. The operator at headquarters kept him in conversation long enough to trace the call to a drug store at 864 Ninth Avenue and to notify the West Forty-seventh Street Station.

The Brooklyn address Barron gave proved to be a vacant lot. From papers in his pocket it was learned that he rented desk room at 41 East Twenty-ninth Street from E. A. Turner of 118 Lexington Avenue, a real estate operator. Turner said Barron had been in the office about a month and that he had noticed nothing queer about him until yesterday when he called up Ossining on the telephone and came out of the booth with "a faraway look on his face like a demented man."

Detectives in a Quandary.

Patrolman Dinan jumped on a passing trolley and got to the drug store in time to see a dark-haired sallow complexioned man with a thin, dark moustache hurrying away. The man, who wore a Panama hat and a Palm Peach suit with a silk stripe in it and looked fairly well to do, readily admitted having sent the telephone call.

At the station he was turned over to Joseph A. Fitzgerald and other detectives who tried time and again to get him to discuss the crime or even to answer questions that would show whether he ever had been to Rochester. He refused persistently. The detectives were in a quandary whether to hold him at the station or send him to Bellevue for observation and several times they resisted the temptation to tell him Hyatt had been "bumped off" in order to see if the shock of that announcement would loosen his tongue.

Hyatt killed Policeman O'Brien in

Senate's Fund Inquiry Will Wait Till September

ST. LOUIS, July 29.—Senator James A. Reed announced here today that the Senate sub-committee would not resume its investigation of campaign expenditures of Presidential candidates until September.

Senator Reed is a member of the sub-committee.

The public may be assured, however, Senator Reed added, that the inquiry when resumed will be thorough. He went on:

"The time is past when wads of money can be handed to committeemen or delegates, and if there is no law there should be one making such an offense bribery. The practice has to be stopped."

PONZI TO START 'BANK' IN NEW YORK

Boston 'Wizard' Says He Needs Larger Field and Will Come Here at Once.

RIVAL FIRM NOW IN BOSTON

It Also Pays 50 Per Cent. Profit in 45 Days—Foreign Money Orders Rate Lowered.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., July 29.—Charles Ponzi, the "postal exchange wizard," who has been paying 50 per cent. interest every forty-five days to thousands and who claims to have rolled up about $15,000,000 profits in six months, today poured out great volumes of cash to customers who had "lost faith" in his enterprise.

Throughout the day, from 11 in the morning until after 4 o'clock this afternoon, throngs pressed about the "Pi" Alley entrance of his School Street office. Thousands were curiosity seekers merely, but hundreds were after their money—and they got it. Every one.

At 4:10 o'clock a Ponzi agent came to the door and asked if there were any more who wanted their money. There were none, and the door was closed, presumably to reopen in the morning for the next batch of the "faithless." It is estimated that nearly half a million dollars was turned back to the public today.

Miss Lucy Meli, Ponzi's secretary, declares that nearly $2,000,000 has been paid the public since Monday, this sum including, however, a very large number of "matured loans" on which the promised percent was paid.

There was increased excitement about the Ponzi offices this forenoon. The office did not open at the hour announced, 9 o'clock, and wild rumors went about that Ponzi had "skipped out." The office opened before 10 o'clock, however, and Ponzi himself appeared about 11. He was greeted by the huge throng with lusty cheers. A cheery wave of the hand was his response.

Ponzi was about the office but a few minutes, to give certain brief instructions to his staff. He quickly disappeared, to be seen no more during the day.

Protected by armed guards the cash was brought from the bank to the office, where the "paying teller" was watched over by an alert young man sitting close by. At the latter's elbow, on the table, rested a huge revolver.

Today a new attempt was made to tie up Ponzi's stock in a number of Boston concerns, these interests including large holdings in the Hanover Trust Company. Joseph Daniels, one of the early investors, who now claims he was in partnership with Ponzi, is seeking to collect $1,000,000 of the profits thus far acquired.

Daniels recently filed a bill in equity against Ponzi and today in an amended motion he claimed that he was to share equally in Ponzi's part of the profits. He seeks to enjoin Ponzi from selling, transferring or otherwise disposing of his interest in these concerns, pending a hearing. Judge Wait has issued an order of notice to the "Wizard" on the amendment, which is returnable Tuesday. Ponzi is asked to appear.

To Open New York Office.

Ponzi declared today that he would open an office in New York City at once. He explained that there is between $30,000,000 and $40,000,000 more to be made by his scheme, but it must be done at once, he says. He declares that as difficulties have arisen in New England he is forced to go elsewhere to secure money for his large operations.

The Old Colony Foreign Exchange Company, a rival of Ponzi's Exchange Securities Company, which is offering 50 per cent profit in forty-five days, was permitted to continue its business following a conference this afternoon between District Attorney Pelletier and its President and others. Charles B. Brightwell, the President, said tonight he was sorry the impression had gone abroad that his company was imitating Ponzi's methods. He explained that "while his company had undertaken to deal in postal coupons, as has Ponzi's, this is only an incidental phase of its business." It's chief dealings, he said, are in "foreign goods." He did not care to say what the goods are, but added that the proceeds thus far have been so enormous as to fully warrant its pledge of 50 per cent. in forty-five days. He pointed out that whereas Ponzi issued notes his company is selling stock.

Brightwell said one of his agents was leaving New York tomorrow for Europe, and that he, Brightwell, was going to that city tonight to confer with him.

While there have been no official accusations against Ponzi, the Old Colony Company was flatly charged by the District Attorney as having made false assertions.

Ponzi today defied the Government to learn the secret of his operations.

"I am in the business to make money," he said. "Ethics do not in-

White Says Cox Is Now the Party Leader—Calls Contribution Limit "Buncombe."

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—George White, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, caused some surprise here today by a statement in an interview that the leading issue which Governor Cox will make in his appeal for votes will be along progressive lines,—advocacy of legislation in support of the laboring man and the farmer—and that the League of Nations, which is the leading plank in the Democratic platform, will be secondary among the chief issues.

This statement and the further assertion by the new chairman that there was "no ironclad contract entered into between the President and Governor Cox in discussing the treaty," led friends of the League of Nations to think that, if Chairman White was interpreting the attitude of Governor Cox, the statement of the nominee following the Sunday conference, that he would "give what the President had promised," was subject to a "certain amount of elasticity," as Mr. White himself suggested.

When some of his interviewers showed that they interpreted this talk as meaning that the President and Governor Cox were not in entire agreement on the League of Nations, Mr. White made it plain that the understanding arrived at by the President and the nominee was that Governor Cox should support the spirit of the League of Nations idea as interpreted by the President. He said that there was no definite discussion at the Sunday conference, but he was of the opinion that Governor Cox intended to support the League with the two reservations he has indicated.

"Peace, Progress, Prosperity" Slogan.

"Peace, progress and prosperity" will be the campaign slogan, Mr. White announced, while "Coxsure" would appear as a cry in the campaign.

It was while discussing general political conditions and telling of his plans for the campaign that Mr. White, in reply to a question as to what he considered the chief issue of the campaign, said:

"Progressivism is to be the principal issue of the campaign. Governor Cox will make the strongest appeal to the laboring class. By that I mean those who are engaged in manual labor, such as the farmer and the mechanic. He will follow his record on industrial matters and promise to give the electorate of the nation what he has done in Ohio.

"His record on workingmen's compensation, good roads and the law which gives miners pay for the coal that goes through the screen, will form some of the big things that will be employed by the Governor in his progressive appeal. His legislation for the miner tied the miner vote to him in Ohio, and it will be so in the country."

League as "Secondary Chief Issue."

"Do you mean to say that after reading the Democratic platform you interpret it as meaning that progressive legislation is the chief issue and not the League of Nations?" Mr. White was asked.

"I do not think that the League of Nations is the chief issue; it is a secondary chief issue and one of the chief issues, perhaps, but not the chief one," he replied. "And I will say very frankly that we do not hear very much of the League of Nations out in Ohio. The issue there is opposition to standpattism and a fight against the methods of the Republicans. I regard progressivism as the real issue west of the Mississippi."

"Do you agree with former Chairman Cummings that prohibition is not an issue in the campaign?"

"I do not regard it as an issue. It is only a question of law enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment."

"Will the record which the Anti-Saloon League will publish show that Governor Cox has been wet in his tendencies as an official?"

"I do not think so."

Expects Help of ex-Candidates.

Chairman White said that he expected to have all the defeated Democratic candidates for the Presidential nomination actively engaged in the campaign to elect Governor Cox. He did not know whether William J. Bryan would be in the campaign, but he fully expected that he would do his part. It is believed that Mr. Bryan will not be asked to take the stump in favor of Governor Cox, because of his attitude at San Francisco, where he spoke bitterly against him in connection with prohibiton, although on several occasions he campaigned for Cox when the latter was a candidate for Governor of Ohio.

Mr. White expressed the opinion that the nominee was now the leader of the Democratic Party. "As the result of the San Francisco Convention, of which Governor Cox was the nominee, he will naturally be the party leader," said the Chairman.

While here Mr. White said that he would call upon President Wilson if invited, although no engagement has been made for him. He will endeavor to see Attorney General Palmer and solicit his activities in a speaking campaign. At the White House it was said today that it was doubtful whether the President would be able to see Mr. White before he leaves tomorrow.

Link Presidency and Congress Fight.

A complete agreement on plans for a vigorous campaign for the Democratic Presidential and Congressional nominees was reached at a conference today between Mr. White and Chairman H. D. Flood of the Democratic Congressional Committee. At this conference plans were drawn for a thorough co-ordination of the work of the two committees.

The National Committee will immediately establish offices at New York and Chicago. The principal headquarters will be in New York, where the campaign in the East will be directed. The Chicago headquarters will direct the campaign in the Central and Western States.

Chairman White expects to spend most of his time at the New York offices and make frequent trips to the Chicago and Washington offices. The permanent Washington office of the National Committee will be kept open for the preparation and distribution of literature and to serve as a connecting link with the activities here.

The Congressional Committee will direct its campaign from its offices in the Capitol. In order to maintain complete co-operation between the two committees, representatives of the Congressional Committee will have offices in the New York, Chicago and Washington headquarters of the National Committee. Representative Williams B. Oldfield of Arkansas, a member of the Congressional Committee, will represent the committee at the New York office of the National Committee.

Chairman Flood will go to New York next week for another conference with Chairman White. There will be frequent conferences in Washington and New York during the campaign between the Chairmen of the two committees and other leaders.

Calls Gift Limit Buncombe.

WASHINGTON, July 29 (Associated Press).—Funds for financing the Democratic National Campaign will be received in any amounts, and party leaders will be concerned only with the sources from which the money comes, George White, the National Chairman announced today. He characterized as "buncombe", the suggestion that campaign contributions be limited to $1,000 for each contributor.

Party heads will scrutinize carefully all campaign gifts in order that "no obligation will be entailed on the candidate," Mr. White asserted, adding that any plans to restrict the amounts of gifts would be useless, since such could be easily circumvented.

Democratic leaders, Mr. White said, were seeking to have the Senate committee investigating campaign expenses continue its operations. He added that it was particularly desired to bring to light the contributions to Republican State committees, but that thus far a way to accomplish this had not been found.

Mr. White referred to Ohio, Indiana and Illinois as the "battle grounds." The nominee is expected also to make a special speaking trip through New England, as well as most of the States in other parts of the country.

The selection of a campaign committee, numbering probably fifteen, will be announced soon. E. H. Moore, Governor Cox's pre-convention campaign manager, Mr. White indicated, will be appointed to the Campaign Committee. Financial arrangements will be left to Wilbur M. Marsh, the National Treasurer, who has been asked to organize a committee to direct the work.

Newspapermen Start Cox Club.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 29.—In memory of the time when James M. Cox was a "cub" reporter in Cincinnati and "covered" fires, weddings, murders and political gatherings, newspaper men here incorporated today the Newspaper Men's Cox Club of Cincinnati. They hope the newspaper men of the country may take up this movement. Robert F. Stayman of The Cincinnati Enquirer heads the list, with the object of promoting Cox's election as President.

M'ADOO WILL WORK FOR GOVERNOR COX

Predicts Vigorous and Aggressive Campaign After Conference with Chairman White.

William G. McAdoo will campaign for Governor Cox, of Ohio, his successful rival for the Democratic Presidential nomination. He said so yesterday in a statement as to his conference Wednesday night with Chairman George White of the Democratic National Committee and Charles Morris, Governor Cox's secretary.

Mr. McAdoo predicted a vigorous and aggressive campaign and dwelt upon the "serious menace" of the "formidable campaign fund" of the Republicans, calling for full fund publicity, that an election involving most serious issues might not be tainted with corruption. His statement says:

"Chairman White, of the Democratic National Committee, and Mr. Morris, secretary to Governor Cox, called on me at Huntington last night at the Governor's request to discuss the general political situation from the Democratic standpoint. Chairman White requested me to make some speeches in the campaign, which I, of course, gladly consented to do. A vigorous and aggressive campaign will be undertaken and no effort will be spared to make the people of the country acquainted not alone with Governor Cox's progressive ideas and purposes but to inform them of the exceptional record made by the Democratic Administration under President Wilson during the past seven years.

"The formidable campaign fund under control of the Republican National Committee and its serious menace in the forthcoming campaign was discussed. If the Senate Investigating Committee, of which Senator Kenyon, of Iowa, is Chairman, does its full duty, it will hold frequent sessions throughout the campaign and investigate fearlessly the sources from which is drawn the money to finance both the Republican and Democratic parties and the manner in which the money is expended. It is easy for contributors and political committees to evade the Federal corrupt practices law. Every subterfuge, such as subscriptions in the names of dummies and to State Committees instead of to National Committees, advertising by private individuals or syndicates, so as to avoid accounting to the Federal authorities, must be brought into the spot light of pitiless publicity. The people will not stand for a purchased Presidency.

"The problems before the country and the world are so grave that an election untainted by the corrupt use of money and determined by clean discussion and consideration of the issues themselves was never more necessary to the safety and security of American institutions.

"Governor Cox stands for a clean election, for full and pitiless publicity of campaign contributions and their uses, for progressive policies and the League of Nations. The Democratic platform and party offer the only refuge for the liberal and progressive elements of the country and for those who believe in universal disarmament and the prevention of war through an honorable association of the nations which will substitute arbitration for military force in the settlement of international disputes."

WALSH SEES COX; URGES HOME ISSUES

Senator Who Fought Article X. Thinks the Nominee Has Solution on Treaty.

ACCEPTANCE DRAFT READY

Governor Will Review Today Dayton Parade in Honor of His Nomination.

Special to The New York Times.

DAYTON, Ohio, July 29.—Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts, one of the little group of Democratic Senators who bolted in the League of Nations fight, and united with the Republicans, was in conference for three hours this evening with Governor James M. Cox.

Senator Walsh said that he was going the limit for Governor Cox and that he believed him to be the new party leader and advocate of progressive principles about whom all elements of the Democratic Party could rally. He also predicted that great numbers of Progressive Republicans would desert the Harding leadership which, he said, they realized meant a step backward.

The visit of Senator Walsh was looked upon as of great importance. He apparently was satisfied that he could whole-heartedly enter the fight to make Cox President.

There were other developments of interest today which indicated that the various elements of the party are accepting the Cox leadership as satisfactory and are going to join in the move to bring a united party into the campaign for the nominee.

Reed to Attend Notification.

Word was received that Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, who ranked as one of the bitterest opponents of the League during the fight in the Senate, had made arrangements to attend the Cox notification exercises here on Aug. 7th. Reservations have also been made by Secretary of Agriculture Meredith, who was a candidate for President and Vice President at the San Francisco Convention.

A message received here to-day from George White, the new National Chairman of the party, was to the effect that he had found a remarkable unanimity of opinion among the Democratic leaders of all shades of belief that Governor Cox was not only a strong candidate, but one whom they could support without hesitation.

The words "Peace, Progress and Prosperity" have been suggested as an official campaign slogan for the Democratic Party. It is stated that 2,000,000 posters bearing the slogan are being prepared for distribution.

Puts Progressive Policies First.

Senator Walsh's visit was the outstanding development of the day. He said that he did not believe the League of Nations would be the great issue of the campaign, despite the fact that Republican leaders, in the absence of any other issue, were endeavoring to shape the fight thus. Progressive policies, Senator Walsh felt sure, would be the great issue, and he believed that Governor Cox represented this movement better than any other man who had been suggested for the nomination.

"In my opinion," said Senator Walsh, "this campaign is going to be a clear-cut fight on domestic issues. That's what the people are anxious to find out about; to know how the candidate stands and what he proposes to do in the event of his election.

"I do not regard the Peace Treaty as the paramount issue of the campaign. I believe that the Democratic nominee should not stress it too emphatically. The country needs a man who will give his attention to strictly American problems for awhile. There are many big domestic problems which must be dealt with.

"I have supported Governor Cox because I regard him as the most liberal and progressive man the Democrats could have named. I feel certain that if he will attack the profiteering problem with all of his energy and offer a clean-cut remedy the Democrats will sweep the country. The people are much more concerned about profiteering than they are about the League of Nations.

"I have been familiar with Governor Cox's attitude on the League for a long time. My purpose in offering the plank which was adopted at the San Francisco convention was to make it possible for the nominee to go before the country without being pledged to the ratification of the Peace Treaty without the dotting of an 'i' or the crossing of a 't.' If I had my way, of course, I would have Article X. entirely eliminated.

"Mr. Cox has made it plain that he does not insist on the adoption of the treaty without the dotting of an 'i' or the crossing of a 't.' While it has been said that President Wilson felt that way, there never has been a specific announcement to that effect from the White House. There are many Democrats who believe that the treaty should not be adopted unless there are reservations which define our obligations, so that there may be no doubt in that connection."

Thinks Cox Has Treaty Solution.

Senator Walsh was asked if he believed that Governor Cox had reached a solution of the treaty problem upon which all elements in the Democratic Party could agree.

"Yes, I think he has," was the reply.

Senator Walsh said that he felt he could indorse the stand which Governor Cox takes on the treaty. He declared that he was one of the first Democrats to suggest the nomination of Governor Cox at San Francisco. As a delegate from Massachusetts, Mr. Walsh said, he had worked hard for Cox and voted for his nomination on every roll call.

"It is time somebody reached a solution of the League problem," said Senator Walsh, "so as to get the League out of the way and take up the big domestic problems which confront the nation."

Concerning the Irish question, Senator Walsh said that he did not believe it would enter the campaign to any serious degree. "We are going to vote as Americans," he said, "on American problems."

Senator Walsh had dinner tonight with Governor Cox at Trails End and they went over various phases of the campaign at length. He went away apparently greatly pleased by the conference and enthusiastic over the chances of Governor Cox being elected.

Walsh to Take the Stump.

Mr. Walsh left for the East at 9:30 o'clock tonight. He announced that he would take the stump for Cox, and made this formal statement:

"I had a very pleasant talk with Governor Cox. I was impressed with his sincere intention of making a clean-cut fight along progressive lines, in which a sharp division will be drawn between the progressive and the reactionary thought of the country."

Senator Walsh said that he did not discuss the League of Nations in detail with the Governor.

This feeling of confidence has been shown by all of those who have visited the Governor and talked over the issues with him. Practically every visitor has expressed the greatest satisfaction over the fighting trend which the talk of Governor Cox took. They have appeared satisfied that he was determined to go out among the people and make one of the most vigorous campaigns in the history of American politics.

Governor Cox completed the rough draft of his address of acceptance late today. The speech in its final form probably will contain about 8,000 words that advance copies will be ready for. It will be sent to the printer soon so distribution on Saturday.

There will be a big local celebration in Dayton tomorrow in honor of Governor Cox's nomination, and the Governor will leave the seclusion of Trails End for the first time in a week to review the parade. Extensive arrangements are being made and the streets of the city are being gayly decorated. Governor Cox said today that he did not expect to make an address on the occasion.

MALONE TOPS STATE THIRD PARTY TICKET

Ex-Collector of Port Is Designated for Governor by Farmer-Labor Conferees.

Dudley Field Malone will be the candidate for Governor on the Farmer-Labor ticket in this State, leaders of the newly formed national party announced yesterday, after an all-day conference at their Hotel Continental headquarters. Miss Rose Schneiderman, leader of women's labor organizations, will be the candidate for United States Senator.

Mr. Malone, once Assistant Secretary of State, ex-Collector of the Port of New York, and advocate of woman suffrage, civil liberties and Irish independence, issued a statement saying he would accept, comparing the Farmer-Labor Party to the British Labor Party and announcing that it would aim to scale down the high cost of living through taking necessary industrial enterprises "out of the control of private capitalists."

Other designations made by the conferees were: Lieutenant Governor—R. E. Haffey, Rochester; Secretary of State—William Auyer, Watertown; State Treasurer—Joseph Cronk, Troy; State Controller—Mrs. William J. Fincke, Katonah; Attorney General—F. R. Serri, Brooklyn. Names of the two nominees for the Court of Appeals will be announced within the next two days.

It was said at the headquarters last night that the national heads of the party would co-operate with local leaders to make a vigorous campaign throughout the State. Bureaus are to be established for the organization of trades union districts and agricultural territories, and to seek the women's vote. Organizers, it was said, would be dispatched at once to perfect the organization which was started before the State convention at Schenectady, on May 29 and 30. At that convention about 500 trade union delegates, representing seven large central bodies and labor organizations from every industrial centre in the State, nominated candidates for State offices but left the designation for Governor and other major offices open for yesterday's action.

Mr. Malone's Statement.

"Men and women leaders," said Mr. Malone in his formal statement of acceptance, "representing labor, farm and liberal groups in the nation and State, have insisted that it is my duty to accept the nomination for the Governorship and lead the fight for the Farmer-Labor Party in New York State. I have no choice but to accept and to serve. In the midst of great suffering and unrest in America this is no time for any man or woman to shirk responsibility.

"Ninety per cent. of the liberals, with all the labor and farm delegates who met recently in Chicago, formed a militant third party which is here to stay. It is here to stay because thoughtful men and women throughout the United States want a new party and a new deal. With a Democratic President and a Republican Congress the high cost of living, all unchecked, has become a curse in every American home. The big profiteers of the nation, out of the suffering of our people, are living in luxury. And out of war profits there are three millionaires for every doughboy who lies dead in France.

Would Take Over Utilities.

"The third party platform would smash down the high cost of living not only by putting the profiteers in jail, but by taking from our exploiters the resources through which the people are robbed. This new third party demands that the meat industry, electric light and power companies, gas companies, coal mines, railroads and all other combinations which now control natural resources and vital public utilities ministering to the necessities of our lives shall become public enterprises in fact as well as in theory.

"The Farmer-Labor Party, like the British Labor Party in England, is a class party only in the respect that it calls to its comradeship industrial workers, clerical workers, farmers, artists, technical experts, professional groups and, indeed, every man and woman in the country who earns his own living and gives useful service by the skill of his hands or the creative genius of his brain."

The conference group which has been in session at the Hotel Continental, awaiting the arrival of Perley P. Christensen, Presidential candidate, includes Max Hayes of Cleveland, candidate for Vice President; John Fitzpatrick of Chicago, President of the Chicago Federation of Labor; William Kohn, Chairman of the Farmer-Labor Party of Greater New York; Captain Swinburne Hale, Robert Buck, Abraham Leftkowitz, Miss Schneiderman, Marie Tudor Garland; John Walker, President of the Illinois Federation of Labor and the party's choice for Governor of Illinois, and Frank Esper, National Secretary of the new party.

ASSAILS COX AND WILSON.

Watson Would Join Senate Group Fighting "Autocracy."

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 29.—Thomas E. Watson, former Populist leader, announced today the platform on which he will run for the United States Senate. He denounced the President and members of the Cabinet, especially Attorney General Palmer, and declared himself opposed to the League of Nations, "root and branch, with or without reservations."

He also took a shot at Governor Cox, of whom he said that as President "he would find some defect in Wilson's amateurish work, and would leave the country to be gone a year or so, if possible, to make lovely speeches concerning Heaven, Hedjaz or hell."

Watson paid tribute to "such intrepid Senators as Reed, Shields, Borah and Johnson," adding that he wanted to go to the Senate "to join that illustrious band which has stood as a barrier against Wilson's becoming the first emperor of the world."

Senator Hoke Smith, candidate for re-election, has opposed the League without "substantial reservations." Governor Dorsey is expected to announce his candidacy for the Senate soon, and to make his League position square with the platform adopted by the San Francisco Convention.

HARDING DISCUSSES CAMPAIGN FINANCES

Chicago Committee Tells Him of Their Organization, Which Is to Serve as a Model.

BIG POPULAR FUND PLANNED

Nominee Is Making Porch Engagements for Next Month, but May Attend Farmers' Meeting in St. Paul

Special to The New York Times.

MARION, Ohio, July 29.—Campaign finances were discussed by Senator Harding this morning with forty members of the Republican National Committee's finance campaign organization for the city of Chicago.

As explained to Senator Harding, the organization perfected in Chicago for raising a popular campaign fund will be duplicated in other cities. Based on an Executive Committee of twenty-five members, who are Directors of the entire voluunteer organization, volunteers are divided into three divisions of workers, each division comprising ten teams of ten men, each with a team Captain. Including the general officers, this makes a total campaign finance organization for the city of Chicago of 330 men.

They plan to conduct an intensive campaign for subscriptions with card indexes of possible contributors, which will be divided among the teams of volunteer workers. It is expected that the Chicago drive will last for one week. Later there will be formed an auxiliary popular organization through which all Chicago Republicans will be approached and given opportunity to contribute according to their means and interest.

The Chicago delegation, headed by Fred W. Upham, Treasurer of the Republican National Committee and General Chairman of the Chicago Executive Committee, arrived here early this morning and had breakfast at the Marion Club with Senator Harding. Later they marched to the Harding home, where they met Mrs. Harding, and spent a couple of hours visiting and discussing campaign matters. Then they walked to the train with the Senator.

"This campaign is going to be financed by a truly popular fund," Mr. Upham said. "Arizona is going to contribute its share, in proper portion, just exactly as New York or Chicago will do. The idea of a popular fund has appealed strongly to the rank and file of the party.

"Today's party came down simply to call on Senator Harding, pay their respects, and to give those who had not previously met him the privilege of getting acquainted. Everybody is delighted with the trip and with our visit to the Senator and Mrs. Harding."

Members of Delegation.

Among the Chicago delegation here today were Robert McCormick Adams, Ivan O. Ackley, former President of the Chicago Real Estate Board; James A. Patton of the Chicago Board of Trade, John M. Glenn, Secretary of the Illinois Manufacturers' Association; Harry Merrick, President of the Great Lakes Trust Company; Colonel Nathan W. McChesney, Illinois manager for General Wood's pre-convention campaign; Charles Piez, former head of the United States Shipping Board, and Andrew Russell, Illinois State Auditor.

F. C. Barber, who came with the Chicago delegation, declared that every State in the East is certain to be overwhelming for Harding and that the West is rapidly getting into the same attitude.

"The people are realizing," he said, "that the big objective in this campaign is to win a victory that will return the country to the ideals and standards of sound Americanism. That is making a powerful appeal. The people understand what it means, and they are for it. Observing Senator and Mrs. Harding here today greeting their guests, I was impressed that the whole thing can be expressed in one phrase of two words: 'Wholesome Americanism.' They represent precisely the sort of people that the country wants to see restored to the control of national affairs."

Before leaving Marion, Mr. Upham delivered a check for $15,000 to the Marion Civic Association for debts incurred by the Republican National Committee in connection with arrangements for notification day. The Civic Association has ceased to function in connection with the reception of visiting delegations.

Makes Porch Engagements for Month.

Present indications are that Senator Harding will not supplement his front-porch campaign by speaking tours over the country for at least a month. Engagements for front-porch speeches are being made for the remainder of August, the aim being to secure pilgrimages, not of geographical divisions, but of groups interested in special subjects connected with the campaign.

Strong pressure is being brought on the Senator to attend a convention of Minnesota farmers at St. Paul the first week in September. More than 100,000 farmers are expected during the week, and it was thought probable at Harding headquarters that Mr. Harding would accept the invitation, with a speech on the way in Chicago.

Former Secretary of the Treasury Leslie M. Shaw called on Senator Harding today. After leaving the Senator Mr. Shaw said:

"I was greatly pleased, but not at all surprised, to find Senator Harding thinking not so much of how he can get the office to which he aspires as of what he can do with it when he gets it. The man who has vision in private affairs is sometimes called a financier. The man who has clear vision in public affairs is entitled to be called a statesman. The candidate who clearly sees Election Day only is a politician. To the extent that a candidate sees beyond Election Day he is greater than a politician. Senator Harding has vision in public affairs and clearly sees far beyond Election Day.

Counts Ohio for Harding.

MARION, Ohio, July 29 (Associated Press).—The Ohio situation was discussed by Senator Harding today with George H. Clark, Chairman of the Republican State Advisory Committee, who declared that even with the Democrats making the State one of their principal battlegrounds, there was no doubt of Republican success.

"Ohio is Republican," said Mr. Clark in a formal statement. "She will exceed her record in her plurality for Harding and Coolidge.

"I speak out of knowledge and a survey of every county and community in the State indicates beyond doubt the overwhelming victory of the Republican Party. This survey has been made by the experienced representatives of the State Committee and has covered county and precinct."

Senator Harding discussed Chinese conditions with Dr. Hiram Lowry, President emeritus of Peking University, who brought the greetings and good wishes of the Chinese President. The nominee asked many questions about the attitude of the Chinese people, and Dr. Lowry told him they all were looking to the United States for their example of representative government.

McCORMICK TO BE HAYS'S AID.

National Committee Picks Senator to be Chief in Chicago.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 29.—Senator Medill McCormick was selected yesterday as the principal lieutenant of Chairman Will H. Hays of the Republican National Committee in the management of the Harding and Coolidge campaign. Senator McCormick will spend most of his time in Chicago.

The Democratic National Committee sent word today to George E. Brennan, Illinois Democratic leader, that three headquarters will be opened, in New York, Chicago and San Francisco, which will act much as do the regional offices for the Republican National Committee. William H. O Brien of Indiana, former State Auditor, and for a number of years head of the State Committee, has been mentioned as head of the Chicago headquarters. Senator King of Utah probably will take charge of the western campaign, while National Chairman White will spend most of his time in New York.

10,000 STRIKERS MARCH AT FUR MAN'S FUNERAL

Ninety Extra Policemen Stationed Along Route, but There Is No Disorder.

Thousands of striking fur workers, and hundreds of other men and women, attended the funeral yesterday of Max Yurman, a fur striker who was killed by Patrolman Trimble of the West 152d Street Precinct Tuesday when attempting to flee in an automobile after an attack upon A. Joseph Komarow, a furrier at 3,826 Broadway.

At the end of the orthodox Jewish services in Beethoven Hall, 210 Fifth Street, the hearse, followed by more than 10,000 marchers, proceeded South on Second Avenue to Yurman's late home at 137 Suffolk Street, making its way from there to the Williamsburg Bridge and thence to Mt. Hebron Cemetery.

Because of the large crowd, ninety policemen were stationed at various points along the march, but they had little to do. There was no disorder on the part of the strikers. In the crowd in front of Yurman's house one man was seen to be jostling those about him. Detectives Herman and Brown of the Bomb Squad alleged he placed a hand in the pocket of one of the men. They arrested him. He gave his name as David Noman of 3 Avenue B.

BLINDED BY WOOD ALCOHOL.

Poison in "Whisky" Sailor Gives to Captain of Lighter.

Gardiner V. Goold, 59 years old, Captain of a lighter owned by the Pennsylvania Railroad, lying at the Bush Terminal in Brooklyn, was made permanently blind yesterday morning when he drank a liquid containing wood alcohol. He was removed to the Kings County Hospital, where Dr. Mortimer C. Jones, Superintendent of the hospital, declared his case was hopeless, as the poison had atrophied the nerves of both eyes.

Goold took the liquor Wednesday at the offer of a sailor from a foreign port, who said he had purchased the "whisky" on the other side of the Atlantic.

When Goold was placed on a cot at the hospital he asked: "How long are they going to keep me in this dark room?" It was explained the sun was streaming across his cot and that he had been totally blinded by the wood alcohol. Goold will be removed to Sailors' Snug Harbor.

SUFFRAGISTS LACK 21 TENNESSEE VOTES

Republicans Redouble Efforts to Insure Ratification at Special Session.

ASK LEGISLATORS' PLEDGES

Chairman Fess of Congress Committee and Colorado Chairman Urge Importance to Party.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—The National Woman's Party announced tonight that without counting the twelve vacancies to be filled in a special election on Aug. 5, the Tennessee Legislature shows at present six votes lacking for ratification of the suffrage amendment in the Senate and fifteen in the House.

The poll, with three vacancies in the Senate, shows twenty-three Democratic and seven Republican Senators. Of the seventeen votes necessary in the Senate, eleven are pledged. Of these eight are Democratic and three are Republican.

With nine of the ninety-nine seats in the House vacant, there are sixty-one Democratic and twenty-eight Republican members. Thirty-five of the necessary fifty votes are assured for ratification. Twenty-five of these are Democratic and ten Republican.

Republican party leaders, the Woman's Party states, are urging Republican legislators to vote for ratification. Simeon D. Fess, Chairman of the National Republican Congress Committee, has written to the individual legislators asking for pledges to vote for ratification. R. L. Holland, Colorado State Chairman, has written to H. H. Clements of Knoxville, State Chairman of Tennessee, asking him to "use the full influence" of his position to obtain ratification.

The Executive Committee of the Harding and Coolidge Republican League has telegraphed individual legislators urging pledges for ratification.

Chairman Fess's letter follows:

"I am convinced that it is of the greatest importance to our party to secure open pledges from the entire Republican delegation in the Tennessee Legislature. In view of our failure in Delaware to ratify and our inability to secure special sessions from the Governors of Vermont and Connecticut, Republican States, it is most advisable that the Republicans in the Legislature of your State give a unanimous vote and announce their stand on suffrage as soon as possible, so that the Republicans in Tennessee, which promises to be the thirty-sixth State to ratify, will maintain the excellent record on suffrage which our party has established."

The letter sent to Chairman Clements by Mr. Holland reads:

"Now that the Governor of your State has decided to call a special session of the Legislature to consider ratifying the suffrage amendment, I feel it my duty as a Republican and as representing the Republican organization in Colorado to urge you to use the full influence of your official position to the end that women may be enfranchised in every State in time to vote in the Presidential election this Fall.

"In my judgment no greater mistake could be made than for Tennessee to falter in the full discharge of its duty at this time. The record of our party on this matter of common justice to the women of this country is the source of great pride. Let us see to it that the record is not marred.

"We in the States which have ratified are powerless to do more than to urge the paramount importance of complete enfranchisement of women in national elections upon you in States yet to ratify.

"If you will pardon me for so bold an assertion, I will say that in my judgment you cannot serve the Republican Party quite so effectually in any other way, so I most respectfully urge you to prompt and vigorous action in the cause of suffrage."

The Harding and Coolidge Republican League's telegram was as follows:

"This organization regards it extremely important for Republican success in November that every Republican member of the State Legislature votes for the woman suffrage amendment. Please wire me if we can count on your vote."

DEPUTY SHERIFF SLAIN BY TRAPPED BANDITS

Five of Michigan Band Captured in Cottage After Looting Bank.

JACKSON, Mich., July 29.—Deputy Sheriff Worden was instantly killed, Deputy Sheriff Kutt was wounded and two bandits were shot in a battle late today between a Sheriff's posse and a band of robbers who looted the Farmers' State Bank at Grass Lake, twelve miles east of here, this afternoon. Six men, five of whom were said to be members of the band, were captured after the fight.

The robbers were surrounded in a Summer cottage near Wolff Lake. The loot, consisting of approximately $10,000 in cash and bonds, was recovered. Officers believe two of the bandits are still at large and that one of them received severe wounds. Search for them was being continued tonight.

The robbers locked the cashier of the bank and two customers in the cage and fled in an automobile. It was reported that they next robbed a resort hotel at Mack Lake and then took refuge in a swamp. They cut telephone wires to delay pursuit.

According to Deputy Sheriff Miller, Deputy Worden pursued the robbers to the second floor of the cottage and was shot and instantly killed.

SIFT POULTRY TRUST CHARGE

Hirshfield to Investigate Alleged Injuries to Independent Dealers.

Commissioner of Accounts Hirshfield announced yesterday that he would begin a series of public hearings next Monday at 10 A. M. in connection with an investigation of charges that a poultry trust exists in New York, as a result of which independent dealers have been "threatened, intimidated and beaten." In his announcement of the inquiry which was ordered by the Mayor the Commissioner said:

"It is alleged that the slaughter house men who own the various slaughter houses for the killing of live poultry in the city have formed four corporations, and it is claimed that slaughter house men who refuse to join the corporations have been threatened, intimidated and beaten, and their wagons and trucks have from time to time met with suspicious accidents while loaded with poultry consigned to dealers not in the combine.

"Many of the slaughter houses heretofore catering to retail dealers have been either closed or are maintained as small retail places, and the killing of live poultry in those places has entirely ceased. These respective corporations in their localities completely control the entire supply of poultry coming into the sections, and retail dealers are in no position to obtain poultry except by purchase from these corporations at prices fixed by them."

The Commissioner added further charges that during the Jewish Passover holidays, when the demand for poultry was large, "exorbitant prices were exacted and supplies were kept in the slaughter houses unsold to cause a shortage and force an increase in price."

While Commissioner Hirshfield was planning for an inquiry into the poultry business retail butchers of the city were laying out a campaign "to educate the housewife in the economical buying of meat." The announcement stated that the plans for a national campaign will be presented at the annual convention of the United Master Butchers of America at the Hotel Pennsylvania next month.

CANTU RAISES ARMY TO RESIST FEDERALS

Recruits Rally from All Over Lower California—Chinese Offer Funds.

MEXICALI, Lower California, July 29.—On Mexicali's Plaza del Toro, the scene of many bullfights in the past, recruits were drilling today for service in the army Governor Cantu hopes to use against the "invading" Federals. Recruits have been coming so fast, the Governor said, that he hoped to obtain a force of at least 5,000.

From many parts of Lower California, it was announced, Governor Cantu has received telegrams promising support. Mexicali Chinese, many of them wealthy, called on the Governor and offered to subscribe any sum be needed to aid him. They said they were adverse to enlisting until they had received consent from China's representatives at Washington and Mexico City.

Three recruiting offices were busy until late last night enrolling men. Governor Cantu expects an attack at Ensenada in about seven days and at a Colorado River point in about four days.

Dr. Henry M. Hill, Consul General of Panana in the Republic of San Salvador, was released here today, according to his statement, after he had been held nearly four weeks by Mexican authorities.

He said he was arrested at Ensenada, Lower California, while on a vacation, for having taken some pictures. He said he was suspected of being a spy for Provisional President de la Huerta.

NOGALES, Arizona, July 29.—The Federal Government of Mexico will send all the troops necessary into Lower California to subdue Governor Cantu, who is reported in revolt against the de la Huerta Régime, General P. Elias Calles, Mexican Secretary of War and Marine, said.

Cantu Refused to Meet Huerta.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 29.—Mexico's provisional authorities decided to attempt to eliminate Governor Estaban Cantu of Lower California after the Governor recently refused President de la Huerta's invitation to go to Mexico City for a conference. Baldomero A. Almada, who at one time was named Cantu's successor, declared here today.

Governor Cantu, it was said, declined the invitation on the ground that the situation in his territory was "too delicate for him to leave."

Almada said the conference was requested by de la Huerta, in keeping with a policy of conciliation and friendship toward Senor Cantu.

Cantu recently refused to give up his office to Almada, who had been named by the Provisional President as Governor. At that time Almada announced that he had recommended to the provisional Government that 5,000 troops be sent to occupy this district.

United States officials here announced today that sharp watch will be kept to see that no arms or ammunition are shipped across the border into Lower California. Belief has been expressed that Mexicans here may attempt to aid Governor Cantu.

BRENT ALLINSON FREED.

Gets a Year Off After Serving Two Years in Leavenworth.

Special to The New York Times.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., July 29.—Brent Dow Allinson, who in 1919 wrote to Secretary Baker and asserted that he could not bring himself "to learn the art of butchering youths of his own age," was released from the penitentiary at Fort Leavenworth today. He boarded a Chicago train immediately. It is stated that the remaining year of Allinson's sentence has been commuted.

The young man complained a week ago that he was ill and that officials of the prison had treated him.

A Washington dispatch quotes a War Department official as saying:

"Allinson has been in for two years. The disposition is to drop all those cases. It was felt that two years was a pretty good dose."

PONZI TO START 'BANK' IN NEW YORK

terest me any more than it interests bankers. These coupons are used as currency in Europe. My secret is how I cash the coupons. I do not tell it to anybody. Let the United States find it out if it can."

Attorney General, District Attorney Pelletier and Assistant United States Attorney Gallagher are all busy with their investigations, but none of these officials is saying much as to their progress.

Ponzi said today that the idea of buying coupons came to him last August when he was considering issuing an export magazine. "Now I buy international coupons by the hundreds of thousands, by the millions, and exchange them for postage stamps," he said.

"I wrote a man in Spain regarding the proposed magazine and in reply received an international coupon which I was to exchange for American postage stamps with which to send a copy of the publication. The coupon in Spain cost the equivalent of about one cent in American money. I got six cents in stamps for the coupon here.

"Then I investigated the rates of exchange in other countries. I tried it out in a small way first. It worked. The first month $1,000 became $15,000. I began letting in my friends.

"First I accept deposits on my note, giving my note, payable in ninety days, for $150 for each $100 received. Though promised in ninety days I have been paying in forty-five days.

"I convert the American dollars into Italian lire, of other country where the exchange rate is wide. My Italian, or other agents, purchase international reply coupons which, under the international agreement in force in many countries, are redeemable at normal and not at the prevailing rate of exchange. The coupons, in turn, are transmitted to Holland, then to Rumania, Bulgaria, France, Spain or Greece, or any country which is in the postal agreement and where the rate of exchange makes the profit possible.

"The proceeds are then converted into American dollars, the accumulated profit averaging about 400 per cent.

"I have never made the statement that I exchanged any coupons in this country, and I do not intend to do so. These stamp coupons are used as currency in Europe. My secret is 'How do I cash the coupons?' That is what I do not tell."

NEW POSTAL EXCHANGE RATES

But Officials Deny Change Is Result of Ponci Scheme.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—New conversion rates for use in the exchange of money by international postal money orders were announced today by the Post Office Department, effective Aug. 15. This is the first change since pre-war days.

The new rates as announced are: On Great Britain, $4 for one pound; on the Netherlands, 38 cents for one florin; for Sweden, 24 cents for one krona; for Denmark and Norway, 20 cents for one krona; for France, Belgium and Italy, $1 for 10.30 francs.

Under the new rates $50 in American money will buy 515 Belgian or French francs or Italian lire, 257.50 Swiss francs, 250 Danish or Norwegian krona, 208.33 Swedish krona, or 131.58 Dutch florins.

Officials of the Post Office Department declared that the new rates did not result from any scheme by individuals or corporations to profit by foreign exchange differences. They added that under arrangements included in the international postal agreements there was no way by which profits could be made through speculation in international postal money orders.

Officials are still very skeptical that Ponzi, the Boston "50 per cent. in ninety days" man, made his huge profits through operations in international reply coupons.

They said that they could not see how Ponzi could have accumulated $8,500,000 in such a short time through the manipulation of stamps at six cents each. Post office inspectors in Boston are delving into every aspect of the case.

No estimate has been made of the number of international reply coupons issued this year.

LEADERS GLOOMY AFTER SARATOGA

Republican Chiefs, Departing in Haste, See Bad Primary Clash Ahead.

NEW BLAST BY THOMPSON

Hugo's Course Not Certain—Hooker May Enter Contest at the Polls.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., July 29.—The Republicans have evacuated Saratoga. Their hurried departure had almost the air of a retreat before an hostile army and, in fact, the Democratic hosts will march in and occupy next week the place that has been a Republican camping ground this week.

Forebodings had followed close in the wake of the Republican convention. The leaders went away gravely convinced that they would begin their campaign this year with a serious primary fight on their hands.

Senator Thompson of Niagara after marching out of the convention hall, "in a body," as if a host in himself, made sure that the leaders should not remain in doubt on the subject by making public a statement, which was followed today by another, intended to mark only one more note in a crescendo of bitterness.

Senator Thompson, accompanied by J. Frank Smith of Lockport, his campaign manager, was one of the last of the Republican convention attendants to depart. He went to New York to obtain larger campaign headquarters. Before leaving he said that in the next four weeks he would make an automobile tour of every county outside of New York City. The last weeks before the primaries he will spend in New York City campaigning.

In today's statement he said in part:

"I resent the imputation sent forth by Judge Miller's expert propaganda bureau that there is any evidence of unfitness simply because a man openly, fairly and candidly becomes a candidate for public office, or that because a candidate is backed by so much money that he can afford to go to the woods and pretend that he is not a candidate, while his friends go about advocating him and forcing people who don't want to be for him, makes him greater than any other candidate.

"If there was ever a convention in twenty years that had a candidate forced upon it by the candidate himself, yesterday was the time. Judge Miller's attempt to make it appear that he was drafted was so overplayed as to be ridiculous.

"A good example of Mr. Miller's State is shown by the ticket he has picked. The Judges and Attorney General and Engineer were simply to succeed themselves. Of four remaining available places the Judge gives three to present subordinates in the Controller's office. Why?

"Have the recent statements in a New York newspaper covering transactions in the Controller's office and consequent withdrawal of the Controller as a candidate for Governor been responsible for this, or does the Judge, an ex-Controller, himself seek now to guarantee a suppressive administration by spreading the influence of the Controller to include Lieutenant Governor and Secretary of State?"

Elon R. Hooker, while he said that he would support Judge Miller for Governor, has made no pledge to keep out of the fight for the Senatorship. He admitted today that he was surprised at the size of the vote he received in the convention against Senator Wadsworth. He added that he had been approached by Republican women, opposed to Wadsworth, who had urged him to enter the fight, but that he had not made up his mind whether to do so or not.

With a Thompson fight certain and a Hooker fight looming up it is certain that the heads of Republican leaders everywhere will rest uneasily for many nights to come, until a decision has been reached by the former Progressive who is wealthy enough to finance his own fight, should he decide to make one.

Chairman Glynn smiled and shrugged his shoulders when his attention was called before he left Saratoga to the threats of the Secretary of State, P. M. Hugo, to appeal to the primaries from the decision of the convention. Friends of Mr. Glynn said the Chairman felt so certain of Mr. Hugo backing out of the fight that he was offering to make bets on it. One thing that is said to bother Hugo is the question of funds.

Mr. Hugo, according to word from Albany this evening, will go to his home in Watertown, tomorrow, to consult his friends. When he returns to the Capitol next week, it was stated, he would be in a position to say whether he would enter the primaries against Miller or not.

CHIDES GUAM'S GOVERNOR.

LONDON, Friday, July 30.—The Daily News in editorial comment on a report that the American Governor of Guam had placed a ban an whistling says:

"Either the inhabitants of Guam whistle execrably or Captain Gilmer possesses an execrable liver. In any case the decree seems to be sadly out of harmony with the liberty-loving traditions of the great American race. Not even in Soviet Russia, with its countless limitations, has any human being ever been denied the joyous right of whistling to his heart's content."

CONFESSES MURDER; YOUTH DIED FOR IT

Rochester after he had committed 15 burglaries. He said he was seventeen and one-half years old when he committed the murder. Governor Smith was informed from other sources, however, that the youth was about nineteen. Nobody has over been executed in the Sing Sing chair, it is said, under twenty years of age.

Expresses Hope for Clemency.

Talking with Rev. Dr. A. N. Petersen, the Protestant chaplain, Hyatt said last night:

"I hope Governor Smith gives me a chance for life. If he does I'll make good."

As the hours wore on he waited vainly for a favorable report from Albany where his brother, H. C. Hyatt, was pleading with the Governor to commute Elmer's sentence to life imprisonment.

Before supper Elmer's mother, Mrs. Thomas Doughty, his sister and his brother who had come from Rochester, visited the condemned youth. Mrs. Doughty had circulated a petition to the Governor asking clemency for Elmer. It was signed by some of the jurors who convicted the youth.

Dr. Petersen accompanied Hyatt on his walk to the execution chamber. There John Hulbert, the executioner, was waiting at the death switch, and Dr. Amos O. Squire, chief prison physician, signal for the current. Major Lewis E. Lawes, the Warden, witnessed the execution, with a dozen other spectators.

BOLSHEVIST SPIRIT IS SHAKING POLAND

Paris Hears from Allied Mission That Warsaw May Turn Red Any Moment.

Some Poles Doubt If Armistice Will Come—More Restiveness in Germany.

By WALTER DURANTY.

PARIS, July 29.—Will the Red flag be flying over Warsaw before the Bolshevist army gets within a hundred miles of the Polish capital, is a question that is being asked here.

Reports received from the allied mission depict the internal situation of Poland as hardly less alarming than that at the front. Strict censorship is maintained over the Polish newspapers, and the fact that revolutionary propaganda naturally works underground tended to blind the permanent French Military Mission to the internal danger. Their attention was concentrated upon military matters, and as usual with missions in a friendly country, they had adopted to a marked extent the viewpoint of the Polish Government, whose optimism had been stimulated by the fine response to the call for volunteers to save the country from invasion.

The newcomers had more independent judgment, and General Weygand in particular, who is a man of broad view and high political ability, as well as a soldier, was immediately struck by an ominous conclusion to be drawn from the fact that the military disasters were in a large degree due to the unreliability (in some cases even mutinies) of the soldiers in at least one case. An important bridge was blown up many miles behind the line in Ukraine and the breakdown of communications led to a precipitate and disastrous retreat on a wide front.

General Weygand concluded that if there was dissatisfaction in the army, which was comparatively well clothed and nourished, matters were likely to be worse in regard to the civil population, among whom the Bolshevist propaganda could work almost unchecked, aided by four allies—disease, hunger, unemployment and fear.

From the day of its recreation as an independent State Poland has been involved in a vicious circle, due more to the circumstances caused by the war than to the unwisdom of its leaders whose "mad imperialism" has been so much criticised of late. Owing to the successive waves of invasion that swept across the industrial sections of Poland the country's economic life was at a standstill.

The allied wish (and naturally the Polish also) to erect a strong barrier against Bolshevism led to the creation of a large Polish army which was equipped, supplied, trained and at first paid for by the Allies. This prevented the Poles from utilizing whatever chance they might have had of getting their industries started again.

Then the vicious circle developed. The needs of the army caused a financial breakdown which made the reopening of factories impossible and led to unemployment and hunger among the civil population. But this lack of employment made it next to impossible to demobilize the soldiers, who would have been thrown into a hopeless position.

The only chance of escape from the vicious circle, they felt, was the utilization of the army to achieve a military success so large as to produce offers of financial and other assistance from the western world on a scale big enough to put the country on its feet again. So the Poles took the chance of a drive at Ukraine. The coup failed.

There have been strikes, food riots and riots by the unemployed in the principal Polish cities in recent months. Recently a munitions factory on the outskirts of Warsaw was blown up by Bolshevist sympathizers, who are growing bolder as the Red tide rises.

For the moment the arrival of a new allied mission and the promises of armed help from the Allies checked the revolutionary movement, but now there is apparently a revulsion of feeling.

The revolutionaries have a new argument. "The Bolsheviki are your friends, not your enemies. They want to save you from the Polish and foreign imperialists and capitalists who have betrayed you.

PARIS, July 29 (Associated Press).—The Franco-British mission to Poland has made a report on the military situation in that country, which, it declares, is not so desperate but that it can be retrieved without great difficulty if the mission's three main recommendations are followed.

The mission reports that the Polish man power is satisfactory, both as to quality and quantity, although most of the army services are poorly organized. It recommends, first, the immediate sending of munitions to Poland; second, the immediate employment of 600 French officers and 200 British officers; and, third, a regrouping of the Polish Army, notably the moving of troops from the Galician front to the northern front.

In connection with these recommendations it can be added, first, that it has been decided that France is to send munitions immediately via Danzig—the French have said they have not shipped any munitions to Poland since its offensive began, more than two months ago.

Second, 600 French officers, whom it is intended Poland shall place at once in responsible positions, belong mostly to the permanent French military mission to Poland, the remainder having accompanied the Franco-British mission—these officers went to Poland as instructors, but have not been allowed real power by General Joseph Pilsudski, President of Poland and head of the army.

But for the age old hatred between the Poles and the Russians such an appeal would be irrestible and the Bolshevist propagandists are striving every nerve to break down that hostility.

REDS PUSH DRIVE; NO SIGN OF TRUCE

Warsaw Papers Are Skeptical That Armistice Will Be Effected—Heavy Fighting in Galicia.

WARSAW, July 29 (Associated Press)—The Bolsheviki captured Bialystok about 40 miles southwest of Grodno today.

In Galicia Bolshevist cavalry is reported to be thirty-seven miles from Lemberg, where women and children have turned out to aid in building defenses about the city. Every hill to the east and northeast is entrenched with barb wire entanglements.

In the south General Dudenny, the Russian cavalry commander, has reinforced his army with runabout armored cars carrying machine guns, which fight their way through roads and open country while the horsemen keep to the wooded region and rough country. General Budenny also has machine guns on carts drawn by four horses. These are brought up in the cavalry's rear and are used when the Cossacks make a stand.

Along the Zbrucz and Styr Rivers, northeast of Lemberg, the operations consist chiefly of infantry fighting. The cavalry is operating in the Rovno and Lutzk regions, endeavoring to cut the railroads leading to Kovel and other railroad junctions vital to the Poles in their movement of troops.

Fighting in the north—when there is fighting—is chiefly by the infantry, though the Bolsheviki have a cavalry division at the tip of their right wing. The cavalry is already operating across the Niemen River in the direction of East Prussia and to the south in Poland proper. Much territory has been gained by the Reds on this front, but the advances are made on ground evacuated by the Poles who were outflanked or withdrew because, the Poles say, they were outnumbered by the Red forces.

Additional French officers attached to the military mission have arrived. All of them will be assigned to various Polish units are technical advisers. A large officers' school, under the supervision of French officers, was opened today at Rembartoff, a suburb of Warsaw.

BERLIN, July 29.—The Grodno battle has been renewed with terrific vigor, the southern forts changing hands frequently. The Russians succeeded in regaining five. American-Polish aviators report 10,000 Russian cavalry are advancing against Grodno.

LONDON, July 29.—Continued advances along virtually the whole front against the Poles are reported in Wednesday's official communiqué from Moscow, received by wireless today. The statement reads:

"Southwest of Grodno we are driving back the enemy, who is resisting fiercely in some places. Through an energetic thrust we reached the line of the River Berezevoka, the village of Yarnoff, the village of Sokolka and the River Suprasel.

"In the Polesia region our advance is continuing.

"Our advance is developing successfully in the vicinity of Brody. In the Tarnapol region we have driven the Poles to the right bank of the Sereth.

"Along the River Zbrucz we have driven the enemy from the heights on the right bank. On a wide front we are continuing to drive back the enemy westward.

"In the Crimean sector fierce fighting continues in the Alexandrovsk-Oriakhoff region."

A military review issued by the British War Office says that General Baron Wrangel, anti-Bolshevist commander in South Russia, uniformly repulsed the Bolsheviki in attempts to force the Dnieper.

OLD GERMAN OFFICERS WILL JOIN BOLSHEVIKI

Simons Warns Reichstag That Such Alliance Would Not Reverse Versailles.

BERLIN, July 29.—German correspondents who crossed the Russian frontier into the war zone telegraph that the Russian army is not disposed to obey instructions from Moscow to maintain a passive attitude in view of the impending negotiations, and that there is a wide cleavage between the Government and the army, owing partly to the influence of officers of the old regime.

However this may be, it is a fact that heavy and continuous fighting is proceeding on the northern wing. The retreating Poles have reached the Prussian frontier, and say that no word has reached them of an armistice.

Bolshevist troops have recaptured Grodno and Polish airmen report that the whole reserve cavalry of the 16th Russian army is concentrating between that place and Vilna, opposite the Prussian frontier.

The strength of the right wing of the northern army is estimated at between 60,000 and 70,000.

The Vienna correspondent of the Berliner Abendblatt states on authoritative Russian information that the Soviet Government will not begin negotiations until their armies have reached the River Bug and San Lines, that is to say until they have occupied Volhynia and Eastern Galicia. He reports also that it is their intention to establish a Soviet Ukraine, inclusive of East Galicia, under the influence of Moscow. The correspondent adds:

"The Bolsheviki now really represent the old Russian impulse of conquest, and their final object is the restoration of Russia's former position."

How far the Bolshevist approach to the German frontier is reacting here it is difficult to define. At any rate it has figured prominently in the Reichstag debates and it is significant that Foreign Minister Simons went out of his way to deliver a veiled warning to those Nationalists who are playing with the idea that the Soviet Army can be used by Germany as an instrument against the Western Powers. At least, that it was intended as such a warning is the only possible interpretation of the Minister's remarkable words:

"I must decisively refute the idea that a victory of Bolshevism could lead to the revision of the Versailles Treaty." To this Simons added his belief that though Bolshevism apparently is expanding beyond its frontiers, "yet internally it is already partly finished, and in its original form nearly dead."

Confirmation that certain circles are entertaining such an idea as Simons condemns comes from East Prussia in a dispatch to the newspaper already quoted. This message, which is of a perfectly objective character, refutes reports of any real Communist organization, but proceeds:

"It is necessary to warn that Right Extremists in East Prussia are watching with high hopes the Bolshevist advance, and that in an outspoken Nationalist-Bolshevist sense.

There are large numbers of people, including very many ex-officers, some of them formerly of the German General Staff, who are ready at a given sign to seize their weapons and join up with the Bolsheviki.

ITALY WITH ALLIES ON NOTE TO SOVIET

Unable to Attend Boulogne Meeting, but Kept Fully Informed, Lloyd George Says.

LONDON, July 29 (Associated Press).—France, Italy and Great Britain are in complete agreement regarding negotiations with the Russian Soviet Government, despite statements to the contrary made by sensational and inaccurate newspapers, declared Premier Lloyd George in the House of Commons today in replying to questions concerning the Boulogne conference.

Owing to the urgency of sending an answer to the Soviet Government concerning the proposed peace conference, Mr. Lloyd George said, it was impossible to secure the attendance of an Italian representative at Boulogne, but Italy was kept fully informed and entirely agreed with the Allies.

The Premier read the message dispatched to the Soviet Government by Great Britain on behalf of the Allies. The message called attention to the fact that the Soviet Government had sent two messages which conflicted concerning participation of the Allies in the proposed London peace conference. The first Russian message, the British communication pointed out, seemed to reject such participation, while the last message appeared to agree to it. Great Britain's message continued:

"The British Government considers that if the allied Governments are to meet delegates of the Soviet Government with any chance of success, delegates of the Polish Government and of the other border States concerned must also be present. The conference must have as its essential object re-establishment of the peace of Europe and in the first place between Poland and Russia on conditions which will secure the independence of Poland and the legitimate interests of both countries.

"The conference should also consider questions which are still outstanding between Soviet Russia and the border States which have not yet signed definite peace with Russia. After the settlement of these questions the conference will deal with matters in dispute between the Governments of Soviet Russia and the Allies, and the re-establishment of normal relations between them."

LONDON, Friday, July 30.—Premier Lloyd George, in reading in the Commons yesterday the terms of the British note to Moscow, said the latest news was that the advance of the Bolshevist troops had slowed down, but news from other sources reports a new attack in Galicia, where the Poles are retreating in a 100-mile front.

The crucial test of the Soviet Government's intentions begins today when the Russo-Polish negotiations for an armistice should open at Baranovitchi. The Daily Chronicle says:

"The Soviet Government accepted the Polish armistice proposal on July 24, but for some unexplained reason they deferred the armistice negotiations for six days. They have spent the interval, according to their own communiques, in intensified fighting, trying by 'specially energetic thrusts' and the like to bring their forces substantially nearer Warsaw. They are not yet much nearer, but have just succeeded in several directions in breaking the Polish defenses, and we shall now have to see whether they promptly and honestly stop fighting or whether they spin out sham armistice negotiations in order to exploit their military advantages."

PARIS, July 29.—General Ludendorff is reported in a Berlin dispatch to The Journal to have made an offer to the British Chargé d'Affairs at Berlin to raise an army of 1,500,000 men to fight the Bolsheviki in Russia in exchange for the return to German of Posen and the annulment of certain clauses of the Versailles treaty, among them the ones dealing with Danzig and the Polish Corridor.

PARIS, July 29.—It has been frequently rumored that Marshal Foch advised Marshal Pilsudski of Poland to make his ill-fated attack on the Soviet armies. This is not true.

During the weeks when the Poles were preparing for their offensive, which has now caused them so much grief, and when the Poles were seeking aid in London and Paris, Marshal Foch wrote three letters advising them against anything but defensive warfare. None of these letters was answered by Warsaw, although they were received.

After the Poles had met with their first serious check at Kiev Marshal Foch wrote a letter to Moscow, saying that Napoleon had got lost returning from Moscow, and he feared Pilsudski was going to get lost going there.

NAME WESTCHESTER SLATE.

County Democratic Committee Selects Complete Ticket.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. J., July 29.—The Westchester County Democratic Committee met here today and designated a complete county ticket and went on record as indorsing for re-election Supreme Court Justices Isaac N. Mills of Mount Vernon, Justice Arthur S. Tompkins of Nyack, Rockland County, and Justice Joseph Morschauser of Poughkeepsie, Dutchess County. All three Justices are Republicans and are completing their first terms on the bench. They had been indorsed by the Bar Associations of the five counties in the Ninth Judicial District and by the Democratic County Committees of Putnam and Dutchess Counties.

A fight against the indorsement of the Justices was put up in the unofficial convention by Yonkers delegates, but they were voted down.

The other designations were: Sheriff, John Loehr of Yonkers; County Treasurer, I. Howard Kinch of White Plains; County Register, Mrs. Ella M. Brady of Somers; Controller, Joseph G. Wyman of Scarsdale; for Coroner, Henry E. Hartnett of White Plains; Representative in Congress, Thirty-fourth District, comprising part of Bronx and Yonkers, James U. Ganley of the Bronx; for Representative in Congress, Twenty-fifth District, Arthur Sherman of Rye.

SEES FLORIDA OVERTURN.

Solid South to be Broken, Says National Committeeman.

Republican success is so certain this year that the party is going to break into the solid South and take Florida away from the Democrats. At least that was the information conveyed yesterday to the Republican National Committee here by George W. Bean, Republican National Committeeman for Florida. Harding and Coolidge clubs are to be organized all over the State while a full State ticket as well as candidates for Congress and the United States Senate will be put in the field.

"Of course we have no delusions about Florida," said Mr. Bean, "but things down there are going to be different this year. The fight among the three Republican factions in the State has been smoothed out and everything is harmonious. As a result of the intensive campaign we will make the Republican candidates get three times as many votes as they ever did before."

Senator Davis Elkins of West Virginia, who served as a Major in the war and who was elected Senator while in France, also brought the cheering news to the National committee that West Virginia was sure to go for Harding and Coolidge, and that Republican candidates in all the Congressional districts would be successful.

In its campaign this Fall the Republican National Committee plans to establish publicity bureaus in most of the large cities of the country through which intensive publicity work will be carried on.

SWOPE WOULD BAR WEST TO JAPANESE

Chairman of House Sub-Committee Which Made Inquiry Upholds California's Position.

WILL REPORT TO CONGRESS

Anti-Alien Land Legislation of 1913 Has Failed to Meet the Case, He Asserts.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 29.—Representative King Swope of Kentucky, who was Chairman of the House sub-committee which recently completed an investigation of Japanese immigration to Pacific Coast States, declared in a statement issued here today that this country has "reached a point where we should not permit any unassimilable race to fill up our Pacific States or any other States." He said the "privilege of entry of any and all immigrants should be predicated upon their ability and desire to become real, loyal, patriotic Americans."

The sub-committee will report to the House committee when Congress assembles in December. Mr. Swope declined to say what recommendations would be made.

"It is rather difficult for the people of the East and the South fully to appreciate the Japanese immigration question and its effect upon the Pacific Coast," said Mr. Swope. "When we realize that about 100,000 of the approximately 150,000 Japanese in this country live in California, we can readily see why the Californians view with great alarm a continued Japanese immigration. Washington, Oregon and California in particular seem to represent an earthly paradise to the Japanese because of their favorable climate and fertile soil. As a result, about four-fifths of the total Japanese population in the United States live in these three States.

"The Californians allege," Mr. Swope said, "that the 'gentlemen's agreement' is being violated and that thousands of Japanese immigrants are entering this country surreptitiously every year by way of the Mexican border. And, in support of that statement, they offer the fact that the Japanese population in California has doubled since 1913.

"It must be said the Jap is thrifty and as soon as he saves something from his earnings he goes into business for himself, usually farming. As a result, they are acquiring great tracts of land in California and taking over whole communities. As the Japanese would come in many whites would move out, because, as they stated, they did not like the new environment and could not compete with the Japanese owing to their different standard of living.

"These facts led to the passage by the California Legislature in 1913 of the anti-alien land law, which made it illegal for those who are not eligible for naturalization to own land, or to lease it for more than three years. But the Japanese have evaded that law to such an extent that it practically serves no purpose at all. For instance, a Japanese who is precluded by that law from owning land buys the land in the name of his infant native-born child, and becomes the guardian of such child. The Japanese also form corporations with white 'dummy' directors and acquire land in enormous acreages.

"The Califronians assert that the Japanese offer a racial problem in that they could not be assimilated. It is very rare that a Japanese man marries a white woman, or vice versa. Both races seem to discountenance inter-marriage. They love their mother country. They love the Japanese traditions and the Japanase language, and for this reason it is difficult to Americanize them.

"We witnessed the arrival of a consignment of 'picture brides,' who came to this country already 'married' to Japanese men they had never seen. The marriage was arranged by correspondence and an exchange of pictures. Such a protest against that practice was caused that the Japanese called a halt on the 'picture brides.' So that, after August of this year, the Japanese men will be compelled to find another method of consummating their marriages with women in Japan."

Decorating Dr. Norton today, the Greek High Commissioner said she was the first woman to receive the order. It would be an inspiration to Greek women, he said, to devote themselves to the betterment of social conditions in Turkey.

Dr. Norton's eyes are much improved after four months' treatment, and the doctors promise they will be completely cured.

ARREST AFTER DEMAND THAT FORD PAY $25,000

Edward Gordon, Charged with Threatening Manufacturer's Life, Is Taken.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, July 29.—One of the boldest attempts yet made to force Henry Ford to pay money on pain of death was defeated this afternoon, it is believed, when, after two weeks' work by detectives and Post Office Inspectors from three States, local officials arrested Edward Gordon, 22 years old, at 420 Dix Avenue.

The first letter was sent to Mr. Ford about three weeks ago. It demanded that $25,000 be sent to Edward Warren, General Delivery, Detroit, and said that refusal to deliver would result in the deaths of Mr. Ford and Edsel. The letter was turned over to Mr. Fraser, who ordered all clerks at the General Delivery window to deliver no mail for Edward Warren without first notifying him.

No one called for such mail, but within a week Mr. Ford received a second letter announcing that the sender was aware that detectives had been placed on his trail, making it impossible for him to call at the Post Office for the money and demanding that it be sent in person to "Edward Gordon, 420 Dix Avenue."

A dummy package was fixed up to be sent to the name and address given, but before it could be delivered Mr. Ford received a third letter, even more threatening than the first two. This afternoon the dummy package was delivered by the regular mail carrier and immediately afterward Gordon was arrested.

According to Mr. Ford Gordon expressed great relief at his arrest. He told the police he was formerly employed as a newsboy on a train, but that he had not worked lately.

He was arraigned before J. Stanley Hurd, United States Commissioner, and his bail was fixed at $3,000.

Says He Buried More Bergdoll Gold.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, July 29.—Another "pot of gold" tale was sprung in the Bergdoll case today. A prisoner accused of theft and locked up in City Hall, told detectives Mrs. Emma C. Bergdoll, mother of Grover Bergdoll, the army deserter, gave him $9,000 to take to Grover. He said he buried it in a field at Bustleton Pike and Frankford Avenue. But when he was taken there by Federal agents and detectives, they failed to find the treasure. He insists he has seen Grover since his escape and says Grover is now in Windsor, Canada, carrying on a bootlegging business over the border.

DENIES RIGHT OF JAPAN TO SAGHALIN

classing the case as incendiarism, due to underselling of white merchants by Japanese merchants in Marysville, and consequent resentment on the part of the former, but he added that the police denied that this was the fact. The Consul General concluded by declaring:

"It is unbelievable that the case was one of incendiarism connected with anti-Japanese agitators."

To the Consul General's message the Foreign Office in its statement adds a denial that any of its officials had made statements to the Japanese press that they thought the fire the work of anti-Japanese agitators.

As regards the reports of map stealing, there seems no foundation whatever for them.

Effort to Remove Suspicion.

Generally speaking, Japan at present, it is indicated in high quarters, feels impelled to an effort to remove suspicions abroad that she is aggressively militaristic, especially as regards China and Siberia. In this connection some public speakers and newspapers are beginning to accuse America of being a militaristic and warlike nation.

Without knowledge of or reference to the new American note, the Japanese leaders are beginning to fear America will adopt steadfast opposition to Japanese expansion, which they consider legitimate and necessary. Japan also is concerned over charges that she is actively engaging in the internal conflicts in China with the object of insuring a continuance of the conflicts, thus preventing a strong, united China, which it is alleged Japan secretly fears.

M. Hanihara, the Vice Foreign Minister, issued a statement today reiterating that Japan scrupulously had adhered to the policy of non-interference in China, but that nevertheless Japan was charged with assisting the Anfu group in the recent embroglio.

"It has even been alleged," says the statement, "that Japan, in violation of the new consortium agreement, loaned several million dollars to the Anfu Party, and that the Japanese press is urging the Government to take advantage of the present opportunity to secure recognition of Japan's hold on Manchuria. It need hardly be pointed out that these charges are unfounded and untrue."

DIET ENDS WITH ATTACK.

Government Charged with Trying to Stifle Liberty of Criticism.

TOKIO, July 29 (Associated Press).—The Diet adjourned today after a final dramatic attack on the Ministry by Yukio Ozaki, former Minister of Justice, who accused the Seiyu-kai majority in the House of stifling liberty of speech.

Referring to the attempt to punish M. Shimada because of his charges of stock gambling against the Ministers, M. Ozaki declared that the Constitution authorized greater liberty of speech within the Diet than outside, but the reverse seemed true at present.

"This is highly inimical to real constitutional development," M. Ozaki asserted, "and destruction of freedom of speech by the Ministerial party is tantamount to destruction of the very foundation of constitutional government."

The Government forces did not succeed in mustering the necessary two-thirds to secure the expulsion of M. Shimada from membership in the Diet. M. Shimada refused to appear before the disciplinary committee as instructed by the Diet, and as that body has adjourned the disciplinary measures will not operate.

Concurrently, the House of Peers adopted the budget, including the appropriations for navy and army extensions.

WHOLE POLICY UNDER REVIEW.

Japan Believed to Put First Emphasis on Far East Aims.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—An opportunity for the United States Government to take cognizance of Japan's policy in the Far East has been afforded by the Japanese seizure, as an act of reprisal, of the northern portion of the island of Saghalin. An inquiry on the subject has been addressed by the State Department to the Japanese Government. While State Department officials declined today to make any statement on the subject, press dispatches from Tokio say that the United States Government has informed Japan that it is unable to recognize the occupation.

The action of the United States gives new importance to the conference held at the State Department on Monday between Secretary Colby, Sir Auckland Geddes, the British Ambassador to the United States; Roland Morris, the American Ambassador to Japan, and Sir Beilby Francis Alston, the British Minister to China, of which a Washington dispatch to THE TIMES has told.

There is reason to believe that the British Government, in spite of its alliance with Japan, is concerned over the present Japanese foreign policy and has found common ground with the United States for adopting a course of action that will protect the interests of other powers against Japanese territorial extension and domination.

The Island of Saghalin formerly belonged to Russia. Under the terms of the peace treaty between Russia and Japan, negotiated at Portsmouth, N. H., in 1905, the southern portion of the island was ceded to Japan. Through her occupation of the northern or Russian portion Japan now controls the entire island which is valuable strategically as well as commercially. It contains large oil fields. The reason given for the seizure was the killing of a large number of Japanese residents of Nikolaievsk, said to number 700. Assurances have been given by the Japanese Premier, Hara, that the occupation is to continue only until a government has been established in Russia that will be able to furnish satisfaction for the massacre of Japanese subjects.

Extension of the Japanese military lines in Siberia westward from Vladivostok to 150 miles west of Lake Baikal, the continued occupation of Siberian territory by Japanese troops, the Japanese extension of authority over China, the Japanese interpretation of the Lansing-Ishii agreement, the continuance of the Anglo-Japanese treaty of defensive alliance, the anti-Japanese attitude in California and in some of the British possessions, all enter into the considerations which have given Great Britain and the United States reason for taking joint counsel over what may be called the Japanese situation.

The United States Government is doing its part to maintain the friendliest relations with Japan through its endeavor to prevent the enactment of drastic anti-Japanese legislation in California. The belief appears to prevail in well-informed circles that Japan is not nearly as much interested in prospective curtailment of Japanese rights on the Pacific coast as she is in the development of her foreign policy and would be glad to enter into an agreement with the United States that would contemplate recognition of Japan's superior interests in China and elsewhere in the Far East in exchange for a recognition by Japan of the sentiment in parts of the United States against Japanese subjects.

FRENCH RELUCTANT ON LOAN TO GERMANY

Millerand Finally Persuades Chamber Committees to Report Authorization.

COAL AGREEMENT ATTACKED

But Finance Ministry Declares Deal Will Assist France Toward Paying Her Debts.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 29.—After the Chamber of Deputies Finance Committee had refused yesterday to report a law providing for advances to Germany in accordance with the Spa coal agreement, Premier Millerand went before a joint session of the Senate and Chamber Finance Committees today and persuaded them to report the measure, which will form the subject of a debate in the Chamber within the next day or two.

The main difficulty which the Government has to face is realization by the public of the fact that this money, some $15,000,000 monthly, which is to be turned over to Germany as a loan, does not represent the lending of money which the French Government will realize from re-sale of the coal to French industrialists, but represents an out and out loan to Germany, its connection with the coal problem being only secondary. Germany's realization of the loan is based on her living up to the coal agreement.

That this is true is due to the plan which the French Government has of selling to French industries all the available coal at a fixed price. This price amounts to very little more than the German price, which is 35 marks gold, allowed on the reparation account. Thus the profit which France might realize on the sale at the market price of coal received from Germany the French Government will allow to French industry. Therefore there is no return to the French Government out of which the loan could be made.

Advances to Germany, whether made from direct appropriations or from the sale of bonds guaranteed by the Allies add to the financial burden of the French Government.

Many French Deputies oppose making an out and out loan to Germany, which owes France such a great reparation bill which she is not showing any great haste to pay. They argue that France possesses under the treaty the power to get German coal without this loan.

In a dispatch to THE TIMES on July 26 I emphasized the fact that at the Spa conference, at which America was not represented but Germany was, an arrangement had been made which reduced France's ability to pay her debts to America and at the sametime aided Germany. This dispatch was cabled back to Paris by French officials in America. At the Finance Ministry this afternoon it was argued that it was inexact to say that France was turning back to Germany "profits" which she might have used to pay America. It was argued that there were not going to be any profits, in as much as what would have been profits were allowed to French industry. This, it was said, was necessary to allow French industry to compete with German industry which got coal at the same price as that on which the treaty allowed it to France.

French finance officials admitted that the point that the Spa coal arrangements decreased by the amount of the advances to Germany the ability of the French Government to pay its obligations was correct. It was added that France would naturally be in a better financial situation as reparations were received from Germany and therefore better able to meet her obligations to the United States as well as to other creditors. It was pointed out that the value of the coal delivered by Germany could not be used at this time for debt payments because it was essential that French industries should receive coal at a price nearly equal to the price to German and English industries.

TURKISH TREATY'S FATE AGAIN PUT IN DOUBT

Italians and Greeks in Serious Dispute Over Aegean Islands, Albania and Asia Minor.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 29.—The Turkish treaty was to have been signed today but it was not signed. In the first place the Turks were not here to sign it and in the second place Italy and Greece have got into a row over its provisions and the nature of their dispute is such as to hold up the signatures of Greece, France and England. In the meanwhile the French are fighting in Syria, the Greeks are fighting in Thrace and Anatolia and the English are fighting in Mesopotamia, not to mention two or three other little wars in which the Albanians, Armenians, Georgians, Kurds, Azerbaijans and several other groups are participating.

It was another one of those troublesome secret treaties which caused the trouble between Italy and Greece. Last year Tittoni and Venizelos agreed that although the Turkish treaty would give the Dodecanese Islands, with the exception of Rhodes, to Italy, Italy would turn them over to Greece, and in return would get concessions in the Adriatic. Greece was to get an eastern slice of Albania and Italy a western slice in the bargain.

This agreement was tacitly approved by England and France. If Greece was to get the Dodecanese Islands, occupied by Italy, why that was not provided for in the treaty is more than any one but the diplomats can understand. Anyhow, to read the treaty these islands go to Italy.

Wishing to make sure of his ground Venizlos asked his Minister in Rome last week to make sure the Italians still felt like carrying out their bargain. The Italians did not. They said so plainly. They argued that they had not got what they wanted in the Adriatic, that they had recognized Albanian independence and therefore could not agree to see Greece get the Eastern slice. Therefore, not having got their price, they believed they would hold on to the Dodecanese Islands. So the Italians thought the treaty should be signed on schedule.

The Greeks quickly changed their minds and called England and France's attention to the fact that if they signed it is as it stands they give the Dodecanese Islands to Italy.

Now Greece is in a good position to talk to Turkey. Under the commission given them by the Allies some weeks ago at Bologne to smash Mustapha Kemal, the Greeks have gone ahead and occupied about five times as much territory as the treaty gives them, and if they see fit to annex some of it to compensate for the Dodecanese Islands they may not get, a very difficult situation would arise.

The Turkish delegates who started for Paris on the Orient express were held up by a strike, went back to Constantinople and left there yesterday on a French warship.

And so no one knows just when the Turkish treaty will be signed.

GET SHIP OIL SUPPLY OF 25,000,000 BARRELS

Board Contracts with Standard and Three Other Sources—Fuel Need Seems Solved.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Future fuel supply of the oil-burning portion of the Government's merchant fleet appeared to Shipping Board officials tonight to be assured, following the signing by the board of a contract with the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey to furnish approximately 15,825,000 barrels of fuel oil for the year beginning Oct. 1.

This contract, together with three signed yesterday, will insure a supply of 25,950,000 barrels. The board estimated its maximum needs recently in calling for bids at 29,280,000 barrels.

While the contracts signed yesterday and today are for the year beginning Oct. 1 next only, negotiations were said to be under way by which the board is to obtain the remainder of its five years' oil supply under yearly contracts.

The contract with the Standard Oil Company provides for delivery of 9,300,000 barrels at New York, 1,500,000 barrels at Baltimore, 3,475,000 barrels at Norfolk, 400,000 barrels at Charleston and 1,150,000 barrels at New Orleans, at prices ranging from $1.90 to $2.70 a barrel.

The board is to charter to the company necessary tank steamer transportation at $6.50 a deadweight ton per month. The contracts signed yesterday are at prices of $1.10 to $2.30 a barrel and contain the chartering provisions.

Prices to be paid for oil next year are considered by officials as excessive, but they assert that, in view of the world-wide oil shortage, the paramount question before the board is the necessity of obtaining oil and not the price to be paid.

In line with efforts to procure oil for the merchant marine, a corporation closely allied to the Government, it was learned today, is considering the sending of a representative to Mexico to make a survey of the Tampico fields, where 80 per cent. of the oil burned by American ships is produced.

Similar surveys have been made previously by agents of operators of Shipping Board vessels. By such a survey, it is asserted, production conditions in Mexico can be definitely known and proper price scales more accurately worked out.

The Shipping Board's oil problem on the Pacific Coast has been solved, officials declare, by the Government taking its royalties under the Oil Leasing bill in the form of crude oil and exchanging it with refiners for fuel. The success of this plan has led to the suggestion that the board actively assist in the development of oil fields nearer the Atlantic seaboard.

Announcement was made by the Shipping Board yesterday of its acceptance of three bids for supplying a total of 10,125,000 barrels of fuel oil for Government tankers.

WANTS AMERICANS TO SETTLE IN FRANCE

Paris Doctor Says War Has Left 2,000,000 Women There Without Mates.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

PARIS, July 29.—An international marriage bureau to find husbands for 2,000,000 French women who were left without mates is proposed by Dr. Paul Carnot, a Paris physician. He believes that many Americans would like to marry French women and that all that is needed to bring about that desired result is proper machinery for bringing wifeless Yankees and husbandless mademoiselles together.

Dr. Carnot tells his idea in the Matin. He has received from California and other States, and from Canada and Argentina, he says, letters from hundreds of young men who want French wives. But the problem is not one of exportation. What France needs is men who will settle and marry here and rear families of French children.

"Every one admires France," writes the doctor, "so surely, with a wife thrown in, we could attract immigrants."

From his experience in America he says he is sure that there are many men who would prefer to settle on this side of the Atlantic, and he urges the establishment of a bureau of information about wives and work. A beginning should be made, he says, with correspondence between the mademoiselles and their admirers. They are the best people to give all necessary information about the prospects and habits they would find here. Once a beginning was made in this way he is confident the rest would be easy.

"Letters I have received," he goes on, "are filled with energy and expressions of love for our country and admiration for our women. The writers all ask what kind of a reception they would get and if they came whether they would find work and be able to settle down and found a family. Alas, my laboratory cannot be changed into a matrimonial agency, but some one else should take on the work. What a race might we not be able to raise here in France of children by our women for whom the war has left no husbands and those magnificent Californians!"

WARSAW CALM IN CRISIS.

Poles Confident They Can Whip Reds if Properly Equipped.

WARSAW, July 28.—The allied special missions have been holding conference almost continuously since their arrival here. Today the British mission was further strengthened by the arrival from Berlin of General Malcolm and General Bingham, respectively heads of the British military mission and British section of the Interallied Control Commission there. General Haking is also expected today from Danzig.

Attention is being concentrated upon the probability of munitions being sent, as the Poles feel confident that properly equipped they could hold their own against the Red forces now deployed against them. Poland has called up only four classes of troops so far and is now depending upon voluntary recruitment, as she cannot equip further conscripts.

Owing to the popularity of the war here it is found that employers are granting their workers who volunteer outfit, allowances and equipment in the form of clothing and other private property. Volunteering has certainly caught on, and my first sight on arrival here was that of a volunteer battalion being reviewed in the street. One was struck by the extreme youth of many of these recruits standing there in uniform and with rifle and bayonet.

One sees few signs of war in Warsaw beyond numbers of troops and the coming and going of allied officers. Warsaw had its bad scare last week and has now somewhat recovered. But in political and other circles more initiated than the mass of the people spirits are very subdued. Parliament meantime has been prorogued and the new coalition Cabinet with its many coated experts is subservient to the National Committee of Defense, composed of three Ministers, three Generals nominated by the staff and one member from each party represented in Parliament.

So Warsaw sits and waits, and though the fighting at present is serious enough, attention is being riveted upon the journey of the Polish Armistice Commission and upon the result of the deliberations of the allied special missions.

ARMY MOB INVADES BELGIAN CHAMBER

Soldiers Demand That a Lump Sum Be Paid to Every Veteran.

SEIZE MINISTERS SEATS

Break Doors and Windows, but Are Calmed by Promise of Consideration.

BRUSSELS, July 29.—Thousands of soldiers assembled outside the Chamber of Deputies today to demonstrate dissatisfaction with the Government's treatment of former soldiers, who demand that a lump sum be paid every man who served in the war.

A body of soldiers broke the police cordon and invaded the Chamber, disregarding Burgomaster Max's appeals. Eventually they were persuaded to leave peaceably.

While in the Chamber the soldiers broke doors and windows and hurled the ushers aside. The men then marched through the Chamber with banners, while the astonished Deputies sat powerless to quell the tumult.

At a meeting of the Cabinet it was decided to prosecute the soldiers for invasion of the chamber and also a Brussels newspaper, believed to have incited the soldiers.

Demonstrators to the number of 150 were arrested, but were released on the intervention of the Speaker of the House. A dozen persons were injured during the day.

The scene in the chamber was extraordinary. Soldiers took possession of the seats of the Ministers and Deputies, smoking pipes and shouting that they would not leave until the House had voted their claims. The Socialist Deputy Hubin, who endeavored to speak, was knocked down by angry soldiers.

Two Deputies, both of whom had seen service in the war, were finally allowed to speak. They promised that the Chamber would consider the claims of the soldiers, which calmed the uproar. The soldiers then left in groups and the Chamber continued its deliberations on the revision of the constitution.

It appears that the trouble was largely due to the summoning of gendarmes, who always are unpopular. Their appearance with drawn swords was greeted with shouts of "Murderers!" It looked as if grave events were impending, but Burgomaster Max managed to avert more serious developments by undertaking to have the gendarmes removed if the men would retire outside the neutral zone of Parliament and the palace precincts.

It was asserted tonight that the demonstrations would be repeated tomorrow.

MARIENTHAL DRUNK, BECOMES FAMOUS

Entire Alsatian Village Helpless for 72 Hours After Looting a Brandy Lorry.

PARIS, July 29.—The Alsatian village of Marienthal has become famous. Few persons had ever heard of it before, for it is only a small place of a few hundred inhabitants on the road to Strasbourg. But now it is likely to become proverbial. Here is the story as told before the Strasbourg Magistrates.

Some days ago a heavy motor lorry on its way from Nimes to Strasbourg developed engine trouble while passing through Marienthal. The driver was forced to get down and seek help. Trusting the villagers, he left his lorry unattended. When he returned he took one look at the lorry and then ran for the police.

The good people of Marienthal had completely emptied the lorry of its contents, consisting of barrels of brandy. The whole village, men, women and children, municipal councillors, forest officers and firemen, was in a state of incapable drunkenness.

The police could do nothing but wait until the village had sobered up. It had drunk about 50,000 francs' worth of brandy. To wipe out the reproach the magistrates sent twenty-eight of the villagers to prison and fined the rest. Marienthal is now wondering whether French brandy is not dear at such a price.

SAYS CITY MEETINGS CAN BAR THE PRESS

O'Brien, in Standard Union Case Brief, Holds No Statute Admits Public.

OPPONENT CITES ORDINANCE

Calls Argument Attempt to Prove Board Could Run as a Star Chamber.

In a brief filed in the Brooklyn Supreme Court yesterday opposing the application of The Standard Union for an injunction restraining Mayor Hylan from barring its representatives from the press "well" at Board of Estimate meetings Corporation Counsel O'Brien stated that there was no statutory provision requiring the Board of Estimate "to sit with open doors." The brief was submitted to Justice Lewis L. Fawcett.

"There is direct and eminent authority," states the brief, "in support of the proposition that in the absence of such a statute the public, including newspaper reporters, can claim no legal right to be present at a meeting of a municipal governing body."

"If there must be statutory authority," states the brief, "to support the right of the public, including newspaper reporters, to enter the room, no one can claim the right to occupy any particular part of the meeting room. The only requirements for public meetings are in specific instances regulating hearings upon specific matters. The burden is upon the plaintiff to show that the meeting at which the reporter was interfered with was such a public meeting."

Mr. O'Brien contended that the freedom of the press was not involved in the proceedings and "has not been interfered with in the slightest degree." He contended that a seat in the press "well" was a privilege granted by the Board of Estimate. "A cause of action can arise only when there is violation of some positive legal right which is recognized by law as the proper subject of redress by the courts, and can never arise merely out of the refusal or discontinuance of a favor," it was asserted. The brief emphasized the fact that The Standard Union reporter was not ejected from the room where the meeting took place and that there was no threat to put him out of the room or to keep him out of it. He, according to the brief, was simply not permitted to enter the "well" shared by the other reporters.

In an answering brief also submitted to Justice Fawcett yesterday Meier Steinbrink, counsel for The Standard Union, called the attention of the court to Chapter 1, Article 2, Section 9 of the Code of Ordinances, which he stated read:

"All meetings of boards or commissions constituting departments of the government of the city shall be held openly and shall in all cases be accessible to the public."

"It semes regrettable," continued Mr. Steinbrink's brief, "that in a matter involving the presence of the press at a meeting in which the people of the city are much interested the time of the legal talent of the city law office should be spent to prove that the public has no rights and that the board could run a star chamber meeting if it chose, but allows the public in as a matter of kindness. Such an attitude sounds like the preface to an attempt to keep all the newspaper men out and gradually to hold the meetings behind closed doors, and if this is not the Mayor's intention the brief of his counsel is most unfortunate." Mr. Steinbrink concluded his brief with the statement that the freedom of speech and the press were at stake.

Justice Fawcett accepted the briefs and reserved decision.

ASSAILS WOMEN'S GAMBLING

Court Holds Mrs. Schlesinger Despite "Sociable-Game" Plea.

Condemning card playing by women for high stakes, Magistrate Tobias, in Washington Heights Court yesterday held Mrs. Florence Schlesinger in $500 bail for trial in Special Sessions. Detectives who entered her apartment in West 142d Street Wednesday afternoon found eight women playing poker. Mrs. Schlesinger, according to the police, admitted selling $18 stacks of chips for $20, and was arrested, charged with keeping and maintaining a gambling house. The $2 per stack was not profit, she insisted in court yesterday, but was retained to cover the cost of refreshments, and the women were her friends, playing a "sociable game."

"Card playing by women for high stakes brings sorrow to many husbands," observed the Magistrate. "When a woman has lost at cards she is quarrelsome and bitter. Her husband finds her discontented and then there are quarrels, with the result sometimes that homes are broken up."

A meeting of members of the Independence League and the Mutual Independent Democrat Club was held yesterday afternoon in the rooms of the Independence League, in West Thirty-first Street, to determine what action the clubs could jointly take to prevent detectives from raiding card games in both clubhouses. Detectives attached to the staff of Inspector Boland yesterday declared that they would rid the district of gambling houses masked as social clubs. The Independence League and the Mutual Independent Democratic Club were raided by detectives on Wednesday afternoon. Twenty-two men were arrested, but all were discharged in Night Court because of insufficient evidence.

the agents from Philadelphia and Washington in the work of seizing illicit liquors. It was said that the prohibition enforcement staffs in Jersey City and Newark were found to be too small to carry out the raids alone, and that all told eighty strange prohibition enforcement agents operated in Newark during the afternoon and evening and twenty-five assisted the local force in Jersey City to effect the raids there.

The police of Jersey City, Newark and surrounding towns and cities in the two counties also were called on to aid the prohibition enforcement officers in their search for illicit liquors. In Jersey City Chief of Police Battersby assigned twelve of his detectives to aid in the hunt for liquor, while in Newark almost the entire detective force was pressed into service.

The organization of the raiding parties was effected within four hours yesterday forenoon, it was said. It is understood that the plan for the organization of the various raiding groups was worked out by agents sent to Hudson and Essex counties several weeks ago from the national office in Washington by Commissioner Kramer.

Police Join Raiders.

Policemen had been placed on the raiders' automobile trucks by Chief Battersby, and, guided by the twelve Jersey City detectives, raiding squads of police and prohibition officers set forth to descend on the places in that city mentioned in the warrants. As the Newark raiders entered that city they were met by the local detectives and several officials of the local prohibition force, who had three automobile trucks in readiness to carry to the post office building whatever liquor might be seized.

Shortly before the formation of the raiding parties George W. Van Note, Prohibition Director for New Jersey, returned to his office in Newark from a conference with Commissioner Kramer in Washington. He denied a statement attributed to Samuel Wilson to the effect that Federal agents had taken bribes from saloonkeepers and others to wink at violations of the Volstead act. He admitted, however, that some instances of attempts to bribe prohibition officers had come to his attention, but that sufficient evidence could not be obtained to warrant an arrest. He declared the bribes alleged to have been offered varied from $25 to $50.

Enter Woman's Apartment.

None of the raiding squads met much resistance until one group of the Philadelphia enforcement agents, under Mr. Slonaker, entered the saloon of Robert Leach, at 117 Washington Street, Newark. They made a hurried search of the saloon and the cellar, but were unable to uncover any liquor. Then Mr. Slonaker led his men to the apartment of Mrs. Arthur Everton, on the floor above the sbaloon.

As they pushed in the door they were confronted by Mrs. Everton, who declared that she had "a few bottles of liquor on hand for medicinal purposes." She offered to fetch the liquor to the enforcement officers, but Mr. Slonaker insisted that his men must search the apartment.

Two of the enforcement officers started to enter a bedroom off the dining room of the apartment when Leach, tse saloon keeper, and George Freschette, 87 Beach Street, Belleville, a suburb of Newark, and who had followed the raiding squad up stairs, threw themselves in front of Mr. Slonaker and his men. Two enforcement officers seized the men and hurled them aside. The rest of the raiding squad then brushed past Mrs. Everton into the bedroom, where, they declared, they found $6,000 worth of liquors in barrels and cases.

Leach and Freschette were arrested on a charge of interfering with the officers and were later arraigned before United States Commissioner Mathews. They were paroled for a hearing until this morning. The liquors were taken to the Post Office Building.

COLBY QUESTIONS ALLIES' OIL POLICY

Note to Great Britain Asks Information on Exploitation of Territory Under Mandates.

EXPECT 'OPEN DOOR' THERE

State Department Bases Its Case on Treaty Prohibition of Discrimination in Natural Resources.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—On the basis of the official publication in London of an agreement between the Governments of Great Britain and France for co-operation in the development of oil fields throughout a large part of the world and a division of the oil product between these two countries, the Secretary of State has directed the Ambassador in London to make inquiry as to the character and scope of the agreement with a view to ascertaining whether American interests are affected.

The inquiry is aimed particularly at ascertaining whether the agreement affects enemy territory to be governed under the mandatory system in accordance with the terms of the Versailles Treaty of Peace.

No protest has been made by the United States Government in connection with the agreement. On the contrary, officials said today that it was to be assumed that the rights of the United States or any other allied or neutral would be protected.

The text of the agreement published in London appears to give this assurance, for it declares that the interests of other Governments and their nationals are not affected and no exclusive rights are reserved by Great Britain and France, not even in Mesopotamia, where the British Government contemplates exploitation of the oil fields.

The only official statement on the subject was contained in the following, furnished to the press by the State Department:

"The Department of State has received information that an Anglo-French petroleum agreement has been published by the British Government. The department has made representations to the British Government regarding certain provisions that apply to petroleum in mandate territories and is giving careful consideration to other features of the agreement."

In general the agreement provides that there shall be co-operation between Great Britain and France in the development and distribution of oil supplies in order to eliminate competition. The agreement is to be applied to all countries where the oil interests of the two nations may conflict and can be usefully united Both Governments are to act jointly to assist their nationals to obtain oil rights from the Rumanian Government, including enemy oil properties sequestrated by the Rumanian Government.

In most instances British and French interests are to be equally represented in the handling of oil properties. Mesopotamia, where British interests predominate, is to have 25 per cent. of the properties developed by the British Government or by any Franco-British companies.

The agreement applies to the French colonies and British Crown colonies.

The United States Government is particularly interested in ascertaining whether the agreement is intended to give Great Britain and France superior rights in enemy territories for which the British and French Governments have taken mandates. The United States holds that a Government having a mandate for enemy territory has no commercial rights superior to those of other countries allied or associated with it in the World War. There has been some correspondence between the United States and Allied Governments regarding the protection of American commercial interests in countries governed or to be governed by mandates authorized by the Versailles Treaty and the responses received have satisfied officials of the State Department that no attempt is to be made to curtail American rights.

President Wilson's attitude with regard to the protection of American commercial interests in enemy territory governed by mandate was set forth in a note sent by the Secretary of State to the French Ambassador in Washington on March 31, in relation to the negotiation of the peace treaty with Turkey. The last paragraph of that note has a special application to the Anglo-French oil agreement with respect to mandate territory, in that it places this Government on record as insisting that the commercial interests of American citizens shall be fully protected in such territory. This paragraph says:

"Let me say in conclusion that it is the understanding of the Government of the United States that whatever territorial changes or arrangements may be made in the former Ottoman Empire, such changes or arrangements will in no way place American citizens or corporations, or the citizens or corporations of any other country, in a less favorable situation than the citizen or corporations of any power party to this treaty."

LIGHT AND MURPHY HELD.

Furnish Bail of $12,500 Each in Astor Theatre Case.

Herman H. Light, Treasurer of the Astor Theatre, and John P. Murphy, note teller in the Hudson Trust Company, 1,114 Broadway, until Wednesday, when both were arrested charged with grand larceny in connection with a reported shortage of $28,000 in the Astor Theatre's receipts, were held in $12,500 bail each yesterday by Magistrate Silberman in Jefferson Market Court. Examination was sent for Aug. 25 and bail was furnished by a surety company.

Affidavits alleged that the defendants, acting in concert, were responsible in one specific instance for a shortage of $2,528.50. Detectives, however, told the court the aggregate shortages amounted to $28,000. Light, the police say, confessed that he drew on theatre funds to gamble on horse races, and Murphy, it is said, admitted that he helped cover up the Treasurer's deficiencies. A number of men and women who appeared to be interested in the accused were in court when the case was called. Sam S. & Lee Shubert, Inc., were represented by William Klein.

According to the police, Murphy confessed that his share of the alleged defalcations amounted to only $500 and not $5,000, as was at first reported.

Praises Rolnik in Dismissing Case.

In dismissing for lack of evidence charges brought against Nathan Rolnik, 34 Second Place, Brooklyn, of alleged connection with the Borden Milk Company robbery on July 20 Magistrate Joseph E. Schwab, in West Side Court, yesterday paid tribute to Rolnik's high reputation and expressed regret for unavoidable circumstances which had made Rolnik an innocent victim. The robbers used Rolnik's car, which had been stolen.

DE VALERA REPUDIATES DOMINION RULE PLAN

Heatedly Denies Stories That He Secretly Favored It—Ginnell Arrives as His Aid.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Dispatches reporting that "President" de Valera of the "Irish Republic" in letters to officials of the Sinn Fein had counselled acceptance of the Dominion Home Rule proposals for Ireland were branded as malicious inventions or fabrications by De Valera in a statement given out here tonight.

"Stories to the effect that I am secretly in favor of what is called Dominion Home Rule, as it would seem from press dispatches, are being seditiously propagated at the other side of the Atlantic as well as here," De Valera said. "These stories originate as British inventions, or as the fabrications of those who want to hide purely personal antagonism to me under the cloak of zeal for our cause.

"They are of the same stuff and for the same purpose as the attempts some time ago to make it appear that I am advocating a British protectorate.

"The secret whispers, the private letters and the other wily machinations of men who, apparently, from fighting the British, have learned from them to adopt the same base methods, and who now seem scarcely to know what truth is, or straight dealing, have shaken the trust of many an honest heart here for the past nine months and sapped the enthusiasm of many an ardent soul," he asserted.

Lawrence Ginnell, who for eleven years, until 1917, was an Irish member of the British House of Commons, has arrived in Washington as an aid to De Valera in the campaign for American recognition of the "Irish Republic." He will leave tomorrow for Cincinnati, where he will begin his American tour.

Mr. Ginnell, who is known not only as a politician but as an historian and writer on agrarian subjects, evidences the greatest faith in the ability of the "Irish Republican Government" to win world recognition.

"The Irish people have never before been so united and resolute as they are now in support of the republican government," he said. "That Government is gaining power and respect, not alone from republicans but from every section of the community by all its activities. Its army, known as the Irish Volunteers, keeps order at all popular events, when not interfered with by the army of occupation; takes charge of the booths and ballot boxes at elections, and provides guards for members of the republican courts. Commissions go from city to city with reference to the revival of the industries of the country and the development of her resources. These commissions are announced in public buildings such as town halls.

"England has neither moral nor constitutional power in Ireland today and depends exclusively on the power of the naked sword, and no thoughtful person believes that she will ever again have any other."

LEGION DELEGATES NAMED.

Twenty-three Will Represent County at September State Convention.

The delegates elected by the County Convention of the American Legion to represent New York County at the State Convention in Albany Sept. 10 and 11 were announced yesterday by the committee of tellers who canvassed the vote taken on Wednesday night. They are:

Delegates—Henry W. Buxton, Miss Anna B. Duncan, F. M. Martin, F. M. Justis, Ray C. Sawyer, Mrs. Julia Wheelock, S. G. Gumpertz, Irwin I. Rackoff, William Mulqueen, J. D. Livingston, L. M. Hunter, Harold M. Schwab, E. B. Hacker, J. Raphael, James M. Blackwell, Dr. H. W. Haynes, J. W. Garner, Herbert W. Brownlee, Henry S. Miller, William Barclay Parsons, Robert McMarsh, C. V. Hickox and Dr. E. Adams.

U. S. EMPLOYES ASK RISE.

Workers at Ellis Island and Pilots Complain of H. C. L.

Anthony Caminetti, Commissioner General of Immigration, visited Ellis Island yesterday and conferred with Commissioner Wallis regarding the demands for more pay by the employes at the immigration station. The pilots and engineers of the Government vessels are asking that their pay be raised to the same amount as is now received by pilots and masters in private service. The Government pay including a $20 bonus is $185 a month. The men want $210.

The employes on Ellis Island have complained that the present rate of pay is too small to meet the increased cost of living, and Commissioner Wallis is trying to get a general wage increase for them. He made two trips to Washington and succeeded in getting $10 to $20 a month increase in the pay of some 300 of the force.

MANNIX ATTACKS BRITISH PREMIER

Archbishop Suggests That Lloyd George Be Compared to von Bissing.

REPLIES TO OFFICIAL BAN

Says He Knows Exactly What He Is Going to Do—Calls Premier Hughes a Renegade.

Following the British Government's recent announcement that Archbishop Daniel J. Mannix of Melbourne would not be permitted to land in Ireland, the Australian prelate yesterday made three announcements First, he said he was going to Ireland on the Baltic, leaving tomorrow at noon. Next, he suggested that David Lloyd George be compared to General von Bissing, German Governor of Belgium, and third, he characterized Premier Hughes of Australia as a renegade. All of the prelate's statements were made in the office of The Irish World, 27 Barclay Street, where an informal reception was tendered to him.

Last night the White Star Line said that no cancellation of the Archbishop's passage was contemplated, so far as known. Plans were proceeding for a big demonstration at the pier, with all of the city's Irish societies represented.

"I am rather sorry," said the Archbishop, "that the British Government hadn't the courage to begin this battle on this side of the water. They have already retreated to the Old World and what will happen there no one can foretell. They seem to have some difficulty in making up their minds as to just what to do with me. But I know exactly what I am going to do. That is the difference between Lloyd George and me. The test will come when Queenstown or some other port is reached."

Deprecates Mercier Comparisons.

"In some newspaper accounts of recent date, comparison has been made between the attitude of the British Government toward me and the situation in which Cardinal Mercier of Bel. found himself during the war. This comparison I am sorry for.

"But," he continued, "in one respect Cardinal Mercier and I stand upon common ground. When Mercier stood up for the liberty of Belgium, the whole world applauded and none more than Lloyd George. Whatever rights he had I have too. I would rather see these newspaper stories work out a comparison between von Bissing and Lloyd George.

"There seems to be some idea of dealing drastically with me in Ireland. If Lloyd George does take drastic action toward me he will confer a distinction on me not enjoyed by Cardinal Mercier. If I had to go to prison I would secure one honor not enjoyed by Cardinal Mercier, who was not jailed by the Germans. My reception throughout the United States must anger people like Lloyd George. It has been veritably a royal progress. In New York I was made a freeman of the city. It is hard for Lloyd George to hear of my progress and feel comfortable at the same time.

"As to those newspaper reports that have come from Australia in the last day or two, in which Premier Hughes says that I do not speak for the Australian people, Hughes is no friend of mine and I confess that he has no reason to be thankful to me. I opposed his conscription measure.

Denounces Premier Hughes.

"If people here knew what the people of Australia think of him, they would pay no attention to what he says or think that he represents Australian opinion. He is a renegade of the worst type. He deserts the cause he had once espoused. He is a Britisher and an imperialist of the worst type.

"He has said that the people of Australia repudiate me. There is nothing new in that. He said the same on two former occasions, and when he went before the people on the issues on which I opposed him, although he had in some manner secured all of the newspapers and all other capitalistic agencies, he found that he was mistaken. When the votes were counted it was the Premier of Australia and not the Archbishop of Melbourne whom the voters had repudiated. But I will deal with Hughes when I return to Australia.

"It is strange that some people are said to be appealing to the Vatican because of some of my statements. And these are the very same persons who continually shout that the Vatican and the Pope should be kept free of all politics. I have no message from the Vatican. And only when those people serve their own purpose have they a good word to say either for the Pope or the Vatican."

Following the reception at the Irish World office, a bound volume of issues of that paper containing all references to him since 1903 was presented to the Archbishop.

town were held up Wednesday night by a large party of armed men, who took the soldiers by surprise and forced them to surrender, taking away their rifles and ammunition and burning the lorries.

The Daily Chronicle, commenting upon the fact that this armed convoy surrendered without receiving a wound and apparently without firing a shot, asks what steps are being taken to make the soldiers in Ireland realize that this sort of surrender is as much to be avoided as it was in France before the armistice.

WANTS IRISH PEACE ON WILSON'S TERMS

Arthur Griffith, Sinn Fein Founder, Says His Followers Will Accept No Other.

DUBLIN, July 29.—"Permanent peace can be arranged between Ireland and England on the basis of England now explicitly accepting the first condition of peace laid down by President Wilson in his speech in New York on Sept. 27, 1918, on the issues of the great war," said Arthur Griffith, founder of the Sinn Fein and "Vice President of the Irish Republic," to The Associated Press today in discussing The Freeman's Journal suggestion that Ireland is ready to accept dominion home rule.

"In that speech President Wilson said 'the military powers of no nation shall be suffered to determine the fortunes of peoples over whom they have no right to rule except the right of force.'

"Peace on that basis," continued Mr. Griffith, "was arranged after a prolonged conflict between Switzerland and France by the Treaty of Fribourg in 1516. That peace has since endured.

"The suggestion of The Freeman's Journal is mere kite flying. It speaks for nobody but itself. The 'Dail Eireann' has elected representatives of the Irish people willing to negotiate with England on equal terms, but it does not intend to be tricked, as so often in the past. As Eamon de Valera has said, the Sinn Fein would negotiate with England along the lines of the first section of the Platt amendment regarding Cuba.

"In fact, once free, it would be to Ireland's interests to be on friendly terms with England, her best customer. Had Ireland been independent in the late war she would have sided with England, because if England had been defeated it would have been Ireland's turn next. However, we are now a free nation, with our parliament and courts in being. There is no question of Dominion Home Rule."

In reply to a question, Mr. Griffith added: "This applies, whether it is offered united Ireland or only a part of Ireland."

Mr. Griffith said Viscount French, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, gave the whole policy of Great Britain away when he declared in January that the trouble was due to restricted emigration, which had left in Ireland 200,000 young men.

"We have shown these young men," Mr. Griffith continued, "that it was their duty to remain and fight for freedom, for which Ireland has made more progress in the last five years than in the previous one hundred years. England proposes severe measures. She cannot do worse than she already has done, and what has it availed her?"

Mr. Griffith characterized Premier Lloyd George's refusal to allow Archbishop Mannix of Australia to land in Ireland as fine propaganda for the Sinn Fein, because, he said, it would enhance interest in their cause in America and in Australia and other British dominions.

"He will get a great reception when he comes," said Mr. Griffith. "But he will be preaching to the converted, for the recent elections have shown that 85 per cent. of the people are republican."

Rail Men Claim Victory.

The Irish railwaymen who have dislocated traffic in various parts of the country, thereby causing a serious food shortage in some places, by refusing to move trains carrying munitions and armed guards, claim to have won at least a partial victory over the Government as evidenced by a communication from the military authorities to the railway managers.

It is announced that military guards henceforth will not be furnished for goods sent by rail, and that owing to the state of the country it is not at present proposed to use the railways for the transport of munitions.

This apparently ends the railway difficulty, so far as concerns freight trains, but passenger traffic is still liable to obstruction by the refusal of railwaymen to carry armed police or soldiers as passengers. The railroaders assert that the Government's latest decision is a climbdown from the uncompromising attitude first assumed by the Premier in his interview with the railwaymen.

The resignations of Irish police are increasing, and exceed an average of five daily. Presumably with a view to encouraging the break-up of the police force, Sinn Fein headquarters has issued to the Sinn Fein clubs an urgent recommendation that police resignations would be welcomed.

It has added to the fund which is being provided to assist cases of special hardship. The clubs are directed to persuade the men to resign.

Recruitment for the police greatly exceeds the resignations, however, but the recruits are not coming from the old class of Irishmen, but are obtained by advertisement from England.

One civilian and three military police were wounded outside the Bank of Ireland tonight. Their injuries were received in a scuffle following upon an attempt made to disarm five military police.

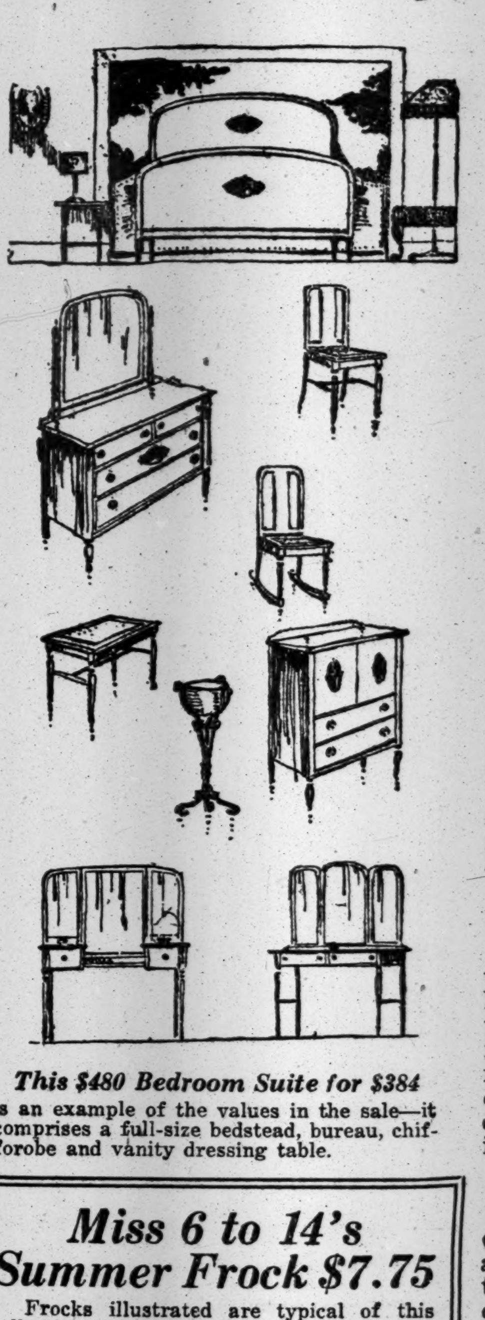
Furniture for Futurity (F. F. F.) is the only kind we offer in the August Sale

Because it is the only kind we sell at any time



This $480 Bedroom Suite for $384 is an example of the values in the sale—it comprises a full-size bedstead, bureau, chifforobe and vanity dressing table.

More than a quarter of a century ago the Wanamaker store took extreme measures to secure for the store's patrons selling out all the furniture on hand because it wasn't good enough, notifying the furniture trade that if we couldn't get furniture that would give satisfaction we would go out of the business.

This stand of the Store for a higher standard in furniture had a wholesome effect on the whole industry, and it is perhaps not too much to say that at that time American furniture had its renaissance, entering an era of reconstruction and betterment, not only in quality but in design, that is now bringing manufactured furniture almost up to the high level of the old hand-made and master-made furniture that earlier came from England.

Again in 1890

the Wanamaker Store helped the furniture industry to take another distinct step forward when it originated the August Sale, giving large orders to furniture factories to be made in dull seasons at the cost of wood and labor, thus enabling them to keep together their splendid organizations, giving workmen all-the-year work and wages and giving Wanamaker patrons good furniture at less-than-usual cost.

Today in 1920

the Wanamaker service in furniture has reached new heights, now being the largest and most powerful buying force in the market, thus commanding economies that are handed over to the public as its share in the co-operative business we are conducting—

---economies of 10 to 40 per cent.

on our entire stock of furniture, with additional large special purchases, the whole reaching well over a million dollars, with an additional million in transit and on order to take the place of that which is now rapidly selling.

Today is the last Day of Courtesy and then on Monday, August 2, the sale officially opens.

Come today or Monday, and choose what you need, pay the lowered August price, save from 10 to 40 per cent., and you will be sure of receiving in your home only FURNITURE FOR FUTURITY.

A Full-sized Fishing Boat was seen to sink in the harbor.

Apparently she was waterlogged and had been adrift a long time to get into the condition she was. It is possible she parted from a companion vessel in a storm and sprung a leak when washed up on the rocks. There she goes down to the bottom to be battered and broken to pieces!

How like many a human life specially built to do useful service, exposed to dangers, hard knocks, finally becomes stranded for lack of repairs at the proper time and passes out of sight a wreck.

Along the shores of business enterprise there may always be seen the scattered wrecks of noble ships of trade that have been sunk by little leaks that have eaten away the timbers by lack of integrity, industry and internal harmony of the partners.

A small flaw in the cloth, carelessly unnoticed by the weaver at the loom puts him out of business sooner or later, yet it was but a little thing that ended for him good wages and a lifelong place.

THOUSANDS GATHER TO SEE SHAMROCK

Crowds Board Challenger at 97th Street Pier and Cheer Sir Thomas Lipton.

BARONET MAKES A SPEECH

Resolute Is Taken to Herreshoff Yards at Bristol to be Put Out of Commission.

By hundreds they came—and by thousands. The Municipal Pier in the Hudson at Ninety-seventh Street was crowded. It was jammed. And still the curious, interested sightseers came on.

The centre of attraction was Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock IV., defeated challenger for the America's Cup.

With her tender, the Molly Bawn; her trial horse, Shamrock III.; the houseboat Killarney, the floating home of her crew, and the tug Governor Smith, the trim, green mystery sloop—now no longer a mystery—lay moored to the pier where all could see and all who desired could board and inspect her. The pier was placed at the disposal of Sir Thomas as soon as Mayor Hylan learned the boats would be exhibited.

Meanwhile the Resolute, victor of the 1920 International Cup races, was on her way to the Herreshoff yards at Bristol, R. I., to be dismantled and put out of commission.

Sir Thomas's yachting fleet arrived at its moorings in the Hudson at 4:45 o'clock in the evening. Its entire trip from Sea Gate was like a triumphal procession. Tugs, steamers, yachts and factories all along the route turned on the full blasts of their whistles to do obeisance to a persistent challenger and a well-loved sportsman.

Big Crowd Welcomes Yachts.

Throughout the day—following the announcement that the yachts would be on exhibition—groups had been gathering on Riverside Drive and on the piers. When the towering spars of the two racing yachts first became visible in the distance, proceeding up the Hudson, there were cheers. The cheers brought other sightseers. They came by foot, by taxis, in private motor cars and in motor boats. They flocked to the piers, to the Drive. They filled the windows of apartment houses. And on all sides they echoed words of praise for the Irish baronet and his sportsmanship.

When the vessels pulled up at their pier a good-sized crowd was on hand to welcome them. Shamrock IV. was immediataely opened to public inspection, and by 8:30 o'clock Arthur Heard, first mate, estimated that between 1,500 and 2,000 persons had boarded the challenger.

Shortly after 7 o'clock Sir Thomas himself arrived and from the deck of the challenger addressed the crowd which jammed the pier waiting for a chance to go on board. At 8:30 when Mr. Sherin, acting for Sir Thomas, invited those who had not examined the boat to return at 10 o'clock this morning, a crowd estimated by the police at 8,000 were still waiting.

Gives Freedom of the Ship.

In his speech of welcome Sir Thomas especially mentioned the women. He invited them "to go below or aloft" as they pleased. As he closed a spontaneous cheer broke forth and gradually resolved itself into three vigorous cheers and a prolonged tiger. Here and there were shouts, "Sorry you didn't win!" "Better luck next time!" and "You're a better sport than the winner!"

The twenty-three meter Shamrock and the Killarney came in for a good share of the interest( and the sailors whenever they stepped off any of the boats were centres of knots of people who wanted to ask all sorts of questions. One sailor later called to a pal on the deck, "Say, Bill, go below and see if there's any engines in her. I've said a hundred times today that there weren't, but now I'm not just sure myself."

Many were the comments heard on all sides not only on the wonders of the challenger but on the fact that the American sloop was not there. In the ever changing crowd were not a few members of the New York Yacht Club, some of whom expressed regret that Robert W. Emmons, 2d, in refusing to exhibit the Resolute, had said, "We can't help what the people want." This attitude caused much discussion in yachting and sporting circles.

Numerous yachtsmen deplored the fact that the New York Yacht Club should have been held in any way responsible for the utterances of Mr. Emmons. His position, they insisted, was not typical of the rank and file of the members. They did not all agree that it might have been either wise or possible to have exhibited the Resolute, but they did say the managing owner should have explained the reason for his refusal.

Mr. Emmons could not be reached yesterday. He was on his way with the Resolute and her tender, the Montauk, to Bristol, R. I., where the defender is to be put out of commission as rapidly as possible. Neither could Commodore J. P. Morgan be reached. He was at sea in the Corsair.

George A. Cormack, Secretary of the club, when questioned regarding the episode, at first expressed doubt that Mr. Emmons had used the language attributed to him. Then he explained the series had lasted longer than was anticipated, and that, as the charter on the Montauk expires in a day or so, they were compelled to get the Resolute to Bristol as soon as possible so as to deliver the Montauk when the charter expired.

Sir Thomas Calls on Mayor.

Sir Thomas called on Mayor Hylan in the afternoon to thank the people of the city for their hospitality. He said he wanted in particular to thank Fire Commissioner Thomas J. Drennan for the department's work in saving the Shamrock from destruction by fire at City Island last winter. He expressed the opinion that future America's Cup yachts, if of such uniform dimensions or restrictions as to eliminate handicaps, would prove much more interesting to all. Also, he said that were he to build another Cup challenger it would be constructed sturdily enough to meet and cope with any wind or weather conditions that might be encountered off Sandy Hook.

The two Shamrocks, the Killarney and the Molly Bawn will remain on exhibition until eight o'clock tomorrow morning and then will proceed to City Island to be dismantled. The challenger possibly will be scrapped soon and the 23-meter Shamrock sold to some American yachtsman.

This afternoon those who are in the neighborhood of the city pier where the sloops are tied up may see how they lower the lofty topmasts. This has to be done to permit the two sloops to pass underneath the Brooklyn and other bridges over the East River, under which they must pass on their way to City Island.

PRAISE VISITING TEACHERS.

Justice Hoyt Says They Are Aid to Good Citizenship.

The valuable work of the visiting teacher is described in a folder issued by the Public Education Association of this city. The association for the last twelve years has maintained a visiting-teacher staff of its own "to demonstrate the needs of this service and to help principals who would be otherwise deprived of such assistance. Even after the city authorities introduced it as a regular part of the system in 1913 it has continued its staff, in order to supplement their efforts."

The value of their services to the children and to the community has been fully demonstrated and F. C. Hoyt, presiding Justice of the Children's Court, has recently expressed his approval of the work of the visiting teachers thus:

"I have been in close touch with their work for several years and know that many children would find their way annually into the Children's Court if they were not assisted by a visiting teacher at the critical moment in their lives when the sinister influences of their environment begin to destroy what the schools are endeavoring to build up.

"The most effective treatment of delinquency and crime is their prevention. It saves human misery and taxpayers' dollars.

"I believe that if the full significance of the visiting teacher's work as a factor in preventing social wreckage and in the building of good citizenship, particularly in the adolescent period of our school children's lives, were understood, the Board of Education would provide a visiting teacher for every school in the city as a measure of economy."

There are now over a score of cities, in a dozen or more States, which employ visiting teachers as a regular part of the professional staff of the schools.

PUBLISHER LEFT $1,500,000.

Will of W. J. Murphy, Owner of Minneapolis Tribune, Is Probated.

MINNEAPOLIS, July 28.—The will of W. J. Murphy, former publisher of The Tribune, who died Oct. 24, 1918, was admitted to probate today. When originally offered for probate in November, 1918, a contest was filed by the widow and children, and hearing had been postponed from time to time until today. All controversies have been amicably settled, it was said, and an agreement to which all beneficiaries under the will entered was filed in court.

The original will gave to the widow her statutory one-third, to the daughter, Charlotte, an annual allowance not to exceed $6,000 and to the two sons $3,000 each a year during the life of a twenty-year trust, provided in the will. At the expiration of the trust $100,000 goes to the daughter and $50,000 to each of the sons, with discretion given the trustees to increase the amount.

With the exception of some personal property, Mr. Murphy's property consisted of stock in various companies of a par value of aproximately $1,500,000, including The Tribune, of a par value of [illegible]00,000.

PETTIBONE IS FOUND GUILTY

Gets Life Imprisonment for Poisoning His Wife on April 6.

MANCHESTER, Vt., July 29.—Byron M. Pettibone was found guilty today of murder in the second degree for the poisoning of his wife at their home in Bennington on April 6. The jury had been out since yesterday afternoon. He was sentenced to life imprisonment.

The prisoner received the verdict and the sentence with little show of feeling. After being removed from the court room, he was allowed to see relatives and Miss Helen I. Guilow, the trained nurse, who testified to intimacy with him and his infatuation for whom it was contended furnished the motive for the killing of his wife.

Later a stay of execution was granted for thirty days to give attorneys for Pettibone opportunity to present a bill of exceptions. Pettibone was taken to Bennington jail pending a possible appeal.

Mrs. Pettibone died of poison administered to her in a dose of salt prepared by her husband, according to an alleged confession introduced by the prosecution.

Pettibone was an undertaker's assistant, and met Miss Guilow when he went to the home of a relative of hers to prepare a body for burial. Subsequently he pursued his attentions to her while they rode together on his hearse.

FIRST AIR MAIL OFF FOR SAN FRANCISCO

Three Larsen All-Metal Airplanes Leave Central Park, L. I., on Long Flight.

TO CHART WAY FROM OMAHA

Edward Rickenbacker, Leading American Ace in World War, Among Those on Board.

With the first sack of mail destined to be carried across the continent by airplane, three Larsen all-metal airplanes left Central Park, L. I., yesterday morning on an aerial mail pathfinding flight to San Francisco. A number of army and civilian owned planes acted as escort for the pathfinders, flying a short distance over the city with them.

No attempt will be made to break speed records on this flight, it was said. Stops will be made at Cleveland, Chicago, Omaha, Cheyenne, Salt Lake City, and Reno. Particular attention will be paid to the airway between Omaha and the coast, which for aerial mail purposes has not yet been charted. The flight is being conducted under the auspices of the Post Office Department, the United States Air Service and Mr. Larsen.

Announcement already has been made by Assistant Postmaster General Otto Praeger that through coast-to-coast aerial mail service will be instituted in the first week of September. Before that time Omaha and San Francisco will be linked under the Post Office Department's plan.

Edward Rickenbacker, America's leading ace in the World War; Superintendent L. B. Lent of the Aerial Mail Service, and Lieut. Colonel H. H. Hartney of the United States Air Service, were in plane number one, piloted by H. T. Lewis, which took off at 10:08 A. M. This plane carried the mail. John M. Larsen, who introduced the all-metal type plane into this country; E. E. Allyne, a Cleveland business man, and Ernest Buhe were passengers in the second plane, which was piloted by Mons Emil.

The third plane had as passengers Gould Dietz, President of the Aero Club of Nebraska; Lieutenant Charles R. Colt, William B. Stout, designer of the bat wing type of aircraft, and John Bockhorst, a motion picture photographer. Bert Acosta was the pilot.

Mr. Larsen announced that on the return trip he would attempt a one-stop flight from the coast.

CLEVELAND, July 29.—Pilot Bert Acosta, driving one of the three monoplanes that left Long Island this morning on a transcontinental aerial mail flight, landed here at 3 P. M.

The two other machines arrived at 5:30 and 7:15 tonight. The flyers will remain here tonight and expect to reach Chicago at noon tomorrow.

ENOCH ARDEN WINS WIFE.

Returns from War After Being Reported Dead—Rival Gets Divorce.

Special to The New York Times.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 29.—A war version of Enoch Arden, with a different ending, was written into the records of Judge C. A. Burney's court today, with Eugene E. Peel, in the role of Philip Ray.

Back in 1914, according to Peel, there was an Annie Lee living at Carthage, Mo. Her name was Esther Warren. She had two suitors. Besides Peel, there was Henry Curtis. Curtis won in the courtship. He married Esther in Aug., 1914, and Peel came to Kansas City to be away from the scenes that held only sorrowful remembrance.

Then came the World War, and it tore Curtis away from his bride of a year. In 1915 he went with the Canadian army to Belgium. From the battle of Mons came word to Esther of her husband's death. "Gassed and died in hospital," was the official Canadian report.

Peel learned of the widowhood of his former sweetheart and renewed solicitation for her hand. On Sept. 19, 1916, Peel and Esther were wed. They came to Kansas City to live.

In June, 1919, Curtis came home. Months in a hospital, delirious and unable to tell his identity, marks of identification lost, was his explanation for his long absence. He had been gassed and listed as dead in action.

"Not to tell her, never to let her know," the words of Tennyson's Enoch Arden, did not occur to Henry Curtis. He found trace of his wife and showed up in the midst of a seemingly happy married life. Esther was asked to choose. She did. Peel's request for a divorce was granted today.

PACIFIC COAST WOMEN LOSE

Fail to Control Business and Professional Clubs' Convention.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. PAUL, July 29.—Pacific Coast women were defeated today in their two-days' fight for control of the convention of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs when, after an exhaustive debate of the majority and minority reports of the Credentials Committee, the convention voted that no proxies from clubs other than that of which the delegate was a member could be voted. This action dispersed clouds which threatened harmony but probably took from the Pacific Coast States the presidency of the association and the honor of entertaining the 1921 convention. Mrs. Lena Lake Forrest of Detroit is likely to be the next President.

Mrs. Florence Spencer Duryea refused to run for nomination as Vice President. A resolution proposing an endowment fund will probably be presented tomorrow, the fund to be raised next year. Other resolutions will ask the federation to indorse civil service, better housing and release of young women from harems in Armenia.

This afternoon the delegates were entertained by the Minneapolis Business Women's Club and the Minneapolis Women's Rotary Club. The annual banquet at the Athletic Club at 7 P. M. was addressed by Miss Mary Austin and Miss Jeanette Rankin, first woman representative in Congress from Montana.

FINE CLOTHIERS $4,000.

Buffalo Concern Is Found Guilty on Three Profiteering Counts.

Special to The New York Times.

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., July 29.—The Reliable Credit Clothing Company, Buffalo, was sentenced to pay a fine of $4,000 in United States Court today for violation of the Lever act. It was found guilty by a jury of three of sixteen counts charging profiteering. The jury recommended leniency.

James O. Moore of Buffalo, attorney for the company, urged leniency on the ground that the company was a small concern. Its total business last year was $57,000. Judge Hazel said to impose a small fine was only trifling with the purpose of the Lever act.

CROWELL'S PLACE FILLED.

W. R. Williams of Richmond, Va., Is Named as Assistant to Baker.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—William R. Williams of Richmond, Va., has been appointed Assistant Secretary of War, succeeding Benedict Crowell, who resigned recently to return to private business.

Secretary Baker announced that Mr. Williams would take the oath of office tomorrow. Under the Army Reorganization act, he will have charge of procurement of munitions and industrial organization for war.

Mr. Williams is now associated with the Richmond Forging Company and for many years was with the American Locomotive Company.

Big Wheat Crop in Oklahoma.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., July 29.—Unexpected heavy yields will boost the total wheat production of Oklahoma this year to 40,000,000 bushels, John A. Whitehurst, President of the State Board of Agriculture, predicted today. Earlier estimates placed 35,000,000 bushels as a liberal figure for the crop.

KEITH CIRCUIT GETS 8 MOSS THEATRES

Acquires Half Interest in Movie and Vaudeville, Including 2 New Houses.

ITS CITY THEATRES NOW 24

Circuit Is Enabled to Offer Vaudeville Artists Entire Season's Booking in New York.

The B. F. Keith vaudeville circuit announced yesterday the completion of a deal by which it acquires a half interest in the eight picture and vaudeville houses which B. S. Moss now has in operation or under construction in the Greater City. The consideration was not given. In bringing these houses within the Keith circuit the latter takes the greatest single step toward the expansion of its vaudeville holdings which has yet been made, and increases the number of its metropolitan theatres to twenty-four.

Changes in policy will be made almost immediately in many of the Moss houses, and several will be added to the list of first-class vaudeville houses, similar to the Palace, Colonial and others. Others, like Keith's Eighty-first Street Theatre, will be operated as joint vaudeville and picture houses. The only Moss theatre in the theatrical district proper is the Broadway, at Broadway and Forty-first Street. This is at present being operated as a picture house, and its future policy under Keith control has not yet been decided. The name of B. S. Moss, it is declared, will remain "on some of the houses."

The acquisition of the Moss houses will make it possible for the Keith circuit, of which E. F. Albee is the head, to offer vaudeville entertainers consecutive booking in New York City for practically an entire season. The deal adds 19,600 seats to the Keith capacity in New York, bringing it to about 50,000. It had been reported for many months that the deal was about to be put through, and in some quarters it was rumored that the possible invasion of the vaudeville field by the Shuberts was responsible for it, since the Moss houses offered the nucleus of a circuit, and would give anyone who acquired them a possible foothold in the vaudeville field. This theory, however, was scouted by E. F. Albee.

Broadway, Broadway and Forty-first Street. Now being operated as a picture house; policy undecided.

Hamilton, Broadway and 146th Street. Now runs pictures and popular-priced vaudeville; will open as high class vaudeville house in the Fall.

Jefferson, Third Avenue and Fourteenth Street. Will offer first-class vaudeville, with policy similar to that of the Royal, in The Bronx.

Regent, Seventh Avenue and 116th Street. Will be run with pictures and Keith vaudeville.

Coliseum, now building at Broadway and 181st Street. Will seat 3,000, and will open late in September with a policy of vaudeville and pictures.

Dyckman, Sherman Avenue and 207th Street. Will run feature pictures during the week and vaudeville on Saturdays and Sundays.

Flatbush, Church Avenue near Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn. Will be run with feature pictures and vaudeville.

A new theatre now building at Prospect Avenue and 161st Street, The Bronx. It will be opened in October with pictures and vaudeville.

Mr. Moss will hereafter make his headquarters in the Palace Theatre Building.

MUSIC NOTES.

Tschaikovsky's symphony "Pathetique" will be played at the Stadium tonight. Dorothy Jardon will sing airs from "Cavalleria" and "Carmen."

Goldman's Band will play excerpts from Wagner's "Rienzi," "Tannhauser" and "Parsifal" at Columbia this evening. The soloist is Alma Clayburgh.

Six hundred members of the National Association of Organists, in convention here, heard a musical program yesterday at the Capitol Theatre.

Kaltenborn's Orchestra will reappear on the Mall in Central Park tomorrow evening, the leader playing a violin solo, "Love's Ecstacy," by Kreisler.

Mischa Elman, the Russian violinist, will make a farewell appearance in America tomorrow evening in the Auditorium at Ocean Grove, N. J.

THE TONE AMPLIFIER With Grill Removed

Mellow Violin Tones Instead of Metal's Ring

The Brunswick's mellow throated! That's not the only reason, but it is one of the biggest reasons for the tone superiority that made the Brunswick win fame and friends when we brought it East.

That Metallic Sound Is Gone

Remember the big horn of the old-time talking machine? That horn has discreetly hidden behind an artistic grill in the fine new phonographs. But it's still the metal throat that sends out the tone with a metallic quiver in it. You can hear a sort of "machine" sound that disturbs a sensitive ear. The remedy has come with the

Brunswick

That metallic sound has bothered. It is still there—but not in the Brunswick. In the Brunswick, the horn has become an amplifier of carefully molded holly wood, oval shaped. It's the principle of the violin: fine wood, resilient and resonant—instead of metal. Tone clear and true!

Everyman's Judgment

We brought the Brunswick from the West—and it has won its way, not by the verdict of experts—but by the judgment of the man who came and saw and listened—and was conquered by its tone.

You're the final judge. See and compare the Brunswick with the worthiest of its rivals

THE MORAL LAPSE.

As next of kin in the family of nations, Britons may speak frankly to Americans, Americans to Britons, without fear of being misunderstood. For that reason when Mr. Robert Donald, Chairman of the Empire Press Union, in his address at the luncheon given in Halifax to the delegates to the Imperial Press Conference, spoke of the "moral lapse" of the United States, we do not resent the words he saw fit to use half so much as we regret having deserved them. That, we are confident, will be the sentiment of a majority of the American people; and we believe that majority will feel that Mr. Donald drew no false picture when he said that if the two branches of the English-speaking people had acted together after the close of the war as they acted together during the war they "could have reconciled or silenced the clashing interests of Europe, led the new democratic States carved out of the old tyrannical empires gently but firmly into the paths of peace and established on a sure and lasting foundation the League of Nations. Then, indeed, the world would have been made safe for democracy."

The League of Nations, firmly established a year ago, embracing in its membership all the Allied and Associated Powers, would have wielded an irresistible influence and force for the peace of Europe and the world. It would have been too powerful to be defied, its influence would have been too great and compelling to permit its counsels of reason and justice and peace to be disregarded. It has been a year of wrangling, of disappointment and of danger; it might have been a year of friendly and prevailing co-operation for the rebuilding of devastated areas, for the relief of suffering millions who must still suffer, for those financial, territorial and commercial readjustments which are always necessary after war and of which there was sore need after this greatest of all wars. Had the minds and the policies of the nations met in that accord contemplated by the Covenant, they would not now have had to concern themselves, toward the close of the second year after the cessation of hostilities, with the quarrels of new or of old nations, they would have been disturbed by no fears of sinister alliances and terrible outbreaks such as of late have been an occasion for anxiety. Instead of holding supplementary peace conferences to end existing wars they would have been conferring only about ultimate settlements of minor questions arising out of a war already a thing of the past.

The participation of the United States in the frequent councils of the Powers would profoundly have influenced their decisions. From our detached position we should have become an impartial arbiter of differences. We might have restrained the strong, have helped the weak. It is obvious that we should stoutly have resisted any unfortunate tendency toward a relapse into old-time practices, that furtive or open seeking after advantage or aggrandizement which all the world knows has been the leading cause of war in the past. Europe would have been the better, the world would have been the better, for our presence at the council table of the League of Nations, and necessarily and at once the League would have supplanted the Supreme Council brought into existence by the war.

Opponents of the League in our own country, who are responsible for the "moral lapse" we deplore, object that all this would have involved us in the broils of Europe. There lies the foundation question, whether, as Mr. Donald put it, after having made our "triumphant entry" into the war, after having rendered service in the war for which those who fought with us are deeply grateful, it is becoming for us to decline all responsibility for what happened after the war. The Covenant of the League of Nations is not a perfect instrument. It is the work of men. Time may show that it stands in need of amendment. But it is the most nearly perfect safeguard of the world's peace that men have ever devised. We should have followed the path of wisdom and of safety had we accepted it, had we taken upon ourselves the duties and the responsibilities membership in the League might involve. We might have had to bear our part in the composing of disagreeable quarrels; conceivably, in some crises, our Congress might have found it expedient to authorize the use of armed force to extinguish some incipient conflagration. Would it not have been sounder policy to give voluntary aid in averting the danger at its beginning than to hold coldly aloof until the flames had enveloped all Europe, when, for our own peace and security, we should have been compelled, as we were before compelled, to send millions of troops abroad, spend billions of money and sacrifice unnumbered lives in a great war?

Mr. Root set forth in memorable words the great truth of our position at the unveiling of the Lincoln statue in London on Wednesday, when he said it is impossible "that in any great world emergency Great Britain and America can be on opposing sides." We are not on opposing sides. The lapse we all lament is that in these days of a crisis not yet passed we are on no side at all. Mr. Donald's regret is that we are not on the side of Great Britain and she on ours, that the two nations are not standing together as an unconquerable force for peace and justice.

OLD, FAMILIAR FACES.

There is much chuckling among the Wilsonphobes because former Senator Joseph W. Bailey got some 5,000 votes more than his nearest competitor as a candidate for Governor in the Texas Democratic primary. Mr. Bailey has a genius for being "agin" almost everything. For a time Mr. Wilson was his favorite hatred. In the last two months, however, he seems to have neglected that. In his campaign for Governor the open shop was perhaps his chief policy and various local issues were his. He is an anti-suffragist, anti-prohibitionist, a sort of universal "anti." He is a man of ability, a practiced orator. He was the nucleus of many dissatisfactions and he has retained a considerable following of his own. There were three candidates against him. That division in the Democratic Party was his opportunity. As he didn't get a majority, there will be another primary in August. Presumably "the unbowed, bright, insubmissive head" of Mr. Bailey will then be submerged.

News comes from another ancient acquaintance. Mr. Thomas E. Watson of McDuffie County is a candidate for United States Senator from Georgia to succeed Senator Hoke Smith. Only last May there was a union between these two illustrious statesmen and their forces in the Georgia Democratic State Convention. They were one in the sacred purpose of belaboring the Administration. If Mr. Smith hoped to make use of the large number of Watsonians to reelect himself to the Senate, he must be of a remarkably trustful disposition. Mr. Watson speaks for himself. He can hammer the League of Nations harder than even Mr. Smith, and he is not without a regrettable tendency to hammer Mr. Smith also. The situation is depressing to students of these familiar Georgian figures. Both of them can't be elected to the Senate. It would be painful to think that perhaps neither of them can.

THE REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION.

Whatever the differences or collisions of divers leaders, once "bosses," in the unofficial Republican State Convention, it nominated a respectable ticket. Former Judge Nathan L. Miller, while he has had small administrative experience outside of his year as State Controller, has served with distinction in the Supreme Court, the Appellate Division and the Court of Appeals. His intellectual force, his seasoned judgment and his high character are beyond question. In these respects no other candidate whose name came before the convention can be compared with him. Two of them are dissatisfied with the result and propose to appeal to the primaries, as is their right. Senator George F. Thompson, who is always running and thundering like a miniature Niagara, withdrew from the convention, which heartlessly continued without him.

Mr. Thompson's threatened invasion of the primaries can't be taken seriously. On the other hand, Mr. Francis M. Hugo, the Secretary of State, has a wide acquaintance and circulation. He has prepared his candidacy carefully and his petitions seem to be sure of numerous signatures. It is to be hoped that he will run in the primaries, if for no other reason, to show whether the voice of the convention was the voice of "the people"; that is, of such a fraction of the party as would take the trouble to go to the polls. The somewhat acrid warfare against the renomination of Senator Wadsworth was singularly ineffective. He got 988 of 1,108 votes. The opposition to him being largely among the coterie of women voters, women were ingeniously put up to sing his praises. It is worth mentioning that Lieut. Col. Theodore Roosevelt, a chip of the old block, skillfully engineered the nomination of a Nassau County man for Lieutenant Governor.

In a tedious and scrap-bag platform only a few things are worth glancing at. The New York Republicans depend, vainly perhaps, on the national campaign for the election of their State ticket. Experience as to the working of the State-wide primary has been conclusive. The State Convention ought to be restored. It is necessary for party integrity, responsibility and government. In their platform the Republicans chose to bluster about Tammany Hall, their old ally. They discreetly forgot Governor Hughes. While their position is correct, it is fatally weakened by public remembrance of the constant unwillingness of the Republicans in the Legislature to pass a bill repealing the legislation against which they are so bitter in the platform.

The State Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League urbanely calls the Republican prohibition plank "a cowardly falsehood." The doubtless darkened minds of most of the rest of us can't see how prohibition is now any more of an issue than slavery. At any rate, it isn't a State issue; but who can fathom the mysteries of the Anti-Saloon League mind?

The worst thing among many bad things to the discredit of the Legislature of 1920 was its refusal to provide for the reorganization of the State Government. Extravagance cannot cease, responsibility and efficiency cannot begin in the State Government until that organization is effected. Recognizing their mistake, the Republicans of Saratoga emitted some halfhearted and hypocritical sentences on the subject. If they think that this vital, indispensable reform can be checked by shrieks about "Executive aggression" and "Executive dictatorship" they are mightily mistaken. They wail over "the waste and inefficiency at Washington." They have done everything to encourage and nothing to stop waste and inefficiency at Albany. If they are so eager, as the platform says, "to set our house in order," why didn't they do it? In sum, a worthy candidate for Governor has been nominated on a platform rich in "structural weakness."

FOR AN IMAGINARY LEAGUE.

For plain, blunt business men the Republicans are indulging in a lot of metaphysical distinctions these days. They reject with scorn the League of Nations, but they believe devoutly in a League. For the reality, the League actually alive and at work, they have only opposition and contempt, but for an abstract, disembodied League they profess deep affection. They are tremendously strong on the "principle" of the League. But what this is they do not explain. It appears to be some sort of filmy, aerial phantasm, which vanishes as soon as it is touched. In short, the League which the Republicans now say they favor is a ghostly League. It has no real existence. To attempt to give it a body would be fatal. Let Harding try to do it and see what Senator Johnson would say. The robust Californian has nothing of the superstition of the Johnson as yet more famous than he—we mean Dr. Samuel Johnson—and would let no Cock Lane ghost of a Republican League of Nations escape the bludgeon of his denunciation.

THE STEEL STRIKE.

Last year's steel strike is made the subject of belated comments by the Interchurch Movement. Senator Kenyon's committee made an early and full report upon it. There are facts enough for both partial and impartial judgment. The Senate committee report was anything but a whitewashing document. It revealed bad conditions and urged betterment. But it found some good things in the management of the Steel Corporation and some evil things in the conduct of the strike. The Interchurch report is merely an indictment, not a judicial inquiry.

If the movement for greater humanity in the relations between employed and employers has demonstrated anything, it is that the workers need to be protected from friends who volunteer to be generous in their behalf at others' expense. Labor and capital can never be brought together by setting them at each other's throats or by finding that all the rights are on the one side, all the wrongs on the other. Among the differences between the Kenyon and Interchurch reports is the emphasis which the former puts on the interest of the public. The Interchurch report can see no interest but that of labor. If the public has rights, there is a limit to the burdens on capital and to the concessions to labor. But if labor alone is to be considered, there is no limit to either. The winning of the strike would have been followed by an autocracy of labor worse than the alleged autocracy of capital. The defeat of the strike was necessary for the reform of conditions in the steel industry. That appears from the difference between the two reports regarding the motives of the strike. The Interchurch report minimizes the influence of the Bolsheviki, the I. W. W.'s and similar elements among the strikers, and finds that the strike leaders, naming Foster, were in harmony with old-line trade unionism. "The cry of Bolshevism was a fraud on the public." The Kenyon report found that such influences were "powerful," and was specific in condemning Foster. It named other leaders whose records are enough to condemn any movement following them.

The Kenyon report declined even to consider the larger number of the demands of the "borers from within," because it believed them contrary to public policy and the well-being of the country, and put forward only as a cloak for ulterior objects. The Interchurch Movement should be more careful in its choice of agents. The bias of some of them is not concealed. They act like men anxious to start another steel strike. If the Kenyon report was right, nothing in the conditions of employment could justify the strike. It was fairly fought out, and the strikers lost largely because public sentiment was dead against them. Why should outsiders now seek to stir up fresh trouble? There is no evidence that the workers themselves are not busy and contented.

BRING HOME THE BACON.

The Journal of Commerce discloses a situation fraught with danger to our export trade, and also of interest to many who aspire to be, but are not, autocrats of their own breakfast tables. As a result of the war, the British Ministry of Food stands possessed of half a million boxes of American bacon. It is not really good of its kind, the hogs having been slopfed, under pressure of wartime conditions, to produce weight rather than quality. The streaks of lean are thin and separated by huge wads of watery, slate-blue fat. The curing was calculated with regard to preserving the meat in the trenches rather than with regard to the palate of the consumer. In short, it is the bacon so many of us have attempted of late. During the months succeeding the war the Ministry of Foods apparently hoped to work off the stock on the British public, which consumes somewhat larger quantities than native piggeries supply. Now Danish bacon has reappeared, which, thanks to skillful feeding and delicate curing, is universally preferred. The Ministry of Foods faces a serious loss, and the public in general has conceived a prejudice against American bacon.

The simple truth is that, by and large, our bacon is of an inferior quality. The reason doubtless is that through many decades the preference of the well-to-do was for fresh meat, which was abundant and cheap. Chops and steaks were the delight of the American breakfast. Pork products were regarded as inferior food, destined mainly for the construction gang and the lumber camp. On the rare occasions when Americans ate bacon they cut it so thin and fried it so crisp that its quality was largely destroyed; it figured as a condiment rather than as a food. The fencing of the ranges and the migration of farmborn people to the cities put an end to our indulgence in fresh meat. In most European countries it has always been unknown at the breakfast table, and as a result the feeding and curing of bacon has become an art of the finest. Many an American has learned to date his vacation from the day upon which, safely aboard an English liner, he can have meaty, succulent bacon with his eggs seven days in the week.

Unquestionably there is already a considerable demand here for bacon of the European kind and quality. And unquestionably also we are able with a little intelligence and care to meet the European competition both as to quality and price. The reproach with which our merchants have been most frequently charged is a failure to study the tastes of foreign markets and to meet unfamiliar demands with promptitude and skill. It is the fault of a new country, over-rich in resources; but if we are to take our rightful place in the markets of the world it must be corrected. It is a counsel of obvious wisdom to bring home that bacon—or, preferably, to see that it is sent to the people of Central Europe, who are so sorely in need of any kind of nourishing food.

TESCHEN.

Another of the innumerable disputes that sprang up at the Peace Conference, to the consternation of statesmen who had never heard of them but had to decide them, has now been settled by the arbitration of the Council of Ambassadors. The dispute between the Poles and Czechs over Teschen has been compromised and one may hope that the settlement will be somewhat more enduring than have been some of the others reached by this method.

Teschen was a duchy attached to Bohemia, and swallowed up along with Bohemia by the Hapsburgs. Historically it belonged to the Czechs, but the bulk of the population is Polish. The district contains valuable coal mines which both Poles and Czechs wanted and on which Bohemian industry had largely depended. Before outsiders knew that the brotherly emotions aroused by the struggle against the Teuton had evaporated, Poles and Czechs were engaged in actual war; a localized war, to be sure, but a somewhat peevish one.

If the Poles were mainly in the wrong in starting it, as seems probable from this distance, they suffered more in consequence. Bad feeling generated by the fighting set against each other two kindred and neighbor nations which badly need each other's friendship and support. Not only could the Poles count on no help from the Czechs in their war against Russia, but the Russians even hoped, though in vain, for a Czech attack on the Polish rear. The Czechs have remained neutral, but Poland has found little sympathy among them. By the ambassadorial arbiters the district has been divided in almost equal parts, with Poland getting the town of Teschen, where the Austrian Army headquarters were situated during most of the war, and the Czechs the coal mines, but with the stipulation that Poland must be allowed part of the coal at fair prices. This is seemingly about as well as anybody could do in the way of a settlement, and ought to satisfy both sides.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Inspecting the Size of Profits. That profiteering at least could be reduced if "ultimate consumers" were better informed as to wholesale prices and as to both the number and size of the profits that are all included in the price finally paid—that has long been more than a suspicion in the minds of the seemingly not many people who refuse to admit that prices go up and down through the workings of a mysterious law with which human beings have nothing to do.

Of course there is such a thing as "the law of supply and demand," but it is far from being the only influence that affects prices, and, strictly speaking, a decrease of supply and an increase of demand does not so much put up prices as create an opportunity for the controllers of the supply to put the prices up.

It is presumably as a result of ideas such as these that it has been suggested, recently, that dealers should be compelled plainly to mark cost as well as selling price on their goods. That, however, would not help the ultimate consumer much if the last handler of an article were obliged to reveal only what he himself was making on it, and he would be unable in most, or at least in many, cases to provide the customer with a full record of all profits above what the original producer received for what was sold. But to be helped even a little would count in living costs these days, and that there are cases in which revelation of the last profit alone would count for more than a little has just been demonstrated by the agents of the Department of Justice in this city.

Tides Rise, But Prices Are Raised. As it happened, it only required a threat to prosecute takers of excessive profits very appreciably to reduce the excess. The plan of the department's agents was to go to the Harlem farmers' market, find out what prices were paid there for vegetables by the retailers, and then to see whether or not those dealers, later in the day, charged their customers more than the permitted and agreed advance of 25 per cent. on dry groceries and 35 per cent. on the kind called "green."

As soon as this plan was announced there was a sudden and decided drop in prices—at the market! Potatoes, for instance, were reported to be selling at $5.50 a barrel, instead of at $9, as they did the day before, and there were similar, though smaller, drops in all sorts of vegetables. Neither supply nor demand had changed materially, so the justly celebrated and deservedly revered law of supply and demand, though doubtless it was working as usual, was some ways from being the chief factor in determining the level at which the day's transactions were carried on.

If happenings of this sort are repeated often enough, and get from the public the thoughtful consideration they are worth, in time there may be few people left to hear with patience, as a sufficient explanation of increased demands on their purses, the familiar statement that the price of this, that or the other thing has "gone up." Prices do not go up; they are put up, sometimes with and sometimes without justification, and always by persons who have names, places of business and all the other attributes of individual being, including legal and moral responsibility for their acts.

He Saw Them as They Are. Nothing could better show the sort of minds possessed by the inmates of the Bedford Reformatory—or better illustrate the difficulty of keeping them in order—than what happened when Governor Smith visited that institution on Wednesday. Every one of the girls there knew that he was coming, and they would not have had to be intellectual giants—plain common sense would have sufficed—to realize that they had an opportunity to make by good behavior while he was present a favorable impression on his Excellency.

Had they been gentle, quiet and courteous while he was at the reformatory he might have been able to hope, however it might have been for a man as much sophisticated as he about believing, that the tales he had heard about their wildness and ferocity were exaggerations of their youthful vivacity or that treatment unnecessarily harsh had driven them to conduct that manifested desperation rather than viciousness.

But even such simple craft as this was beyond the capacity of these unfortunates. The rioters of previous exciting days welcomed the Governor with shrieks and curses, kept up as long as he was in sight and hearing, and they showed no slightest respect either for his office or for his purpose to improve their condition, if to do so were possible or required. In short, the girls wholly neglected their opportunity and did their best, or worst, to justify the assertions of those who say that they can be kept in decent order only by disciplinary measures always stern and sometimes painful.

Sound Minds Are Not Endangered. An alienist, just returned from Europe, is reported to have said that the ouija board is driving insane as many people there as here and that the number of its victims on both sides of the water is considerable. Perhaps he was not quoted correctly and perhaps he was not speaking with care. The ouija board does not drive anybody insane; it may be, not infrequently, the means through which unstable mental equilibrium is first brought to notice. In every such case, if it had not been the ouija board it would have been something else that, sooner or later, made the same revelation. People in the full possession of their faculties may be sufficiently ignorant of psychology to believe that by this instrument they come into communication with disembodied spirits, but they do not become insane because of that delusion.

Sane people who are better informed regard the ouija board as an interesting toy, while serious scientists utilize its aid, sometimes, in gaining access to the subconscious. Nobody in either class for a moment imagines or suspects that ouija writing is done by anybody except those whose fingers are placed upon it.

The often quite honest protestations that they do nothing of the kind can be met either with arguments based on known and demonstrable facts or they can be dismissed with a polite and kindly smile, according to circumstances.

HARDING'S SPEECH.

Two Sets of Opinions Noted in the Candidate.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

After reading so many of the various opinions on the Harding speech of acceptance as expressed by readers of your valuable paper, I cannot refrain from also giving my innermost thoughts.

I have read and reread, and after thoroughly analyzing his stand on the League of Nations issue can come to no other conclusion than that he can boast of dual personalities—No. 1, Harding the Senator; No. 2, Harding the candidate—for his actions in the former capacity do not harmonize with the utterances of the latter.

But we must not censure or criticise him too severely, for after all we must concede that he is a good politician even if lacking in statesmanship.

He has given us a wonderful exhibition of his ability as the former by his subserviency and pliability to the various elements of his party, which shows what may be expected should he be chosen to the office he aspires to and that his record and actions in the Senate on the treaty issue were not the product of his own mind and convictions but of Lodge.

His utterances as a candidate are not like those of a man of free and independent thought, but were written with the spectre of a Johnson and the shadow of a Borah hovering around him.

So there you are. Chameleon-like he has fully measured up to the expectations of those who sponsored his candidacy, and there is no intelligent reason to suppose that he will fail to do so if elevated to the office he is in quest of.

The Old Fear of Russia.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The remarkable memoranda of General Ludendorff on the danger of Bolshevism, published in today's Times, vividly recalls a conversation with Sir Edwin Arnold in 1889, when he expressed the same views, which may be of interest to your readers.

We were returning from India on the old P. & O. S. S. Nizam, and as we walked the deck the conversation turned on Russia. In view of the present situation his words seemed almost prophetic and are in singular analogy with the sentiments of General Ludendorff.

Stopping suddenly, with great earnestness he said:

"Unless the European nations and America join in some great movement to check the coming avalanche, the day is not distant when a great crisis will arise and the hordes of Russia will pour over Europe and drive its people and its civilization into the sea. It is for your country and ours to cultivate the most intimate relations, so that when the critical hour arrives we shall be able to meet the issue that threatens our destruction."

It was the memory of these words that led me to advocate the movement for the establishment of the Peace and Arbitration League, the forerunner of the League of Nations of today. Our fundamental idea was to unite the nations of the world in a movement in which each country would supply its quota of naval and military power to maintain the peace of the world, under rules to be established by The Hague Tribunal, but under which no country would be bound to surrender any of its own sovereign rights.

As to "Nationalization of Women."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I question the fact of nationalization of women in Soviet Russia, which was insinuated in your Rotogravure Section of July 18 last. As against the nationalization decree of the city of Saratov, read into the record of the United States Senate Judiciary Committee, February, 1919, I offer the following:

The United States State Department officially denied the story, Feb. 28, 1919—more than sixteen months ago.

Jerome Davis of the American Red Cross denied it from first-hand knowledge, in The Independent, March 15, 1919—sixteen months ago.

Oliver M. Saylor, an American official, who was in Saratov at the time, says the "decree" was invented by some irresponsible individual and signed "The Free Association of Anarchists of Saratov"—a forgery—to discredit the Anarchists. The Anarchists were never in power; the Bolsheviki hated them, and had jailed several hundred of them. Mr. Saylor presented these facts in The New Republic, March 15, 1919—sixteen months ago.

The Central Soviet Government published on May 18, 1918, a decision imposing a fine of 25,000 rubles on the Moscow comic paper Evening Life for printing a fictitious nationalization decree on May 3, and suppressed the paper.

The New Europe, which first published the nationalization story, made a full retraction and apology.

Harold Williams, who sent the story to England, also apologized.

Mme. Catherine Breshkovsky, the "Grandmother of the Russian Revolution" and an ardent opponent of Bolshevism, denied that Russian women have been nationalized or have any governmental compulsion put upon them in such matters.

I am not a Bolshevik, an anarchist, a Socialist, or anything of the kind. I believe that Bolshevism is a tragic folly. But I also believe that it is an axiom of justice that accused persons shall be deemed innocent until proved guilty.

HINES STUDIES DANUBE.

Shipping Arbitrator Also to Inspect Traffic on Rhine.

Special Cable to The New York Times.

VIENNA, July 29.—Walker D. Hines, the American arbitrator of the Danube shipping question, has just held a conference in Vienna on the best methods to be used regarding the partition of floating stock among the border States. He returned to Vienna from a voyage on the Danube between Passau and Guirgewot. On the voyage he inspected ports and conferred with Governments in search of information pertaining to floating equipment.

Mr. Hines will soon leave with his wife and daughter for Prague, then return to Paris by way of Strasbourg and Coblenz for the purpose of observing the operation of fleets on the Rhine.

Edward A. Filene, a well-known Boston merchant, has arrived in Vienna with Lincoln Steffens investigating the Austrian situation and conferring with leading business and political figures.

WELCOMES LEAGUE COUNCIL

Spain's Premier Meets Trainload of Delegates at San Sebastian.

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain, July 29 (Associated Press).—The members of the Council of the League of Nations arrived here at 11 o'clock this morning by special train from Paris. They held informal conferences in preparation for the opening of the full council meeting tomorrow.

The Spanish Premier, Eduardo Dato, with the Minister of Foreign Affairs, the Marquis de Lema and several other members of the Cabinet, went to the station to greet the delegates, who, with a large number of secretaries, including American, British, French, Japanese, Italian and Spanish, occupied the entire train.

SUFFRAGE GAINS IN BELGIUM

Chamber of Deputies Passes Bill Opening Way for Change.

BRUSSELS, July 28.—The woman suffrage cause in Belgium made an advance today when the Chamber of Deputies, avoiding a crisis over the question by its action, voted by an overwhelming majority for the passage of a bill to revise Article 47 of the Constitution dealing with suffrage.

The bill accepts the principle that any future Parliament, by a two-thirds majority, may vote suffrage to women without necessitating a new revision of the Constitution.

WANT BIGGER FREIGHT RISE.

Canadian Roads to Ask Still Higher Rates to Meet Wages.

MONTREAL, July 29.—An additional increase in freight rates will be sought by the Canadian Railway Association on behalf of all the roads in the Dominion in order to meet the cost of raising wages to the same level as those of railway workers in the United States.

Application for the increase will be filed with the Dominion Railway Commission, which already has a request from the association for permission to increase rates by 30 per cent.

DEMANDS 7-CENT FARES.

Connecticut Company Says It Lost $87,000 in Six Weeks.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 29.—A seven-cent trolley fare is the only thing which can keep the Connecticut Company out of the bankruptcy court, Judge Walter C. Noyes, chairman of the board of Federal trustees, told the Public Utilities Commission at a hearing today.

The petition for a seven-cent flat rate in cities, in place of the present complicated zone system, was before the Commission. Judge Noyes said the company had lost $87,000 between June 1 and July 15.

"This loss occurred in the season when a reserve should be piling up against the lean months next Winter, and when the company is not paying interest, taxes and rentals," he declared.

"The loss of $87,000 is in operating expenses, strictly speaking," he added. "If we go on at the present rate, we cannot possibly go for more than two months, and I don't think we can last six weeks. The wheels couldn't turn any longer than that."

Counsel representing Manchester, New Haven and Meriden protested the proposed rate. New Haven wants a five cent fare.

LAUNCH TWO DESTROYERS.

The Edsall and the Sturtevant Set Afloat on the Delaware.

PHILADELPHIA, July 29.—Two torpedo boat destroyers were launched at Delaware River Shipyards today.

The Edsall, named for the late N. E. Edsall, who was killed in 1899 on the Island of Upola, Samoa, when sixty sailors of the U. S. S. Philadelphia, sixty British sailors and 150 friendly natives were ambushed, slid down the ways at Cramps shipyard. Edsall's sister, Mrs. Bessie Edsall Bracey, of Sheridan, Mich., was the sponsor.

The Sturtevant, named after Ensign Albert D. Sturtevant, who was the first American naval aviator killed in the World War, was launched at the yards of the New York Shipbuilding Corporation, Camden, N. J. The vessel was named by Sturtevant's sister, Mrs. Curtis Ripley Smith, of St. Albans, Vt.

RAILROADS GET $18,915,000.

Commission Grants Loan of $17,910,000 to Great Northern.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Approval of three new loans to railroads aggregating $18,915,000 was announced today by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

A loan of $17,910,000 to the Great Northern was approved to enable the road to purchase locomotives, steel ore cars, freight cars and for additions and betterments which will directly promote the movement of freight cars.

The Central of Georgia received $815,000 for the purchase of additional equipment and the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic $200,000 to aid in meeting $475,000, due July 19.

UTILITY COAL SUPPLY LOW.

I. R. T. and B. R. T. Have Only Enough for Four Days.

The weekly coal report made public yesterday by Public Service Commissioner Nixon shows a total among all the utilities of 237,396 tons of soft coal on hand. This is a decrease of 1,645 tons compared with previous week, proving Commissioner Nixon's contention that the situation is still serious. The Interborough and B. R. T. systems have a four days' supply, according to the report. The Brooklyn Union Gas Co. has enough fuel on hand to last a week. The Consolidated Gas Co. is in a much better position, having nearly a month's supply.

QUAKE OPENS OIL WELLS.

Two Turned Up in Los Angeles Will Be Developed by the City.

LOS ANGELES, July 29.—Two oil wells were opened on city-owned property by yesterday's earthquake, the City Engineer reported.

HYLAN FOR LIBERTY HALL

Mayor, in Letter, Takes Stand That Bridge Should Be Considered as Separate Proposition.

The Mayor's Committee on Permanent War Memorial, after a short discussion of the memorial plan yesterday at a meeting in City Hall, at which only twenty-three out of 250 members were present, postponed further action on the project until Aug. 16. Motions to delay the whole matter for at least six months in order that a fuller discussion might be permitted were defeated.

Henry H. Curran, President of the Borough of Manhattan, was the leader in the fight to delay action until a more representative set of opinions regarding the form of the memorial might be obtained. He was opposed by members of the Mayor's official family. "I scent a disposition to rush this through," said Mr. Curran. "France has decided to wait not six months but twenty years before building a memorial. And don't forget that that is the country that has the Arc de Triomphe."

Mayor Hylan sent a letter to Rodman Wanamaker, Chairman of the committee, reviewing the suggestions that have been made and asking that the committee be kept in session during the Summer so that some conclusion regarding the memorial might be reached. Corporation Counsel John P. O'Brien and others echoed the Mayor's suggestions and declared that further delay would expose the city to ridicule.

Curran Opposes All Three Suggestions.

"I oppose all three suggestions made by the Art Committee," said Mr. Curran. "A memorial bridge is essentially utilitarian. You might as well talk of the subway as a solemn monument. The Liberty Hall plan is also utilitarian. I suppose that the hall would be used for political conventions. Madison Square Garden, the site proposed, is in the midst of commercial structures. On all four sides buildings are allowed to have great height and it would soon be hemmed in. I am opposed also to the proposed arch in Madison Square. It is a traffic absurdity to build a memorial arch there.

"This is a serious matter. I don't believe that it has to be decided today. There are nearly 6,000,000 persons in this city and most of them are interested in this memorial. Moreover, you have not heard from 200,000 to 300,000 ex-service men and women in the city. I think they ought to have something to say about the memorial."

Robert Adamson said he believed that action should be postponed to October. Other members opposed further delay. Chamberlain Berolzheimer said that the committee should meet again soon so as to permit a full discussion. Assistant Corporation Counsel James Bleeker Miller said he believed the monument should be an ideal, and it was only by frequent meetings that such a thought could be brought out.

23 Committeemen Favor Bridge.

"It would be premature to take any action today," said Henry Fairfield Osborn. "The most important thing is to bring before the public the principal plans. I trust that the meeting will adjourn until October so as to get a full expression of opinions." Mr. Osborn said that in his talks with a number of persons he had been impressed with the unanimity of the expressions favoring a Liberty Bridge. "In selecting a memorial, we must keep in mind the scale of the sacrifice and the scale of the city of New York and erect something of fitting magnitude," he said.

Of seventy-five written expressions of views received from members of the committee, twenty-three favored a bridge, three a Liberty Hall and three a Liberty Arch, it was reported at the meeting. Many of the members said they favored postponement of action. Park Commissioner Francis D. Gallatin submitted a suggestion for a Victory Drive along Riverside Park, with a replica of the temple of winged victory of the Acropolis at a point in the park.

The Mayor, in his letter to Mr. Wanamaker, which in his absence was read by Commissioner Grover A. Whalen, who presided, said in part:

"Personally, I am of the opinion that a bridge across the Hudson River, connecting as it would the States of New York and New Jersey, has so much merit and would be of so much value to the people of the City of New York that I feel it should be considered solely as an independent proposition and not in connection with the War Memorial.

Hylan for Liberty Hall Plan.

"With regard to Liberty Hall, this recommendation has elements in it that should at once attract to itself the serious consideration of the committee. The fact that it would make possible the building of the largest convention hall in the world, to my mind, is one of the best reasons that could be advanced for its selection. Further, the fact that, combined with a convention hall, there would be planned quarters for the American Legion, a conservatory of music and a sacred Gothic chapel, commemorating the sacrifice of all those who had gone to their final resting place, with the names of the golden star mothers inscribed on the altar of peace, would, in my opinion, make it an ideal war memorial. The suggestion made by you, Mr. Chairman, that in this building the greatest organ in the world should be erected, so that there would be every facility for the free musical education of the people of the city, also appeals to me very much.

"I think in Liberty Hall all the elements that should be combined in a war memorial are present—the artistic as well as the utilitarian. The fact that it would permit of a gathering of our people to the number of 20,000 makes it especially attractive to our very large population. After much thought and serious study I have arrived at the conclusion that Liberty Hall as the permanent war memorial would come as nearly solving the question that is before your General Committee as any idea that has as yet been presented.

"However, I do not desire to press my views upon you, but if it is not possible at this time for you to take some steps to bring about the selection of Liberty Hall as the permanent war memorial for the City of New York, I feel, in that event, you should bring forth some plan that would, as soon as possible, take concrete form in the way of an arch or a Gothic chapel."

TUMULTY LETTER IN PRESSAGENTINQUIRY

CALLS SUICIDE HOAX CRUDE

Publicity Man Cites Plan to "Kidnap" Clara Kimball Young as Sample of His Work.

District Attorney Swann, who has been investigating the part played by press agents in the "suicide" in a Central Park lake of a fictitious character in a Japanese film play, began to make inquiries also concerning quack publicity methods in connection with a series of motion picture plays, including "The Virgin of Stamboul," a "Tarzan" picture and a film described briefly as "The Cannibals."

Mr. Swann questioned Harry Reichenbach, a press agent, who denied implication in the suicide fake, which he denounced as "crude." He admitted, however, that he was the creator of the missing Virgin of Stamboul affair and the Belleclaire lion episode and that he was now engaged in using his wits to promote a film play dealing with cannibals.

At the request of Mr. Swann, Reichenbach produced contracts calling for the payment of $1,000 and $1,500 a week for his services, which were described as "exploiting, publicizing and attracting attention to "The Virgin of Stamboul" and "creating sensational manifestations" in connection with it. Another contract showed that, after the Bellaclaire lion episode, the film concern had inserted a clause which placed on the press agent the responsibility for damage to animals, property or person that might arise from the "sensational manifestations."

Got Assurances from President.

When offering evidence that the Japanese fake was not in his own style at all, Mr. Reichenbach instanced as a typical conception of his own the plan of having Clara Kimball Young kidnapped by Mexicans and held for heavy ransom until rescued by eight blond cavalrymen.

"I went abroad for the Creel Bureau, doing exactly this same type of work," he said. "I spent $8,800 of my own money and got shot up with shrapnel. I could not get the money back and so I tried to get it back in trade. I got the assurance that President Wilson would back me in this little bandit raid. Clara Kimball Young did not even know it was going to happen."

Mr. Reichenbach took from his pocket a letter on White House stationery, signed by J. P. Tumulty, who said that the matter would "be taken up." The publicity man said that the "matter" referred to was the proposed Clara Kimball Young border episode. He was unfortunately interrupted before he explained why the idyllic little international embroilment was canceled.

"I went through Italy doing press agent work for President Wilson," he said. "I made them bow down and pray to him before they did to the saints, and I spent my own money doing it. I deserved some return."

Where He Got "Publicizing."

The publicity man said he was ready to make oath that the first he had ever heard of the Japanese suicide was on Tuesday in Pittsburgh, when he saw a reference to it on the bulletin board of The Pittsburgh Dispatch.

When the Reichenbach contracts were being read Mr. Swann interrupted to ask:

"That word 'publicizing,' where did you get that?"

"President Wilson used it at a dinner before he sent us abroad, and he used it in his final instructions before we sailed," replied Reichenbach.

Mr. Reichenbach told Mr. Swann that his tricks and devices were only a variation of usual publicity methods. He instanced pictures of Mrs. Cox making biscuits which have appeared since the nomination of Governor Cox; Governor Coolidge pitching hay and other pleasing pictures of candidates as specimens of publicity not differing from his own work.

"I see," said Mr. Swann, "it's the same old thing, dumb-show and noise 'to split the ears of the groundlings.' I believe that is classical, Mr. Cox," addressing a Shakespearian scholar who happened to be in the room.

"I'll make a note of that," said Reichenbach, taking out a pencil. "I'll have to remember that."

Sees No Harm in a Good Fake.

Mr. Swann declined to say whether he thought Reichenbach was innocent.

"I agree with the newspapers and the District Attorney in resenting this clumsy Japanese suicide fake," said Reichenbach after leaving the District Attorney's office, "but I can't see what harm a good fake does to anybody. I used to be a newspaper reporter, and I was the worst newspaper reporter that ever lived. Then I was an advance man, getting $75 a week. In the last six years, at the line of work I am in, I have made $300,000. I gave my ideas away for twenty years before I found I could sell them.

"I was the man who had May Yohe missing seven years ago or so. They dragged the lake and they dragged the Hudson, and the next day we opened at Hammerstein's. I planted that story up in New England where the big picture of the matinee idol was stolen from the lobby of a theatre and found in a young ladies' boarding school. As for this law against slipping misinformation to newspapers, what is the matter with going over to New Jersey and doing it?"

Mr. Swann said that he would question several other press agents today in the hope of discovering the perpetrator of the Japanese suicide fake.

DOESN'T KNOW REICHENBACH.

Tumulty Says "Swann Ought to be Kidnapped" for Giving Story Out.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary to President Wilson, said tonight that he did not know Harry Reichenbach, the film press agent, summoned by District Attorney Swann.

"If Mr. Swann allowed this story to be given out with his consent," said Mr. Tumulty, when told the import of the alleged letter, "Swann ought to be kidnapped."

Hammerstein Sues for $10,000.

Arthur Hammerstein sued Herbert Corthell, a singer, in the Supreme Court yesterday for $10,000, which he alleges Corthell obtained from him for a half interest in the song, "The Argentines, the Portuguese and the Greeks." Hammerstein says that Corthell was not the sole owner of the song, as he represented, but had only the right to sing the song on the stage.

20,000 FILM HOUSES LINKED.

Details of French Concern Given at Dinner to Promoter Himmel.

Speakers who discussed the Franco-American Cinematograph Corporation, an American subsidiary of the Société Cinematographique of France, and recently capitalized at $100,000,000, pointed out at a dinner in the Ritz-Carlton last night that the free exchange of pictures between France and America would further cement America's cordial relations with France and have high educational value. André Himmel, who organized the American subsidiary, was the guest of honor on the eve of his departure for France after a three months' stay here.

Maurice Casenave, French High Commissioner, presided at the dinner. Among the speakers were Lucien Perret, head of the French Film Service during the war; McDougal Hawkes and M. Himmel.

In his address M. Himmel disclosed that the original corporation already controlled about 20,000 theatres and exhibition places in Europe, 2,200 of which are in France, 2,495 in Germany, 1,650 in Italy, 1,935 in England, 1,203 in Austria, 725 in Spain, and the rest scattered in other countries of Europe. Among the film producing and distributing companies controlled are the Pathe Freres and Eclipse of France, Commercial Films, Ltd., of England, Societe Monopole of Italy and Cie Belge Cinematographique of Belgium.

"We have succeeded in grouping together in Europe all that is important in the moving picture industry," M. Himmel said. "A perfection in method and in execution is necessary, but more necessary is the first concentration of all the spokes of action in a single unit of direction. By adding to your already perfect methods of execution the dexterity of French art we should arrive at a perfect production which nothing could surpass.

"The French Government has especially charged me to make you feel that we can arrive at a more perfect understanding of America by France and France by America through motion pictures. The exhibition of everything which can recreate or instruct is the rôle which motion pictures hereafter must play."

Although not prepared to announce the names of those who will constitute the Board of Directors of the American corporation, it was announced that the following had been named as members of an Executive Committee until the board has been formed: E. H. Fleishman of the Fleishman Construction Company; MacDougal Hawkes, attorney; H. W. Miller of Keech & Co., bankers, and José Castellot, former Mexican Ambassador to Sweden and member of the Mexican Senate.

Among those who attended the dinner were Marcus Loew, Louis Selznick, Arthur S. Kane and Colonel George W. Burleigh.

AID FOR DISABLED SOLDIERS

Rotary Club Starts Movement to Interest Business Men.

A nation-wide movement to interest business men in the work of restoring "the personal equilibrium" of disabled overseas veterans and fitting them for future usefulness was started yesterday at a luncheon of the New York Rotary Club at the McAlpin Hotel. The plan is the result of a visit of a committee, headed by William H. Brady, to the Fox Hills Sanitarium.

Dr. Clinton E. Achorn, former president of the club, said the rehabilitation problem was one of the most serious which the country faces. He said the club could co-ordinate its efforts in such a manner as to be of material assistance to the Government in solving it.

Arthur Woodward said that the Government was doing a good work in a just and fair way. "Business men should give all the aid possible," he said. Mr. Woodward said a plan had been considered and would soon be promulgated for the Rotary Club's participation in the work.

Colonel J. H. Ford, commandant at Fox Hills, said the country faced much the same problem that followed the civil war, when large numbers of men who came out of the conflict, could not "find themselves" and formed an army of tramps.

Ralph T. Fisher, district vocational officer of the Federal Board, said the duty of the Government should be extended to aid men injured through accidents in industrial pursuits. He said that in his district there were 6,000 ex-service men who must now be helped. Of these 3,000 are in New York. All of them are now being trained vocationally, he said.

CUBANS GIVE $100,000 TO ROOSEVELT FUND

TELLS OF T. R.'S SERVICES

Says Government Has Passed Four Laws to Show Its Appreciation and Now Plans Another.

The people of Cuba presented a check for $100,000 to the Roosevelt Memorial Fund yesterday through Colonel Aurelio Hevia, President of the Roosevelt Memorial Association of Cuba, yesterday afternoon. The formal presentation was made at the offices of the Roosevelt Memorial Association, 1 Madison Avenue. The contribution was received by William Boyce Thompson, President of the national association, prominent members of the Executive Committee, including William Loeb, Jr., and Colonel Raymond Robins.

Colonel Hevia was Secretary of the Interior and of War in Cuba during the administration of General Wood. He was accompanied yesterday by Congressman Frederico G. Morales, Secretary of the Roosevelt Memorial Association of Cuba.

Describing the efforts of the Cuban Government and the people of the island adequately to show their appreciation of the services Theodore Roosevelt rendered the Cuban Republic, Colonel Hevia declared that four specific laws had been passed in honor of Colonel Roosevelt by the Cuban Congress, that his name was revered in the public schools and his memory perpetuated by monuments and pictures in public places. Few homes in Cuba were without their photograph of America's great son, he said.

The first of the laws referred to authorizes the Cuban Government to have the proclamation of President Roosevelt announcing the establishment of the Republic of Cuba cast into bronze and placed in the halls of the Cuban Congress. The second authorizes the construction of a monument to Theodore Roosevelt in Cuba, costing $125,000. The third calls for a bronze wreath to be placed on Colonel Roosevelt's grave in Oyster Bay, bearing the inscription: "The Republic of Cuba to her Best Friend." The fourth authorizes the construction of a memorial to Colonel Roosevelt on San Juan Hill.

A fifth law will be presented at the forthcoming session of the Cuban Congress in November, Colonel Hevia said. The bill, already drawn, calls for an official contribution of $100,000 by the Cuban Government to the American Roosevelt Memorial Fund. The $100,000 check which Colonel Hevia presented to the national fund represents the gifts of 100,000 men, women and children on the island of Cuba. Every one of the 8,000 soldiers of the Cuban regular army contributed 20 cents each. Colonel Hevia announced that the total popular subscription in Cuba probably would amount to $115,000, as the provinces of Pino Del Rio and Las Villas had not yet been heard from.

In addition to the laws the Government has issued instructions to the schools that Colonel Roosevelt's picture be hung in every school building in the republic, and that some passage from his works be read in every public school every days.

In accepting the check for the fund, Colonel Thompson said:

"I want to assure you I am fully aware of the unusual character of the event which brings us together this afternoon. A people of another race, another language, another tradition, today brings to the memory of one who was the greatest citizen of a neighbor nation its tribute of devotion. It is as far as I know an unprecedented act in history.

"In the name of the Roosevelt Memorial Association I thank you and I thank the people of Cuba for this most generous outpouring of treasure to honor the man who aided when they most needed aid. The American people will remember this act and feel more closely akin than ever to the people of Cuba because of this evidence that the man whom America loved Cuba loved also."

BRADY LEADS IN RACE OF WALL STREET PLAYS

Stages 'Opportunity' Tonight, Retaliating on Woods's 'Crooked Gamblers' Tomorrow.

A race of Wall Street plays to New York promises to be won at the Forty-eighth Street Theatre tonight by William A. Brady, who will bring his production of "Opportunity" to town twenty-four hours in advance of the presentation of "Crooked Gamblers" at the Hudson Theatre by A. H. Woods. Mr. Woods announced early yesterday afternoon that he would present his play at the Hudson Theatre tomorrow night, and Mr. Brady, upon hearing of the decision, retaliated by announcing his production for tonight.

Reports that the plays were similar have been current for some time, although Mr. Brady declared last night that the only point of similarity was that both plays revolved around a corner in Wall Street.

"Crooked Gamblers," previously known as "Tomorrow's Price" and "The Exposé," is the work of Samuel Shipman and Percival Wilde, and was originally announced for production at the Hudson on Aug. 9. "Opportunity," by Owen Davis, was to be presented at the Forty-eighth Street Theatre next Wednesday. Mr. Mrady last night accused Mr. Woods of breaking faith in moving forward the opening of "Crooked Gamblers" on short notice.

Taylor Holmes will head the cast of "Crooked Gamblers," and the company will also include Felix Krembe, William B. Mack, Maude Hanaford, Robert McWade, Edmund Abbey, Martin L. Alsop, Purnell Pratt, Tommie Meade, Louise MacIntosh, and Doris Kelly. James L. Crane and Lily Cahill will play the leading rôles in "Opportunity," and others in the cast will include Clifford Dempsey, Kenneth McKenna, Nita Naldi, Leonard Willey, Nora Sprague, Isabel Vernon, and Eveta Knudsen.

CARDS ONCE MORE BEATEN BY GIANTS

Rickey's Men Lose the Third Straight and Their Conquerors Move to Heels of Pirates.

NEHF HAS ONE BAD INNING

Visitors Erase Three-Run Lead in Sixth, but New Yorkers Take It Right Back and Win, 6 to 3.

Branch Rickey's traveling troupe of baseball performers continued its exhibition at the Polo Grounds yesterday, and lost the third straight game since coming to the metropolis several days ago. The Giants, by winning, climbed a little higher, and are now only a few points away from the Pirates, who endangered their slim hold on third place by dropping a game to the Phillies. Another day with the Cards and the Giants may be staring second place right in the face.

Yesterday's affair, which ended with a score of 6 to 3 showing on the scoreboard, was as quiet as a prayer meeting in a New England village. A goodly number of soft-voiced fans gathered for the contest, but what they thought of the happenings was kept locked in their breasts. There was very little noise, the Giants loafing along and making enough runs to win without undue turbulence. When the Cards came up even in the sixth the Giants simply took the lead right back in the same inning.

McGraw's nomination for the twirling assignment was Artie Nehf, and the southpaw had a quiet time with the Mound City clan. He went along without allowing a run until the sixth, when McHenry's homer into the left-field bleachers with two on the bases tied the score at 3—all. This rude blow brought Nehf back to earth again, and he refused to permit the Cards to get familiar in the succeeding innings. In their half of the sixth the Giants scored three times, putting the Cards back where they were before McHenry's long blow, and there they stayed.

Hornsby Makes Costly Blunder.

Rogers Hornsby, who has been nursing a spike wound for two days, returned to the game yesterday just in time to make a hectic heave that paved the way for the Giants' trio of runs in the sixth. McGraw is now wondering how the Giants happened to get along without the St. Louis star this long in the series. If he hadn't been there yesterday the road might have been a trifle rougher for the Manhattan clan.

The bobble by the priceless second baseman came in the sixth inning, when the score was tied. Spencer walked to begin the period and was advanced to second when Larry Doyle poked a single into right. Earl Smith then drove an easy grounder at Hornsby, who tagged Doyle midway between the bases and had an easy double play in sight. Instead, however, he threw the pill several miles above Fournier's head and Spencer scored, Smith racing to second. Nehf's soft tap through the short field sent Smith to third and he scored on George Burns's single to right. Nehf was out trying to make third. Burns went to third when Doak threw wildly trying to catch him napping at first, and completed the circuit on the second of Dave Bancroft's doubles.

Giants Get Away to Early Lead.

The Giants took the lead in the first when they inserted a run into the box-score. Burns doubled to left as a starter and was sacrificed to third by Bancroft. Young singled through the box, scoring Burns.

In the second two more tallies came across the dish. The well seasoned Larry Doyle hit into right field and reached second by a pretty piece of base running. Smith's long fly to Schultz sent Larry to third. When Nehf hit to Fournier Doyle made the plate in safety, sliding under the throw. Burns fouled to Dilhoefer but Bancroft sent Nehf to third with a two-base slam to right. Young beat out a tap to Hornsby, Nehf scoring.

The Cards exploded in the sixth and to the surprise of the gathering tied the score, 3 to 3. Stock poked a single into left and Hornsby increased his batting average with a single to the same spot. At this stage McHenry, without any warning at all, stepped up and hit one of Nehf's slants into the left field bleachers, the pellet landing in one of the top rows. It was a Ruthian drive. The slam sent Stock and Hornsby in ahead of McHenry.

The Giants lost no time in recovering the pilfered runs in their half of the sixth, this being the rally which was assisted so materially by the error of the returned Mr. Hornsby. To begin the next frame Frisch singled and Doak summarily received the gate, Goodwin ascending the mound. Kelly greeted the newcomer by fanning, and Frisch stole and kept on to third, as the throw was low. He died at the plate on Spencer's grounder to Fournier, who nipped Frisch by an accurate throw.

The Cards lost an opportunity for a run in the opening inning through some aimless base running. Fournier singled to left with one out and was followed by Milton Stock, who punched a double into right. Fournier rounded third, started for home, changed his mind, hesitated a moment and finally went back to third, where he found Stock firmly ensconced. Doyle ran in with the ball and Fournier was trapped between third and home and run down by Earl Smith.

Curves and Bingles

Lew McCarty played a mean trick on his former mates in the ninth inning. He batted for Fournier and slapped a single to centre with a man already on first base. Both runners moved up a base on a passed ball, but Stock ended the rally by lining to Bancroft.

Larry Doyle displayed some of his old-time agility in the fifth, when he had a near-collision with Young in right field. Doak's short fly nearly fell between them, but Larry grabbed it and held it while he side-stepped Young by sliding along the ground. Young also hit the dirt to avoid a mixup.

It was a busy day for Bancroft, who made two doubles and a single in addition to handling several hard chances at shortstop. He made a glittering grab of Janvrin's tricky grounder in the third and got his man at first.

Long George Kelly used only his bare hand in stopping Schultz's hot grounder in the sixth. Nehf completed a good play by covering first and nipping the Cardinal runner by an eyelash.

Rickey shook up his batting order in an attempt to beat the Giants at least once. He moved McHenry up from eighth place to fifth, moved Lavan and Dilhoefer down two pegs each, and sent Schultz to bat sixth, Heathcote being yanked entirely from the batting order.

Today's game with the Cardinals will bring the series to an end, and Rickey has hopes of taking one game at least. The champion Reds will switch their activities from Brooklyn across the bridge to Manhattan, and the Cards will move to Ebbets Field for a four-day sojourn.

Hornsby's heave in the sixth was as wild a throw as has been seen at the Polo Grounds this year. It cleared Fournier's head by several feet and gave Spencer plenty of time to score from second.

The Cards filled the sacks in the fourth with only one down, but could not score. Stock walked and was safe at second when Bancroft threw wide to Doyle on Hornsby's grounder. McHenry walked, cramming the bases, but Schultz fanned and Lavan flied to Young.

YANKS DIVIDE BILL WITH THE BROWNS

Awake from Hitting Slump in Time to Take Second Game, 6-4—Lose Opener by 4 to 3.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, July 29.—It was not until the eighth inning of the second game of today's double-header that the slumbering Yanks awoke from their batting slump, after losing the first game of the bargain bill, 4 to 3. They were on their way to lose the second when they shook off the attack of insomnia. In the eventful eighth chapter of Game 2, with Ruth and Meusel on the bases, Aaron Ward plugged a home run into the left-field bleachers and gave the Yanks the second game by a score of 6 to 4.

The pitching and batting slump of the Yanks was becoming an alarming thing, for the defeat in the first game made three downfalls in as many games. Although the Yanks showed symptoms of getting back to their normal condition in the first game, they failed to do it in the ninth in as tragic a finish as the Yanks have figured in this year.

Lend an eye to the finish of this first game. The Brownies were leading 4 to 3 and the bases were filled, with two out, in the first of the ninth, and Babe Ruth was at the bat. The table was all set for a gorgeous run banquet, and the crowd of 15,000 sat back with bated breath as the super-slugger faced Dixie Davis.

A Sad Climax.

It looked like one of the real old-fashioned skyrocket finishes for the Yanks when Ruth took a mighty swing and hoisted a high fly to Baby Doll Jacobson in centre field.

The Yanks' slump ended there, for in the second game Huggins's lads were a bit more chipper, and although both Quinn and Rip Collins were so wild that they each forced in a run in the sixth inning and put the Browns in the front, the return of the Yanks' mighty attack offset all the bad effects of the weak flinging.

When Wardie hammered out his homer and won the game in the eighth, it was the eightieth home run the Yanks have perpetrated this season. Meusel made his ninth homer of the season in the fourth inning when he soaked a drive into the left field bleachers, with Ruth roosting on third base.

The St. Louis populace has become disgruntled because Ruth is being walked so often, and one of the newspapers here today carried a screaming headline which read, "Come out and pay $1.10 and see Ruth walk."

Ruth Misses a Chance.

Fortune pretended to smile on the Yanks in the first inning of the second game, but the smile quickly turned to a frown. After Peck skied to Smith, Pipp sent a whistling three-bagger along the first base line to right field. Pratt got a pass and Ruth was up. Hark to the dismal tidings. Ruth hit into a double play and spilled the beans, Sisler to Gerber to Sisler. It was a darned smart play.

Gedeon walked, with one gone, in the Brownies' first, and he scored on Sisler's triple to the right-field wall. Sisler tried to stretch it into a home run, but was cut down at the plate.

After Meusel had lofted a foul to Severeid in the second, Bodie bounded a triple off the wire screen in left centre. Ward singled to right and sent Ping home. Hannah flied to Smith and Mogridge fanned.

The crowd guyed Ruth when he came up in the fourth. Babe hoisted a high fly to right, and Smith muffed it, Ruth sneaking all the way around to third. Bob Meusel thumped a home run into the left-field bleachers, scoring Ruth ahead of him. The Yanks were just beginning to look natural.

Fine Catch by Pratt.

Gerber walked in the sixth and Pratt made a fine catch of Gedeon's fly back of first. Mogridge tossed out Sisler and Jacobson walked. Williams cracked a single to centre, scoring Gerber, and Jacobson went to third. Mogridge hit Smith and loaded the bases. Austin walked into one of Mogridge's pitches and went to first. The Yanks kicked at this deliberate trick, and Umpire Hildebrand consulted Umpire Evans, and Austin was called back to the bat again.

Mogridge pitched another ball and hit Austin on the knee this time. There was no doubt about this being a real bruise, so Jimmy went to first and Jacobson was forced over the plate with the run which tied the score.

Rip Collins then relieved Mogridge. The bases were still jammed. Collins walked Severeid and forced Williams over with another run. The distressing session came to an end when Bayne lofted a fly to Meusel.

Gerber singled in the seventh, and Gedeon bunted to Pipp. Wallie threw to Peck a force-out play on Gerber, but Umpire Evans called the runner safe. Sisler sent both runners along with a sacrifice. Rip fanned Jacobson, and that Bodie man got Williams's rocket.

The Babe's First Hit.

After Pratt had lined to Sisler Ruth made his first hit of the series when he bounded a three-bager off the right field screen. Meusel ambled. Bodie flied to Smith, whose fast throw home made Ruth change his mind about trying to score. Ward came to the rescue and jarred a delicious home run into the field bleachers, the big bang coining three runs and putting the Yanks in front once more. Ruel fanned for the third out.

After going runless for twenty-two innings, the Yanks broke the evil spell in the third inning of the opening game and scored a couple of runs. The Browns had put over a run in the second. Williams and Smith cracked out singles off Quinn, and, when the Yank pitcher fumbled Jimmy Austin's bunt, Williams scored.

Peck singled in the third and Pipp skied to Smith. After Williams got Pratt's fly, Davis walked Ruth, which gave Babe nine walks out of his last ten trips to the plate. Bob Meusel banged a double against the wire screen in right field and Peck and Ruth scored. Meusel's crack was within a foot of being a home run.

Sisler Hits Homer.

Sisler sent a whopper of a home run over the right field bleachers into Grand Avenue in the sixth inning and in the seventh the Browns went into the lead. With one gone, Austin got an infield hit and went to third on Severeid's single to right. Davis singled to right, scoring Austin, and while Peck and Pratt were forcing Davis at second, Severeid went over the plate.

The Yanks had a glorious chance to grab the game in the ninth. The big crowd howled with joy when Ruth hoisted a high fly to Jacobson with the bases full for the third out. It was awful. With one out, Duffy Lewis, batting for Quinn, singled to centre and Fewster ran for Duffy. Peck was safe on Gerber's error. Fewster going to third. Pipp rolled to Gedeon, who threw home, and while Fewster was being chased along the base line, Peck went to third and Pipp to second. When Fewster got back to third, he found Peck there, but Peck was declared out, Fewster holding the lease to the premises.

Pratt walked and jammed the corners. It was up to Ruth. The bases were filled and Davis couldn't afford to pass the mauler this time. Babe hoisted a

ROBINS BEATEN IN PITCHERS' BATTLE

Reds Win Out, 3 to 2, After Torrid Struggle Between Cadore and Luque.

Fighting every inch of the way, the Cincinnati Reds and Brooklyn Dodgers staged the hottest battle of their present series yesterday afternoon at Ebbets Field, the Reds winning out by a score of 3 to 2 after nine of the scrappiest innings that have been linked together all season. Luque and Cadore pitched superb ball, and their mates gave them splendid support. There was little, if anything, to choose between them. The Reds bunched a couple of hits with an error in the seventh inning, and that really gave them the game. If Kilduff hadn't muffed a throw at first base the Dodgers might have won. Kilduff was an unwilling instrument in the triumph of the enemy, not only in the case just mentioned, but in the ninth, when his interference with Duncan gave the latter three bags on a two-base hit and placed the Red gardener in position to score on a sacrifice fly.

It was the fifth time this season that Luque and Cadore have pitched against each other. Up to yesterday the count between them was 2 and 2. The Cuban now goes into the lead, and it would be a stubborn rooter, indeed, who wouldn't give him full credit for his achievement. He twirled admirable ball. In making the series stand 2 to 1 in their favor the Reds also made the count eight out of fourteen for the year.

The Reds made only eight hits off Cadore, and in the first six innings only twenty men faced Leon. He loosened up a trifle in the seventh, but might have retired the side runless at that if he had received perfect support.

Robins Score First Run.

The Dodgers started away in the lead, sending the crowd into temporary ecstasy when Zack Wheat's triple pushed over a run. Olson, first up, flied out to Duncan. Johnston reached first in safety on Kopf's error and purloined second. Griffith struck out, and then came Wheat's triple to centre field, on which Johnston completed the circuit. Luque took care of Myers's grounder for the third out.

The Reds evened it up in the second inning. Roush singled to left, and Wheat let the ball get past him, the Red centre fielder continuing to second. Duncan struck out, but Neale singled to left field, scoring Roush. Wingo was third out on a grounder to Kilduff.

One and one it remained until the sixth inning, when the Robins again assumed a lead, which was destined to be short-lived. Johnston hit safely to left field, and was forced at second by Griffith. Wheat, who hit safely his first three times at bat, poked a single over second base, sending Griffith to third. Tommy scored on a sacrifice fly by Myers. The Reds kicked hard to Umpire Klem on this play, contending that Griffith had left third before the catch, but Klem couldn't see it. Koney was walked and stole second, but was left when Kilduff flied out to Roush.

It was 2-all when the Reds got through with Cadore in the seventh. Daubert singled over second for a starter. Roush singled to right and sent his mate to second. Duncan then knocked a dinky grounder to Johnston that should have been an easy out, but Kilduff, taking the throw, made an unhappy muff, allowing Daubert to score. Konetchy took care of Kopf's grounder, Neale forced Roush and Wingo forced Neale.

Reds Win in Ninth.

The Reds put the game away in the ninth inning. Roush flied out to Wheat, but Duncan doubled, and was sent along to third on Kilduff's interference. He scored on a sacrifice fly sent out by Kopf. Neale was the third out on a fly to Wheat.

That is the simple story of the run-making, but it doesn't even hint at the highly commendable snap and hustle with which both teams went about their business. There wasn't a moment in the game when the contenders weren't on their toes, fighting for every point as though a championship or a world's series game were at stake. Fielding gems were so numerous that they became commonplace. Every man on the field played his full part in the scintillating performance. If a man saw as good a game as that in a world's series he would count himself lucky.

The victory brought the Reds within a game and a half of the Dodgers. Today will bring the hectic series to an end, but even if the Morans win they cannot go into the lead. They can come within half a game of the pacemakers, however, and Uncle Wilbert Robinson announced last night that half a game was altogether too close for comfort, and couldn't be allowed. Robbie wants that old ball game today, and he's going to have it or know a doggone good reason why not. Every man on the Brooklyn team feels the same way about it.

BARNES KEEPS LEAD WHILE HAGEN SLIPS

MACFARLANE IS SECOND

Trails Barnes by Only One Stroke with Total of 144—Edgar and Reid Tied for Third.

Ouija is batting around a thousand with the professional golfers. That trick board up in Greenwich, Conn., which spelled out the name of Jim Barnes when a woman asked it to designate the winner of the metropolitan open title was still being treasured and held in good standing last night. At the end of the second day's battling by a field of 112 golfers for the crown which is second only to the national open, lanky Jim Barnes was still out in front and prancing along with a high-stepping cadence. If Barnes doesn't win the title as a result of today's playing he is going to make the winner know he has been in a tournament.

Long Jim faltered a little on the greens yesterday, but got around in 74, which, added to his record-breaking 69 of Wednesday, provided him with a thirty-six hole total of 143. Walter Hagen, the defending champion, not only faltered but skidded downhill with considerable speed, and instead of trailing the Cornishman by two strokes the titleholder is now five strokes in his wake. Hagen needed 77 yesterday against the Long Island Sound gale that swept Greenwich and his total for the first half of the competition is 148, tying him for fourth place with two others.

Snuggling right up to Barnes and only a stroke behind is the dark horse, Willie Macfarlane, the slender pink-cheeked Scottie who now makes his home at Port Washington, L. I. Macfarlane added a 73 yesterday to his previously acquired 71, and holds second place alone with a total of 144. Third place is a tie between a couple of shot-makers who always make their rivals shudder with the ague when they enter a tourney. One is J. Douglas Edgar, the Englishman now located at Druid Hills, Atlanta, Ga., holder of the Canadian open championship, and the other is that dangerous midget from Wilmington, Del., Wilfred Reid. Both have 147. Tied with Hagen for fourth with 148 are Tom McNamara of Siwanoy and Jack Forrester of Meadow Brook.

Scores Are Higher.

Scores yesterday were uniformly higher than on the first day, this applying to lesser lights as well as to the championship timber. Even steady, sure Pete O'Hara, the old reliable of Shackamaxon, turned up at the home hole with a long face. Pete had taken 91, as compared with a 77 for Wednesday, but he was not alone in complaining about the treacherous winds. Johnny Farrell, the young homebred from Hudson River, was forced to add a 79 to his 72 and dropped down several notches. One of the queerest experiences of the tourney came to Richard McDonald, the pro at the Jamaica Country Club, who formerly was at Lake Champlain. In driving off the first tee McDonald's ball sliced a bit and struck a flagpole squarely. It bounded back over his head and stopped rolling on the practice putting green, around the side of the club house and a good hundred yards back of the tee. He was forced to play it, since it was not out of bounds, and his repertoire of strokes included such excellent recoveries that he was able to get a six on this hole.

As a result of the conditions for play, the field was pared down from 112 to 69 after yesterday's second round. The rules decree that only those who are separated from eighth place after the first two rounds by less than eighteen strokes may continue. Charlie Hoffner of the Philmont Club, Philadelphia, was eighth, with 149, and seventeen strokes from it allow those with totals of 166 to continue. Included among those who fell by the well-known wayside were Pete O'Hara, Ferguson Cameron, a true Scot if names count for anything; Louis Martucci, the famous one-armed golfer who had a couple of off-days, and G. Eddie Van Vleck, Jr., the Greenwich amateur of note. Only three amateurs still remain. Jess Sweetser, intercollegiate champion, is again the leader of them, with 152. Henry J. Topping has 157 and T. D. Armour of Lothian Burn, Scotland, has 163.

Several Players Quit.

The list of withdrawals yesterday increased due to a variety of causes. Such a passed master as Paddy Doyle, the Deal professional, was forced to quit after trying to hobble around with an injured heel on one foot and a fallen arch on the other. J. D. Chapman, the home club amateur, declared he had had enough, as did A. Elliot Ranney, another Greenwich simon pure. George Gordon, the Rhode Island star from Wannamoisett, C. W. Singleton of Oakland, and Harry Ellis, professional at Otto H. Kahn's private course on Long Island, were others who dropped out.

Generally Jim Barnes has his trusty old putter tuned to do all manner of tricks, but the club was false to him yesterday. Putting and little else robbed Long James of valuable strokes. He took a four on the first, which was fair enough, but took a four on the short second when three would have been ample. Jim continued this string of fours until it had reached the length of seven straight holes. Playing the eighth hole Jim got home on his second all right enough, landing about six feet from the pin. He missed this ordinarily easy tap for a birdie, overran the cup, then missed his four and needed a five. He got a three on the ninth, turning with a total for the half of 36, but his putting went from bad to much worse on the incoming journey. On the twelfth, similarly to the eighth, he missed a putt which would have given him a birdie 2, and then needed two more for a four, one over par, to go down. Jim needed six to hole out on the thirteenth, due to three putts. Playing the longest hole at Greenwich, the 585-yard dog-leg fourteenth, he smacked his tee shot into a bunker, got out, but didn't reach the reach until his fourth and then took two putts. His second half gave him a 38 for his round in 74.

Putting also was a bugaboo to Hagen, but there were other faults with his round as well. The champion went out in 37, two over par, and came back in 40, five over, for a total of 77. He wasted one on the very first hole, taking a 5, and did the same on the sixth. Here he played his second across the brook with far too much power, and landed in a trap over the green. The uphill twelfth should have given him a 3 easily, but he topped his tee shot, and took 4. He took one over the par on the thirteenth, and lost another on the long fourteenth. He was hole high but off to the left of the green on his third. He chipped on and then needed two putts to go down.

Hagen Gets Into Trouble.

Hagen negotiated the fifteenth and sixteenth regularly enough, but then wound up his round with plenty of trouble on the last two holes. Playing the 390-yard seventeenth, he sliced his second into a trap, laid his niblick too far back when playing out and only got half way up the embankment in front of the green. He was forced to chip up with an awkward stance, one foot higher than the other. Two putts gave him a six, two over the par. Hard luck, and no fault of his, forced him to take a 5, one over par, on the home hole. His drive was long and straight, a masterpiece, in fact, and his second, played with an iron, was likewise a brilliant shot, the ball continuing to roll until it stopped hardly two feet from the pin. With a seemingly sure birdie 3 to face, Hagen missed the short tap, overran the cup, missed his 4 and needed 5.

The cards of Barnes and Hagen, compared to the Greenwich par, follow:

|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Par | 4 | 3 | 4 | 5 | 4 | 4 | 4 | 4 | 3—35 | |
| Barnes | 4 | 4 | 4 | 4 | 4 | 4 | 4 | 5 | 3—36 | |
| Hagen | 5 | 3 | 4 | 5 | 4 | 5 | 4 | 4 | 3—37 | |
| In— | | | | | | | | | | |
| Par | 3 | 4 | 4 | 5 | 6 | 3 | 4 | 4 | 4—35 | |
| Barnes | 3 | 4 | 4 | 6 | 6 | 3 | 4 | 4 | 4—38 | —74 |
| Hagen | 3 | 4 | 4 | 5 | 6 | 3 | 4 | 6 | 5—40 | —77 |

Hagen still has plenty of supporters who point knowingly to the fact that almost without exception his victories over Barnes this year have been after he had trailed during the early part of the play. At New Orleans, when he defeated his lanky rival on the thirty-seventh hole, Hagen was several holes down on the first round, and at Pinehurst, where he finished ahead of Long Jim and barely missed beating Fred McLeod for the title, he pulled himself up from a low position.

Sarazen Wins Prize.

The special prize for the best round on the second day went to Eugene Sarazen, who came from Fort Wayne, Ind., for a try at the metropolitan title. Sarazen knocked out a 72, a whole ten strokes under his round for Wednesday. Barnes, however, copped two of the other special purses, for the best round on the first day and for the best total for thirty-six holes. Macfarlane was second yesterday, being the only one to get a 73. Tommy McNamara performed a couple of tricks yesterday when he did both the ninth and fifteenth holes in 2. Golfers find the second and tenth holes at Greenwich reasonably easy for birdies, but it has been a long time since the ninth and fifteenth have been negotiated with only one putt.

There is a possibility that Barnes and Hagen may be paired for the afternoon round in order that the gallery will not be split. For the morning, however, Barnes will play with McNamara, and Hagen with Louis Tellier, the Boston Frenchman. Pairs will be started off at 9 o'clock and will follow one another at five-minute intervals. Hoffner and Sweetser are booked together, Wilfrid Reid of Wilmington, Del., and Emmet French of Youngstown, Ohio; Macfarlane and Edgar and Armour and Aleck Gerard.

Armour Plays Fine Golf Despite Loss of Left Eye

Tommie Armour, the brilliant young Scottish amateur golfer, who defeated Cyril Tolley for the French title early this month at Versailles, has the sight of only one eye. Armour saw more than four years of active service in the Tank Corps of the British Army, and was wounded a half dozen times. One of his wounds caused him to lose the sight of his left eye. His first American appearance is in the Metropolitan Open Championship this week at Greenwich, where, although he is not yet accustomed to the strange course, he has clicked off an 85 and a 78 for the first two rounds.

Speraw, it was said, will join the St. Louis Browns immediately, while Tengen will probably remain here until the close of the season.

BRITISH LINSKMEN WIN TWO MATCHES

Vardon and Ray Register Double Victory on Links at New Britain.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRITAIN, Conn., July 29.—After defeating two professionals, Bobby Andrews and J. R. Elphick, by 1 up on the eighteenth hole this morning, Vardon and Ray, redoubtable British golf experts, this afternoon won from Roger Hovey, Connecticut State amateur champion, and W. P. Seeley, his amateur partner, on the fourteenth hole, 5 and 4. The feature of the afternoon round was on the fourteenth hole when Ray, using a mashie niblick, made a 265-yard tee shot, hitting the pin and making the hole in two. It was a par four hole.

The afternoon card:

|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Ray | 4 | 4 | 5 | 4 | 5 | 3 | 5 | 5 | 3—38 | |
| Hovey | 5 | 4 | 5 | 5 | 4 | 4 | 5 | 5 | 3—40 | |
| Seeley | 5 | 4 | 4 | 5 | 4 | 4 | 7 | 6 | 3—42 | |

In the forenoon's match Vardon and Ray early in the match showed they were entitled to all golfing honors accorded them by vanquishing two of the best pro golfers in this section. They defeated Andrews of New Haven and Elphick of Hartford by 1 up at the eighteenth hole. The Britishers were unfamiliar with the Shuttle Meadow Country Club course, and this gave the local men the advantage.

It was a nip-and-tuck contest, not decided until the final stroke, although their first holes were far better than are generally seen on courses around here. It was not until the morning round was half over that the Englishmen really found themselves. Ray's driving was exceptionally good. On the long eighteenth Vardon showed what he could do when forced. With a drive, a brassie and a short approach, he was within ten feet of the hole, and the next shot put the visitors in the lead. Each of the others took two putts, taking five each to Vardon's four.

The morning cards:

MARSTON IN FINE FORM.

Defeats Balch by 10 and 8 in Golf Match at Ekwanok Club.

Special to The New York Times.

MANCHESTER, Vt., July 29.—Maxwell R. Marston of Philadelphia set something of a record this morning at the Ekwanok Country Club when he inflicted the extreme penalty on George R. Balch of Cincinnati in the first round of match play for the Isham Cup, winning the match by 10 up and 8 to play. Marston had but one slip, taking 6 at the second, and offset this with a 2 at the sixth. Otherwise he played hole by hole in par, excepting the tenth, where he was better than par.

A. L. Walker, Jr., Columbia University golf star, nearly equalled the feat this afternoon when he was but one stroke worse for the ten holes and ended his match with Martin W. Littleton, Jr., of Princeton, at the eleventh hole, 8 up and 7 to play.

As Marston and Walker are in opposite ends of the draw, there is a reasonable probability of their meeting in the final on Saturday, but every one of the other six contestants surviving today's eliminations rounds is a worthy opponent and keen matches are sure to result tomorrow.

Players meet tomorrow in the order of the summary, which follows:

First thirty-two for Isham Cup. First round—M. W. Littleton, Jr., Princeton, beat M. L. Fearey, Garden City, 3 and 2; A. L. Walker, Jr., Ekwanok, beat H. D. ## SKEETERS BEATEN, 12 TO 9.

Outbat Syracuse in Slugging Bee, but Lose Just the Same.

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., July 29.—Syracuse won the final game of the series from Jersey City here this afternoon. Jersey City used three pitchers trying to stem the Syracuse tide, and Manager Madden of the local team used two pitchers and two catchers, and even went in as a pinch hitter himself in the ninth inning. He fanned.

Dubuc to Manage Toledo.

TOLEDO, Ohio, July 29.—Jean Dubuc, formerly with the New York Giants, was appointed manager of the Toledo American Association baseball team today by Roger Bresnahan, the owner. Dubuc takes over the team at once.

Man o' War Is Expected to Start in the Miller Stakes

The next appearance of Man o' War will probably be in the Miller Stakes, a three-year-old event, which will be run Aug. 7 at Saratoga. This is a $10,000 stake, for which most of the good three-year-olds have been named, but it is doubtful if more than one or two will accept the issue with the champion. It is possible that H. P. Whitney will send his fine colt John P. Grier against Man o' War once more in this race and if he does an excellent contest should result. Both Man o' War and the Whitney colt have been at Saratoga for some time preparing for the August campaign and both are reported fit for a hard struggle.

SMITH PUTS BLAME ON NEWARK POLICE

Chairman of Jersey Boxing Board Says Dishonest Ushers, Too, Caused Riot at Bouts.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 29.—Failure of the Newark police properly to safeguard the fight fans within and without the 1st Regiment Armory was responsible for the disorder which marked the boxing bouts last Monday, according to a statement issued here today by John S. Smith, Chairman of the New Jersey State Boxing Commission. Governor Edwards has called for an investigation of the bouts, and according to rumor, is considering ousting the entire commission.

"There must be some reason for the sort of publicity given the show and everything connected with it," said Mr. Smith today. "Conditions certainly were not as bad as painted."

Chairman Smith labeled the charges that changes designed to weaken the boxing laws were made at the last session of the Legislature as an "absolute falsehood."

"There is absolutely no reason for the cries of scandal, the derision and criticism leveled against the Athletic Commission," said Mr. Smith, "because of the bouts held in the 1st Regiment Armory at Newark on Monday night. There is nothing in the boxing law which authorizes or compels the commission to see that proper police protection is furnished at boxing contests throughout the State. The show in Newark met all of the requirements of the boxing laws and I personally spent two days in Newark to see that all requirements had been complied with."

The Chairman charged dishonesty among the ushers.

"The mob spirit seemed to grip the crowd," he said, "and, with the help of dishonest ushers, no attention was paid to whether patrons secured their tickets or not. Efforts to quiet the crowd fairly resulted in a riot."

"If for no other reason than to protect the citizens of Newark," continued Chairman Smith, "the Newark authorities should have provided police protection. In conclusion I wish to say that it is certainly a shame that through misleading headlines and distorted news stories in certain newspapers, the public of the State of New Jersey is made to believe that the Athletic Commission is at fault in this instance. The truth of the matter is that myself and my associates had absolutely no control over the conditions, which should have been taken care of by the Newark authorities."

TURN IN REPORTS ON CRUSH.

City Counsel of Newark to Take Up Trouble at Armory.

Announcement was made in Newark last night that the report of Jerome Congleton, City Counsel of Newark, in connection with last Monday's bouts and the overcrowding of the armory would be made today. William J. Brennan, Director of Public Safety of Newark, has turned over all his reports to Mr. Congleton. Included among the documents are reports by Captain C. Albert Gasser of the Bureau of Fire Risks and Combustibles and John O'Rourke, Building Inspector. It is understood that both men report that the exit arrangements and other facilities for handling a crowd at the armory are insufficient. The reports, it is asserted, show that the fire regulations were violated by the crowding of the aisles.

Inspector Frank Tuite of the Police Department reported that conditions made it impossible to spare enough policemen from other duties to handle the crowd at the armory properly.

Word was received from Jersey City that William N. Goldweber, a lawyer of that city, had forwarded his charges of overcrowding the armory to Governor Edwards. He says that tickets the face value of which was $16.50 were sold in saloons for as much as $25 to $40, which is contrary to the laws of the State.

WHY BIDDLE RESIGNED.

Change of Residence Cause of His Withdrawal, Officials Say.

Confirmation of the resignation of Major Anthony J. Drexel Biddle of Philadelphia as Chairman of the Army, Navy and Civilian Board of Boxing Control and as President of the International Sporting Club was made last night at the offices of the club by the Secretary, Adam Emple. Both Mr. Emple and Tex O'Rourke, matchmaker of the club, insisted that the resignation of Major Biddle had no connection whatever with the management of the bouts sponsored by the club in Newark Monday night and concerning which many complaints have been uttered.

Mr. Emple said that Major Biddle's contemplated resignation had been known to club members as long as four weeks ago. His statement was as follows:

"Major Biddle's resignation had nothing whatever to do with the disturbance that arose on Monday evening last at the Newark Armory. Four weeks ago he found that he would have to reside in Philadelphia permanently, after having previously decided to reside in New York.

"It was at that time intended to recommend him to the Governor for Chairmanship of the Boxing Commission. His change of plans rendered it necessary not only to cancel this prospective appointment, but also his Presidency of the Army, Navy and Civilian Board of Boxing Control and the International Sporting Club.

"Major Biddle has rendered very signal service, and it was with the greatest regret that his colleagues received his resignation. No successor has yet been appointed, but names of several prominent men are under consideration.

"In connection with the unfortunate confusion that existed at the entrance and at the north end of the hall in Newark on Monday, it should be remembered that out of 2,000 seats reserved for members and guests of the International Sporting Club only a very small percentage were not secured by the proper holders."

Tex O'Rourke, matchmaker of the club, announced that the total receipts at the show on Monday night were $97,212.50. Mr. O'Rourke said:

"When the confusion at the main entrance caused a congestion around the entrance we stopped the sale of tickets, with 1,437 pasteboards unsold. There were seats for each of these tickets, but they were in the further end of the armory. The crowding of the fans just inside of the entrance prevented many of the seat-holders getting to their seats. This proves conclusively that the house was not oversold, but that the contrary was the case."

Foster Signs with Fort Smith.

FORT SMITH, Ark., July 29.—George Foster, who pitched for the Boston Red Sox in the world series of 1916, has signed with the Fort Smith club of the Western Association for the remainder of the season. He has not played for two years.

Wedgewood Wins Final Race at Empire City in Biggest Coup of the Year.

For more than a week Empire City has been the scene of some grotesque racing the like of which New York racegoers have not seen before this season, but it remained for the final race on yesterday's card to provide a fitting climax to the burlesque on the sport. This event was a five-furlong dash for maiden two-year-olds in which the biggest coup of the year was put over when James J. Murphy's Wedgewood scored the victory over Thornhedge and The Cook, the latter the favorite in a field of twelve starters.

The remarkable feature about Wedgewood was that she was backed down from 15 to 1 to 13 to 5 at post time, this being the greatest pressure that has been put behind a horse since the season opened in May. From some source came the tip a short time before the race was started and it spread all over the race track. The filly which had done little in her racing career to recommend her received a volume of support that forced her price down with a rush from 15 to 1 to 10 to 1, and then on down until she went to the post a second choice at 13 to 5.

It is certain that those who engineered the coup were generous, for they permitted the news of their venture to go far and wide. They could not be accused of secrecy or attempting to stage anything behind the scenes. Kal Parr's The Cook, which on several occasions has been made a choice, was again picked out as a favorite by the oralists and The Cook again had a good sized following. But he never had a chance no matter how well meant he may have been, for he was away slowly, raced up at the turn into the stretch and was fortunate to get up for third place.

The Cook was the last of the six favorites of the day to go down to defeat. By the time he bit the dust the patrons had become reconciled to their fate. They were ready for a victory by anything but a favorite. They had seen winners coming home at anywhere from 5 to 1 to 12 to 1.

Before they had become thoroughly reconciled they received a shock when G. W. Loft's Halu captured the Wakefield Handicap, the feature of the day. This was a five and a half-furlong sprint for two-year-olds, which brought to the post the best of the juveniles left at Yonkers. There were but five starters, but these included Halu, Pluribus, Knobbie, Moody and Dark Horse. Halu, the winner, was a 12 to 1 shot at post time. Halu won by a length from Pluribus, with Knobbie third, the winner showing excellent speed and setting his own pace all the way.

The first race brought about the downfall of Arnold, a 13 to 20 favorite, when Youneed took his measure by a head in a dash over the short six furlongs course. Youneed raced with fine speed, held on gamely in the drive through the stretch and lasted to win. Johnson, who had the mount on Arnold, probably lost the race through overconfidence. He was leading at the furlong pole and apparently thought he had the race won. Ponce on Youneed kept at his mount and caught Johnson napping. Different Eyes was third after bearing out at the turn into the stretch.

The Whitestone Handicap went to Ballet Dancer II., which took the measure of Under Fire and Tailor Maid among others. Ballet Dancer was quoted at 4½ to 1 at post time. She got a good start for the mile journey, took the lead in the back stretch and held it to the end.

NEW TEAMS SCORE AT BAY RIDGE NETS

Throckmorton and Bull Take Five-Set Match, and Mahan and Man Also Win.

POOR DAY FOR FAVORITES

Expectations Are Upset in Defeat of Voshell-Alexander and Hall-Beekman Combinations.

All the favorites were beaten in the New York sectional tennis doubles at the Crescent Athletic Club yesterday, and two brand new teams came through to the final round to fight for the honor of representing the Metropolitan District in the national championship. Lyle E. Mahan and Alrick H. Man, Jr., triumphed in surprisingly decisive fashion over S. Howard Voshell and Frederick B. Alexander in four sets, scoring 6—8, 6—3, 6—4, 6—4, while Walter Merrill Hall and Leonard Beekman, supposedly the strongest combination on the local courts at present, succumbed to Harold Throckmorton and Charles M. Bull, Jr., in a sensational five-set battle, by scores of 6—4, 1—6, 6—3, 5—7, 6—2. Today's program at Bay Ridge will be limited to exhibition matches, with the final round of the sectional doubles scheduled for tomorrow afternoon.

In each of yesterday's semi-final encounters the better team unquestionably won, and this obvious superiority was the more surprising in that they were both pickup combinations, with practically no experience in partnership. Mahan and Man teamed rather clumsily, but were always working earnestly, and should have won in straight sets. When they needed the points they were generally able to get them.

Winners Play Brilliant Tennis.

Throckmorton and Bull also had rather more of an edge over Hall and Beekman than the score shows. They led at 5—1 in the fourth set, and were twice within a point of the match, but had to see the situation saved by a wonderful pullup on the part of their opponents, aided by timely errors. Two more chances to close out the match were wasted in the rubber before the end came. Although erratic, the winners played far more brilliant tennis than did the team which recently represented New York in the Middle West.

Hall started the service, and for six games everything was regular, each side getting three games. Then with Beekman serving a slight misunderstanding occurred, Hall taking a hot one in the stomach from Throckmorton's racquet, and upsetting his partner so that Beekman made two bad volleying errors in succession. A net corder then beat Hall close up for the break which meant the set.

Bull was in the hole at 0—40 on his next service, and it seemed that the advantage would be lost immediately. But after getting every possible bad shot out of their systems, Bull and Throckmorton both came through with dazzling volleys and smashes and pulled out the game for a 5—3 lead, with two calls of deuce on the way. Hall won his service in another deuce session, and then Throckmorton, working like a demon, served his side into a lead of 40—0. A good volley by Hall delayed the close of the set, and the server lost another point by completely missing an overhead shot and flubbing a volley after the recovery. But his final service beat Hall badly, and the set was over at 6—4.

Match Is Squared.

The trailers came right back with an irresistible brand of tennis and had the match squared by a 6—1 count in a comparatively short time. Bull lost his service when several lobs dropped out by inches, and some worse errors brought a second break against the same delivery for a lead of 5—1. Hall then served out the set with a love game.

It was the third set that proved the surprise. Instead of cracking, the pickup team got together again for a real fight, and Hall and Beekman were soon on the short end once more. After three alternations of successful service, Throckmorton brought off a spectacular drive down Hall's alley-line, and when the same player was beaten by a deep lob Beekman's service game went glimmering. With 3—1 against them, the losers made a great effort to equalize against Throckmorton, and led at 0—40. But once more desperate serving and volleying saved the day, and a long deuce game sent the score to 4—1. Hall's love game on service added one for his side, but Bull seemed on the way to duplicating the feat with three points to his credit. He messed up a volley, however, and three good shots in a row put the opposition within one point of a very important game. Hall contributed enough errors to lose the advantage, and finally hit out off service and the score was 5—2. Beekman won his service, and Throckmorton came through with a love game when it was most needed. He brought up the set point with a clean service ace, and completed the 6—3 victory with another delivery that could not be returned.

Throckmorton at His Best.

They went right on without the customary rest. Throckmorton was now playing his head off, with growing confidence, and Bull supported him well, on the whole. They broke through Hall immediately, after remarkable gets from the very edge of the inclosure, and Throckmorton served a love game for a 2—0 lead. Beekman's service also lost, and it was 4—0 on Bull's delivery. Hall won the next, in spite of an astonishing cross-court backhander by Throckmorton after an equally remarkable volley by Beekman. Throckmorton raised his team's total to 5, aided by Bull's smashing, and Beekman served a love game, with no great opposition.

Then the tide turned suddenly. The match point was on the carpet, but Hall and Beekman saved the game, after Throckmorton had brought off another of his backhand angle shots, almost in a line with the net. Hall won his serve again and the games were 5—4. It was match point once more on Throckmorton's great smash, but Hall duplicated the effort at the end of a whirlwind rally. Then Throckmorton served a double fault and smashed an easy one far out, tieing up the games at 5—all.

Beekman sent his team into the lead with the help of more errors, and on Bull's service the set-point came up when Throckmorton netted an overhead shot. Hall sent a low drive at Bull as he came in and the ball again found the net, making the match all square, 7—5.

An Exhibition of Gameness.

Throckmorton and Bull showed their gameness by going after the rubber without a sign of discouragement after this disastrous end to the brightest of opportunities. They broke through Beekman for a lead of 2—1 and later made it 4—1 against Hall. Here Throckmorton served one through the net, which was allowed by Umpire Richey. When a discussion arose he gave back the point, with a deliberate double fault. A moment later, however, he brought off his pet "stop smash," dropping the ball dead over the net from overhead, and it was his game, 5—1, when Hall hit out of service.

Beekman brought up the match point once more with a double fault on the next game, but the agony was prolonged when errors saved the game for him. Bull served the final five points. A terrific drive by Beekman won the first, but Hall netted and Throckmorton smashed at a sharp angle for the lead of 30—15. The same player closed the next rally with a sensational get close up, landing the ball just inside the base-line. He guessed the last return of service correctly and crossed to the middle of the net for a round-arm smash which killed off the set and match indisputably at 6—2.

Sets All Close.

Mahan and Man kept on even terms with Voshell and Alexander up to 3—all in the opening set, then dropped two games in succession, only to come back and tie things up again, eventually leading at 6—5 with a love game. Here they slumped, and the more experienced pair, with a great streak of hitting, ran three straight games for the set, 8—6.

The rest of the match, however, was distinctly in favor of the newer team, although both of the last two sets were close. Mahan and Man got a break against Voshell for a 3—1 lead, and kept this advantage to the end of the second set. The final points were sensational, Man smashing one into Alexander that was on its way out, but could not be dodged. The veteran retaliated with a perfect lob, which neither of his opponents could touch. One point made all the difference here, and Mahan was on the job with a smash that cleaned up the 6—3 score.

The break in the third set also came against Voshell, who smashed an easy one out, after a misunderstanding with his partner, and then netted a low volley. He got back one point with a good overhead shot, but Mahan again reached the crucial one and angled it across to the opposite alley for the game. The score mounted to 5—3 when the same player nearly took Alexander off his feet with another fast overhead kill. Alexander served a love game, but the set went against his side at 6—4 when Mahan brought off a great low volley and a smash in succession.

Alexander's Service Upset.

Alexander's service was upset early in the fourth set, a drive to the base-line by Mahan paving the way for two volleying errors by Voshell. But the big west sider threw away his own delivery, starting with a double fault and ending with an error overhead. They alternated after that up to 4—all, when Voshell lost his service by smashing one out at the side. This put it up to Man to win the match, and he started his work with a clean service ace. His partner netted an easy smash, and Alexander won the next with a good passing drive. Another error made it 15—40 against the winners. But a good serve and Mahan's backhand volley across court brought the points to deuce. Mahan missed another smash, but got the next, and Man bounced one out of reach for the match point. Mahan's backhand volley worked once more, and it was all over at 6—4.

Dog Makes an Unwelcome Entry in Golf Tournament

Golfers entered in the Metropolitan Open Championship Tournament at Greenwich this week found a new menace yesterday to low scoring. It was a mischievous little dog, owned by Theodore L. Pomeroy, a club member. Although a daily visitor to the golf course, the pup yesterday was so ignorant of the rules of the game as to insist on running after balls driven off the first tee and trying to retrieve them. After two or three contestants and their caddies had succeeded only with difficulty in chasing the pup off the course, the caddy master took a hand and tied the dog where he could only watch and not play in the tournament.

ANDERSON TWICE WINNER.

Downs Osgood Brothers and Enters Greenwich Net Semi-Finals.

Fred C. Anderson yesterday reached the semi-final round of the open tennis tournament at the Greenwich Country Club by winning two matches, defeating the Osgood brothers, Frank and Warren, in quick succession, the first 6—3, 6—2 and the second 6—4, 6—2. Anton von Bernuth moved up to the preceding brackets with a three-set victory over Donald Keresey, 4—6, 6—1, 6—1 and S. E. Palmer kept a parallel position by winning from Sigmund Spaeth in straight sets, 6—4, 10—8.

John A. Collom meets Fred H. Harris in the round before the semi-finals this afternoon, and the winner plays Fred Anderson for a place in the finals tomorrow. On the other side of the draw Frank T. Anderson was unexpectedly eliminated by Herbert L. Bowman, who will dispute the remaining bracket with Joseph W. Fox or von Bernuth.

Fred Anderson was easily superior to both his young rivals yesterday, disguising the direction of his shots in his customary fashion, and using his reach for effective volleying and overhead hitting. Both of the Osgood boys tried hard to break through their tall opponent's stonewall defense, but met with comparatively little success. Warren, the left hander of he family, held Anderson fairly close in their first set, but, as in the case of his brother, he had to content himself with two games in the second after his attack had been completely solved by he Long Islander.

The tournament will be finished tomorrow.

CRAWFORD NOTCH, N. H., July 29.—Upsets occurred in the semi-finals of the Crawford Notch Tennis Tournament today when J. Brooks Fenno, of Cambridge defeated Horace Taylor of Boston, in the men's singles, and James D. Ewing, Jr. of Yonkers, displaced Arthur Ingraham, Sr. of Providence, in straight sets. Ewing was again a winner when paired with P. C. Hart, of Montreal against W. W. Binford and H. N. Otts, and in the semi-finals of the men's doubles.

The feature match of the day was that between W. W. Ingraham and J. B. Fenno, Jr., who defeated A. Ingraham, Sr., and N. M. Vose in a three set match. The young players were forced to capture fifty games before winning the match.

MISS CASSEL WINS FROM MISS BALLIN

Reaches Final of Long Island Tennis Tourney—Miss Wagner Beats Miss Grove.

Miss Marie Wagner will meet her doubles partner, Miss Clare Cassel, in the final round of the women's tennis championship of Long Island tomorrow afternoon, as the result of the matches played at the Woodmere Club yesterday. The same two players will figure in the final of the team event, with Mrs. De Forest Candee and Miss Phyllis Walsh as opponents. Miss Wagner eliminated her old rival, Miss Margaret Grove, in one of the semi-finals by the decisive count of 6—2, 6—1, thereby settling all question of their reative skill for this season, and Miss Cassel turned in a victory over Miss Florence Ballin which was in the nature of a surprise, as the latter had twice before defeated the winner and was going particularly well of late. The scores in this match were 10—8, 7—5, and the play was just as close as the figures indicate. In the only doubles match of the day Miss Wagner and Miss Cassel defeated Mrs. Samuel H. Waring and Miss Margaret Grove, 6—2, 6—4.

Miss Grove, who recently lost to Miss Wagner at Greenwich, again was disappointing in her play against the champion. She went after the match with all the determination in the world, but did not have the strokes with which to carry out her energetic intentions. Miss Wagner simply knew too much tennis for her club-mate, and had her at her mercy practically all the way.

A slow starter, as always, Miss Grove wasted many points in the opening set in a fruitless effort to get control of consistently forcing shots. When these did not develop, she had only her steadiness to fall back upon, and at this game Miss Wagner was distinctly her superior. In the long rallies which took place after both had found the range of the court and were hitting with confidence, it was generally Miss Wagner who worked her rival out of position, to finish with a well-placed drive to an unprotected spot, or a volley from a safe place at the barrier. Miss Grove was able to claim only one game in the second session, and never really proved dangerous.

Miss Ballin, on the other hand, looked like a winner throughout the greater part of her match with Miss Cassel. It was only the indomitable spirit of the latter, and her ability to think quickly in crucial situations, that saved her in each set. Miss Ballin was driving very well, and would probably have beaten any conventional game by the sheer speed and steadiness of her shots. But Miss Cassel mixed up her strokes to good effect, changing pace constantly and placing long and short until her opponent could never be quite sure where the ball was coming. She kept Miss Ballin away from the net with deep lobs, and in general showed a more varied game, with the result that each set, after prolonged alternation of service, fell to her by the smallest of margins.

In the doubles Miss Wagner and Miss Cassel exhibited impressive team work, and also outplayed their opponents individually. They captured the first set decisively at 6—2, but in the second session Mrs. Waring and Miss Grove braced and succeeded in taking four games before the victory was scored against them.

The summaries:

Singles, Semi-final Round—Miss Clare Cassel defeated Miss Florence Ballin, 10—8, 7—5; Miss Marie Wagner defeated Miss Margaret Grove, 6—2, 6—1.

Doubles, Semi-final Round—Miss Wagner and Miss Cassel defeated Mrs. Samuel H. Waring and Miss Grove, 6—2, 6—4.

Mixed Doubles, First Round—Mrs. Albert Humphries and George Gutwillig defeated Miss Marie Wagner and Manfred Goldman, 4—6, 6—4, 6—3; Miss Grove and J. H. Steinkampf defeated Miss Ballin and Harold Taylor, 6—3, 7—5; Miss Cassel and Leslie B. Fishel defeated Mrs. G. Blumenthal and Ellis Wilner, 6—3, 6—1; Miss Kelly and Augustin Healy defeated Mrs. Pflorzheimer and Dr. Ledermann, 1—6, 6—3, 6—3; Mrs. N. Levy and William Demuth defeated Miss Theresa Blum and R. Rapaport, 6—1, 6—1; Mrs. Edward V. Lynch and Walter J. Toussaint defeated Mrs. B. F. Stenz and James Weber, 11—9, 9—7; Mrs. S. H. Waring and Fred Letson defeated Miss Marcus and W. Katz, 6—1, 6—2.

Second Round—Mrs. Levy and William Demuth defeated Miss Fannie Garson and F. Wolff, 7—5, 7—5.

AMERICAN RIFLEMEN TAKE TEAM MATCH

Army Sharpshooters Finish First in Olympic Event Shot at Beverloo.

BEVERLOO, Belgium, July 29.—America won at least one of the seven events in the Olympic army rifle matches today, and apparently has been placed in several of the others. The results are uncertain because of the large number of entrants and the delay with which the scores came in.

Out of fourteen teams the American sharpshooters were first in the team match at 300 meters, lying down, with a score of 289 out of a possible 300. France was second with 283 and Switzerland third with 281. Norway and Finland tied at 279.

Neither Canada, which is entered only for the pistol shooting, nor Brazil competed in today's matches.

The events attracted many of the world's most expert shots. The teams competing included Denmark, Sweden, United States, Italy, France, Finland, Norway, Switzerland, Holland, Portugal, Belgium, Greece, Czechoslovakia and Spain. Conditions for the most part were ideal for shooting, except for a brief rainy period in the morning.

PETER COLEY GETS BEATING.

Valentine's Trotter Bows to Peter June, Driven by Geers.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 29.—What proved the greatest day's racing of any during the week entertained a crowd of 7,000 at the Grand Circuit meet here this afternoon.

The first defeat of the year for Peter Coley, C. D. Valentine's stake trotter, was recorded when E. F. Geers won the 2:08 trot, the Southern Hotel purse, with Peter June, who trotted in 2:04¾ and back in 2:04½ to take Peter Coley's measure. Valentine was making a great bid in the second heat when Coley broke in the stretch. However, he came back and took the final heat in 2:05¼. Brusiloff never was a real contender.

The early auctions on this race were sold at $200 on Peter Coley and $160 for the field. A $2 mutuel ticket on Peter June in the first heat was worth $39.60. It was a peculiar coincidence in this race that the four money winners were all sired by Peter the Great.

The other stake on the program was the 2:11 pace, the Hotel Deshler Purse. Juno was in great form and defeated John Henry and Peter Look with ease. The heats were rather slow to the half, but Juno "burned" home at phenomenal speed, doing the last half in one minute in each of the first two heats. Juno was the favorite in the auction pools.

Walter Cox won his first race of the meeting when Jane the Great led the 2:15 class three-year-old trotters. Signal Peter won the first heat and scored lame in the remaining heats. Signal Peter paid $44.20 for a $2 mutuel ticket to win the first heat.

The fourth event on the program was the 2:11 trot. It was won by Tootsie Toise after Geers had slipped through and won the first heat with Herbelwyn.

ZILPH FIRST HOME OF FORTY-FOOTERS

Lena Leads N. Y. Y. C. Thirties Over Larchmont Course—Steady Wind Aids Racers.

LARCHMONT MANOR, N. Y., July 29.—Yachtsmen who are gathered here for the annual race week of the Larchmont Yacht Club had almost ideal conditions for the fourth series race on Long Island Sound today. A south-southwest breeze of about ten knots was blowing when Chairman Perrin established the line off Larchmont Breakwater. Not only did the wind hold true and steady but it increased in strength as the afternoon advanced, giving each division an almost perfect race.

The forty-footers of the New York Yacht Club had a great race over a twenty-one-mile course that was made up of two reaches and a stiff beat. The winner was Zilph, the property of Dr. J. E. Hayes. In the thirty-foot division of the same club Ogden Reid's Lena was the first craft home. The division sailed a race of only sixteen and one-quarter miles. Although Amoret was the first boat to finish in the first division of the handicap class, on corrected time the prize went to Flight.

ANNUAL HORSE SHOW OPENS

A. W. Atkinson Leads Exhibitors by Winning Five Blues.

Special to The New York Times.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., July 29.—Ideal weather conditions, a varied program of twenty classes and one of the largest first-day crowds in years marked the opening of the twenty-seventh annual exhibition of the Monmouth County open-air horse show at Hollywood Park today. There were eighty-nine exhibitors, and A. W. Atkinson of Merchantville carried off first honors, five blues and a red, Aflame winning in the novice class, Ideal Mathias and Mogul twice in the harness pairs and each scoring in single harness horse classes. Mr. Atkinson recently lost a couple of thoroughbreds returning from the Chicago horse show, and it was reported at one time that he would not show at Long Branch. His return, however, and his victories proved very popular. Arthur Hopkins drove the winners, he having succeeded John Goodman as manager of the stable.

Miss Louise Da Carpenter of Montchanin, Del., won a couple of blues, as did J. A. M. Ramsdell of Newburg, N. Y.

The only mishap of the day was in the hunter class when Miss Katherine Hauck of Newark was thrown from her mount at the first jump. She lay motionless and it was feared that she had been injured, but after being carried to the judges' stand she was soon revived.

Governor Edward I. Edwards will not be present until Saturday. He was scheduled for tomorrow, but word was received that he could not attend. The Governor's sister-in-law, Mrs. David F. Edwards, Mrs. Thomas R. Lewis and Mrs. William Jones and Mrs. Edwards' two children, Phoebe and David, Jr., occupied the Governor's box.

The show will be continued tomorrow with twenty-two classes. The annual dinner tendered the Horse Show Directors by President Harry Content will be given tomorrow night.

BUSINESS CURTAILED THROUGHOUT JULY

RAILWAYS STILL CONGESTED

EXPECT IMPROVEMENT SOON

With Excellent Crop Prospects, Business Should Pick Up by Fall, It Is Asserted.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Curtailment of industrial activity, due to lower demand, cancellation of orders and general readjustment, was the outstanding development in the business of the country during July, the Federal Reserve Board declared tonight in its monthly review.

"In some districts, however, production continues upon old orders which are still on the books, despite the fact that new business has fallen off," the review declared. "In the agricultural regions improved crop conditions and the development of a more confident tone in business are reported to have brought about a turn distinctly for the better.

"Speculation in commodities is in many parts of the country reported to have been greatly reduced and in some practically eliminated. There is a general feeling that extravagant buying is at least less extreme and dangerous than it was some time ago."

The transportation problem continued unsolved during the month, the review reported, and while some local improvements were noted, there remained great freight congestion, provoking "an undue and unnecessarily severe strain upon credit."

Iron and Steel Situation Serious.

"The serious condition in which the iron and steel industry is now placed as the result of railroad congestion and shortage of raw material and fuel," says the report, "is illustrated by the statement made by the Cleveland district that 'traffic conditions in the iron and steel industry during the past month have reached a more acute stage and have become a matter of constant struggle to keep plants in operation and finished material moving.'

"The piling up of unshipped product in mill and furnace yards has continued and there is also a large tonnage of semi-finished material which is stacked up in work yards. It is estimated that 2,000,000 tons of iron and steel are tied up in the hands of the producers throughout the country. In the Cleveland district there have been few cancellations of unshipped products, but many mills are regulating their operations entirely in accordance with the ability of the buyer to furnish transportation.

"Thousands of motor trucks have been put into service hauling material from mills to points where cars are available or even to consumers' plants. Crude material production in that district has kept up quite well, but restriction of output applies most severely to the finishing operations.

"In the Philadelphia district the transportation situation has so thoroughly tied up the iron and steel industry that the entire situation centres on the question of getting movement of products. While many plants are running at 100 per cent. of capacity, the continuation of the lack of cars will force a reduction, possibly by two-thirds, at the end of another six weeks.

"Pig iron continues in active demand, but it is impossible to procure it in any quantity. If demand were to be taken as a criterion of the outlook, manufacturers would think it excellent, but their stocks of material and fuel have been so seriously depleted that the shipping prospect is very questionable.

Notable Improvement in Labor.

"One notable feature of the business situation during the month has been a change in labor conditions. An important factor in this connection has been the development of unemployment in various parts of the country. This unemployment has been apparently chiefly due to three factors. Where poor transportation prevented deliveries of fuel and raw materials some plants have been obliged to curtail operations and thereby reduce opportunities for employment pending better conditions; in other manufacturing districts the shutting down of mills as a result of cancellation of orders and lack of demand has also thrown considerable forces of men out of work; elsewhere, inability to obtain capital for construction and consequent abandonment or suspension of undertakings that had been contemplated have produced a certain amount of unemployment with some shifting of workers from one occupation to another.

"An effect of the changed labor situation, which has been the subject of quite general comment in the various Federal Reserve Districts, is an increase in the efficiency of labor. One of the largest producing companies in the Cleveland district reports the greatest four months in our history of pounds produced per man.

"Boston reports that labor is less insistent in its demands and during the first half of July only ten new strikes were reported to the Massachusetts Department of Labor, but two of these involving any considerable number of men. During the latter part of June and the first two weeks of July there was a marked decrease in the demand for factory help. The Boston Public Employment Office reports a surplus of machinists, mechanics and general factory workers.

"Retrenchment in Government manufacturing operations has released some labor. Unskilled labor is also more plentiful than heretofore.

"In the agricultural regions, however, there is little or no relief from the shortage of farm labor.

"In the extreme southern part of the country a better supply of agricultural labor has resulted from the slackening of industrial production.

"In New York there has been a distinct, though not large, increase in unemployment and this is more noticeable than usual at this season in the clothing trades. The labor difficulties at the port of New York have been reduced. Generally speaking, conditions are more stable than they were several months ago. Local shortage of unskilled labor due to the scarcity of immigrant hands is observable.

"There is less complaint than usual of labor conditions on the Pacific Coast, San Francisco reporting 'no strikes or labor disturbances of any importance in this district.'

"A notable event of the month has been the decision of the Railway Wage Adjustment Board, which has resulted in awarding a wage increase to railway workers estimated to aggregate $600,000,000, and presumed to represent an average increase of 21 per cent. or over for railway employes as a whole, although the increase granted has been greatest in the lower-paid grades of employment.

"Labor in many parts of the country is reported as increasing in efficiency, and a better spirit of co-operation is said to exist between employer and employe."

Coal production, the review asserted also, is hampered by car shortage, while local labor troubles were said to be causing an undercurrent of unrest in some districts. The coal output in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Indiana, Ohio and Illinois was estimated at one-half or less of normal, with the country's total production averaging 9,000,000 tons a week in comparison with current demands showing a need for 11,000,000 tons.

Crops Well Above Normal.

Prospects of a Winter and Spring wheat yield "considerably above normal" were reported by the Minneapolis district, while the Pacific Coast reports forecast a yield of 10,000,000 more bushels of Spring wheat than in 1919. The St. Louis district, however, said the wheat there was low in quantity but high in quality, while the Kansas City district predicted a big yield. Other crops, including corn, oats and cotton, were reported as having improved over past months.

Livestock conditions were said by the board to be exceptionally good the country over, with prices generally higher except for sheep. The raw wool market, however, continued its characteristic inactivity, which has lasted several weeks, the dealers in the Boston district placing practically no orders. Such wool as is going into the market is on a consignment basis.

In the woolen and worsted goods industry the board found the yarn spinners receiving few inquiries for their products, with conditions equally discouraging for finished textiles. Goods returned to the mills, together with cancellations, were estimated at $100,000,000.

Slackening of activity in cotton goods also was reported. Many mills declared that their raw cotton supplies were sufficient to last until next year, and the board's review said the chances seem to favor a further reduction of activity in the industry.

Little improvement in the leather and shoe trade was noted during the month, with New England manufacturers further curtailing operations. The manufacturers, however, were said to anticipate a brisk Autumn business, due to belated orders.

The board reported improved financial conditions, asserting that the New York district had noted that the big expansion of loans and discounts had been "wholly checked," with other districts declaring that this condition had been "largely checked."

The Chicago district states that the car situation is "still a dominant factor," while "labor difficulties are becoming a more important consideration. Borrowing at banks continues in large proportions; the demand for credit is very large, and there is little prospect of relief from the high rates." Growth of farm land and city real estate sales are reported as checked, and there is a slowing down in manufacturing.

"More active petroleum exploitation is gradually bringing up the production of crude oil," the report says. "Pipeline runs in Oklahoma and Kansas are now beginning to exceed shipments and reserve stocks are getting back to something like normal. This may be partly due to inability of refiners to get tank cars but the output itself is increasing June was the best month of the year in crude oil production.

"Metal mining conditions during the month have not been uniform. The half-year period ending June 30 shows an increase in the value of lead and zinc shipments over 1919 in spite of adverse productive conditions. Shipments of zinc ores declined during June and there was a tendency to decline both in price and volume of shipments of zinc. Metal mining in Colorado has suffered from a shortage of labor. Little new prospecting is in progress.

"There appears to be no difference of opinion concerning the causes that are responsible for the difficulties that hamper building operations. The hindrances are summed up under the all-inclusive heads of high prices of structural materials and heavy labor costs; transportation troubles that make the securing of supplies problematical; and inability to obtain funds for financing contemplated projects, especially residential structures."

Long Time Bonds

The amount and variety of long time bonds available at present low prices is limited, owing to the fact that most of the new issues are of short or medium duration. Corporations are unwilling to pay present burdensome rates of interest on new issues, except for a relatively short period.

Those desiring long term investments must depend largely upon old seasoned issues, and many experienced investors are now buying this class of security.

We can supply a limited amount of long time bonds at prices yielding around 7%, and we recommend the purchase of such bonds at the present time. We shall be glad to send details and circulars to those interested.

Rails Lead Strong Recovery of Stocks — Freight Rate Increase Awaited.

Following the leadership of railroad stocks, the industrial shares turned about yesterday and disclosed a fair degree of strength. The speculative following of the rails took heart over the outlook for earnings because of reports that the Interstate Commerce Commission would make known its freight rate decision in a few days and would grant practically the full increases asked by the carriers. It remains to be seen, of course, whether the completed fact will bear out expectations. Railroad stocks had evidently been put into position for an advance on moderate buying, by the absence of labor difficulties since the Labor Board announced the wage increases and also through news from various railroad sources that efficiency among the working forces had shown a steady growth in the last month. Reading, Southern Railway, Southern Pacific, Illinois Central and Union Pacific stood out more prominently than most of the other active issues, with gains extending from 1 to 2 points.

The industrial shares were inclined to lag for a time in the opening hour of trading, but once a short covering movement began it quickly gathered headway. Besides the fillup imparted to sentiment by improvement of the rails, the market generally was stiffened by reference to the discussion of Governor Harding of the Federal Reserve Board of the credit situation. Mr. Harding, quoted in the newspapers yesterday morning, stated that credit conditions in the Middle West were improving and the broad outlook indicated the handling of the crops this Autumn without unusual strain. The head of the Reserve system appeared somewhat more optimistic than local bankers of prominence have been lately in public utterances, and it is worth noting that he made no mention of possibilities for stock market loans or others for use in projects unconnected with agricultural and business undertakings. Wall Street's hopes havebeen so directly centered on easier money for speculation that the question may be raised whether yesterday's increase of optimism may not be disturbed later just as expectations of enlarged supplies of market funds were upset in the first week of the month. However, the latest phases of the call loan market are of a quality to support thoughts of an improved money position. Demand loans after opening at 8 per cent. yesterday, which was the renewal rate, moved off to 7 per cent. Stocks which had been the subject of especial pressure on Tuesday and Wednesday responded quickest to the day's purchases, Steel common advancing 1¾ points. The Chicago grain markets again declined, as did cotton quotations. The trend in these markets for the last fortnight has been such as to forecast a smaller demand upon credit for storage and marketing than if the price movement had been upward. The statistical showing indicates lower prices for wheat and other grains, for a carry-over of more than 100,000,000 bushels promises now to supplement a larger yield than was looked for even as recently as July 15. The Kansas output is being revised upward and excellent weather prevails in most districts of the Spring wheat territory. Private cotton estimates foreshadow an expansion in the forthcoming Government survey of the crop.

Sterling exchange receded from $3.75⅝ for checks to $3.72¼, later recovering to $3.73¼ for a net decline of 2⅝ cents. French, Belgian, Italian and German quotations were also under pressure.

CANADA'S BIG FOREIGN TRADE

Exports Were $1,276,000,000 and Imports $1,210,000,000.

OTTAWA, July 29.—A report issued by the Department of Trade and Commerce today shows that during the twelve months ended June 30, Canada's total exports were $1,276,311,542, and imports $1,210,204,323.

Imports from the United States amounted to $861,000,000, against $690,000,000 for the previous twelve months, and exports to the United States were $489,000,000, as compared with $440,000,000 in the corresponding period.

MEXICO NAMES NEW FINANCE AGENT HERE

HIS SECRETARY ARRIVES

Tells of Intention of Government to Give Every Protection to American Interests.

Dr. Alfredo Caturegli, Mexican financial agent here for the last four years, has been relieved by the de la Huerta Government, it was announced yesterday, and shortly will be replaced by Roberto Pesqueira, who will handle the financial affairs of the Mexican Government in the United States and Canada, with offices here, in El Paso and Laredo, Tex., and in Canada. Dr. Caturegli, it was said, will return to Mexico. His successor is expected to arrive in New York within the next ten days.

Tomas Orozco, chief accountant of the agency at El Paso, and S. M. Reachi, newly appointed secretary of the agency here, arrived here yesterday. They were detailed by the Mexican Government, they said, to conduct the agency pending the arrival of Pesqueira.

"On his arrival Signor Pesqueira will take up the question of petroleum," said Mr. Reachi. "Conferences with representatives of American petroleum interests will be held with a view to reaching a satisfactory arrangement leading to better understanding between the new Government and the petroleum interests in Mexico.

"The Government has made up its mind to protect American interests in every way possible and to come to a satisfactory arrangement with all persons having interests in Mexico. The surrender of Villa, brought about by the new Government, indicates this clearly. At any cost the Government is striving to pacify the country. Once pacified it will attempt to restore that which has been destroyed."

Asked his opinion of the reported "pensioning" of Villa by the de la Huerta Government, Mr. Reachi said:

"As I said, the Government is pacifying the country at any cost, and apparently this course seemed to be the one which best settled the Villa issue once and for all. Immediate action was necessary. Mexico has never had such a democratic Government. Administration officials are largely men who have been in the United States; some of them have studied here and all know conditions here. The new Government is not worried about reports that small bands of men have risen against it."

When he arrives the new financial agent will occupy offices at 120 Broadway.

LAST DAY FOR U. S. TAXES.

Returns on Capital Stock, Narcotics, &c., Must Be In Tomorrow.

Tomorrow is the last day for the payment of a number of special taxes to the Federal Government. It is estimated that the receipts from these special taxes will reach $175,000,000 in Manhattan alone. The taxes include capital stock tax; tax on narcotics; brokers' taxes; pawnbrokers' taxes; ship brokers; a tax on the seating capacity of theatres, museums, concert halls, &c.; pool table tax; a tax on shooting galleries, riding academies; wholesale and retail liquor dealers; pleasure boats; manufacturers of tobacco; manufacturers and dealers in oleomargarine; cheese manufacturers.

"If the principal office of the company making returns is in Manhattan," said Collector Edwards, "the report should be filed with the Collector of Internal Revenue, Custom House, New York. The name and address should be plainly printed or typewritten, and every application should be executed in full, so as to avoid confusion and error.

"Where special taxes are mailed Post Office money orders and certified checks should be securely attached to the return. Penalties are assessed for failure to file a return. Absence from the city or sickness are the only legal excuses. Cash sent through the mail is at the owner's risk."

ENGLAND IS SEEKING TO BRING DEBT HOME

METHOD A "HAPPY BYPATH"

Savings Certificates Sold to Meet Her Share of $500,000,000 Maturity.

England's efforts to meet her "half" of the Anglo-French loan of $500,000,000, which matures here on Oct. 15, are taking some odd twists, according to information which has just reached the foreign information service of the Bankers Trust Company. A popular appeal is being made in England, through the medium of display advertisements in the newspapers, to induce the British people to help liquidate the loan by purchasing British savings certificates, which correspond to our War Savings Stamps. One advertisement which is getting very wide circulation says:

"In 1915 we borrowed jointly with France £100,000,000 in the United States. The loan falls due October next. It has been decided that the whole of the money raised during the next three months by the sale of savings certificates shall be devoted to paying off this country's share of the loan."

"The repayment of this debt will assist to rectify the present adverse American exchange. It will help to reduce prices of all the essential commodities which we import from the U. S. A. It will be a striking proof to the world of Britain's power of recovery after the war. By paying the loan in this way the country will owe this money to you and your fellow citizens. Interest on it will go to you instead of to America; in the words of the Prime Minister, 'Let us keep the debt in the family.'"

This method of bringing a debt home was mentioned as a "happy bypath" by the Chancellor of the Exchequer last April in the House of Commons.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Money Value.

A banker whose institution has been "taking care" of its clients on loans at rates not much, if any, above 6 per cent., said yesterday he was satisfied that if the bank should conduct an auction of its available accommodation the average rate would be closer to 15 per cent. than to 6 per cent. But, he went on to explain, that would only make trouble. At 6, or perhaps 7 per cent., he said, the bank was making ample returns on its capital, and these rates were serving their purpose of arresting inflation and were bringing about some slight contraction; "and that," he added, "is precisely the situation we are aiming at." The local banks, in his opinion, are not charging on loans "all the traffic will stand," but are holding rates reasonably firm in order to prevent any further expansion and, in so doing, are making what they consider entirely satisfactory profits.

Out-of-Town Rates.

That money rates are higher elsewhere than they are in New York was testified to yesterday by Bird M. Robinson, speaking for the American Short Line Railroad Association before the Interstate Commerce Commission. The news dispatches quoted him as saying that the short lines could not go into the New York market to borrow money, but had to get it from their local banks, "where interest rates are substantially higher than they are in the large banking centres." So far as the reports went, Mr. Robinson did not mention specifically what the country banks are demanding, but made it quite plain that the demands were higher than the New York bankers are asking. This testimony must have been somewhat startling to some of the railroad man's auditors, who appear to believe that only in places like New York are high interest rates charged.

Japan's Balances.

In banking circles there is some mild apprehension over the possibility of rather substantial gold withdrawals from this country for export to Japan. Not that the Japanese Government is likely to do this, but some of the private Japanese banks are said to be liquidating balances and investments, and it is thought possible that this movement toward greater liquidity may foreshadow a withdrawal of the balances in the form of metal. As there is estimated to be upward of $70,000,000 of private Japanese money invested in securities in this market, and as some of this already has been translated into cash, the possibilities of heavy gold exports are thought to be pertinent. The purpose of taking gold, it was explained by an international banker yesterday, probably would be to allow the private banks to improve their reserves with the Bank of Japan, which is the State institution.

Acceptance Buying.

The market for bankers' acceptances continues to expand quietly but steadily, despite the innumerable other demands for money. Some of the larger dealers say that corporation buying this week has been a feature of the market, and they further state that the buying appears to be for fairly permanent investment, as the corporations are buying ninety-day bills, and in some cases four months' paper. Rates for both classes are the same, notably 6¼ per cent. for purchasers, notwithstanding that the four months' bills must run a full month before they become eligible for rediscount at the Federal Reserve banks. This apparent disadvantage, however, is frequently offset by the character of the long bills, which in most instances are three-name paper coming out of Oriental transactions and are considered extremely prime.

Hope or Logic?

While there can be no doubt that Governor W. P. G. Harding of the Federal Reserve Board was quite optimistic in the interview he gave to newspaper men on Wednesday afternoon, there is a possibility that Wall Street, meaning the stock market fraternity, read more optimism into the interview than the Governor himself really put into it. What he said, in substance, did not, as a matter of fact, differ greatly with what local bankers, of the class of Mr. Stillman or Mr. Alexander, have been saying lately. He was optimistic to the extent that he appeared to believe there would be sufficient credit to take care of essential requirements, which was the view expressed by Mr. Alexander the other day, but it is rather difficult to find in the Governor's statement anything which, even by remote implication, could be construed to mean that the stock market will be able to get all the money it wants at low rates, which is what some of the commission house people were trying to find between the lines.

Copper Market Quiet.

The copper market is very quiet, with quotations ruling about the same, although some fair exports were said to have been placed yesterday around 19 cents. In some quarters where the metal has been held for speculation and holders have been asked to cut down the size of their loans at the banks there have been instances of sales for a quarter of a cent less, but the volume has been comparatively small.

Railroad Labor Situation Better.

Sentiment regarding the railroad situation has started to show decided improvement since the wage award announced by the Railway Labor Wage Board ten days ago. Before the announcement was made, and even following its publication, there were doubts in railroad quarters as to how the various railroad labor organizations would receive it. Some predicted that there would probably be a series of "outlaw" strikes. Since the better part of two weeks has passed without any disturbance of sufficient scope to make more than a passing and local impression, operators and managers are becoming more optimistic. Another factor of the improved feeling is the fact that reports are being received almost daily from different roads that the efficiency of their men is steadily increasing. In some shops the efficiency of the workers, which dropped as much as 40 and 50 per cent. during Federal control, improved from 20 to 25 per cent. since March 1 last.

Northwest and New England to Get Coal.

The Northwest and the New England districts are assured of their coal supplies through the coming Winter season, according to local railroad men, who see in the recent orders of the Interstate Commerce Commission regarding coal shipments an antidote for the items which were serving to block the delivery of the proper supply to both districts. Extra quantities of coal cars have been designated to carry the Northwestern supply, and it appears that the commission is about to arrange loans of no small volume and has made others which will aid materially in moving the required additional tonnage which will take care of these requirements. In the remainder of the open season on the Great Lakes the shipments of coal each month must total 6,000,000 tons instead of the 5,000,000 tons normal shipments. The other order of the commission, No. 11, means, according to local railroad men, that coal will go straight through to New England from certain coal fields instead of being sidetracked at tidewater and diverted to the uses of international coal speculators. Railroad men realized that any additional tonnage that they were furnishing through an increased car supply was being used up by the international speculators, and made recommendations to the Interstate Commerce Commission for a ruling which would stop this in so far as the New England supply was concerned.

Two Wise Loans.

As an indication of the efforts being made by railroad operators to do their share in moving coal supplies to the Northwest, when the movement is almost 1,000,000 tons a month behind the normal schedule, two loans which have been recommended to railroads are of more than passing interest. One is a loan of $400,000 to the Evansville, Indianapolis & Terre Haute Railroad, which will enable it to handle 1,000,000 tons additional each month, and the other is a loan of $270,000 to the Chicago Great Western for similar purposes. Increasing the ability of these two carriers to handle additional tonnage will aid in relieving the pressure over the Great Lakes route.

FORMS CORPORATION FOR RAIL EQUIPMENT

Securities Owners' Association Plans to Finance Building of Rolling Stock.

TO BE RUN WITHOUT PROFIT

Interstate Commerce Commission Will Make 15-Year Loans to Organization to Permit Operation.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Papers were filed today in Baltimore by S. Davies Warfield, President of the National Association of Owners of Railroad Securities, incorporating the National Railway Service Corporation, under the laws of Maryland. The corporation is designed to finance equipment for railroads, and is intended to operate without profit, so it is asserted.

In connection with the incorporation, Mr. Warfield made the following statement:

"The organization of the National Railway Service Corporation completes as far as is now practicable the plan for the return and regulation of the railroads presented to the Interstate Commerce Committees of Congress in January, 1919, by the National Association of Owners of Railroad Securities.

"Two of the three fundamental features initiated by the association in that plan are now essential features of the present transportation act.

"One is the mandatory provision that rates are to be made to yield the fixed percentage return named in the act upon the railroad property in the aggregate and essential to preserve the transportation system and continue it under private ownership and operation.

"The second is a division of earnings of a railroad where rates yield to it more than 6 per cent. on its individual property, one-half to be retained by such road, the other half established a public fund to be expended by the Interstate Commerce Commission for transportation needs.

"The third fundamental of the plan provided for the organization of a national public corporation designed among other things to finance equipment to be leased or otherwise acquired by railroads. We thought we could foresee the necessity for providing the means to relieve the congestion bound to occur upon the return of the roads to their owners and now taking place.

Permitted Under Transportation Act.

"To accomplish as far as now practicable what was then intended, we are now organizing the public corporation to be called the National Railway Service Corporation, authority for which was obtained under an amendment to the transportation act added to the Sundry Civil Appropriation bill, and suggested by our association when that bill was in conference between the houses of Congress. This amendment was adopted by the conferees and passed by Congress in the closing hours of the last session.

"Accordingly, the Interstate Commission has recognized the National Railway Service Corporation as an agency to which it will make loans under this amendment and to enable that corporation to provide additional funds to finance much-needed equipment for the railroads.

"The corporation will issue its obligations in series under two plans:

"(A) Railroads may purchase equipment outright through the corporation under an equipment trust providing for thirty semi-annual payments, the trust maturing in fifteen years, at which time the equipment becomes the property of the carried making the purchase. The Interstate Commerce Commission will make fifteen-year loans to the corporation in amounts dependent upon the class of equipment purchased. The railroads, under this plan, are required to furnish an agreed amount of collateral to secure the equipment notes given the Government, which have lien on the equipment, subordinated to the lien of the equipment notes purchased from the corporations by investing institutions and investors.

Can Be Leased by Railroads.

"By the other plan (B) the corporation will lease equipment to the railroads under the plan of semi-annual payments running fifteen years, the carriers charging the rental to operating expenses. By a nominal payment at the expiration of fifteen years the railroads that complete their payments will receive the equipment as their own property. In the case of lease, little or no collateral will be required from the railroads.

"In either case the title to the equipment remains either in the corporate trustee or in the corporation. Each series will have a separate trustee.

"The issue of equipment notes to be presently made will be $30,000,000, maturing in fifteen years. Approximately 40 per cent. thereof will be loaned the corporation by the Government at 6 per cent., either direct or through the carriers participating in the series; the balance (approximately 6 per cent.) will be loaned by investing institutions at 7 per cent. We believe this is the lowest interest rate that has yet been obtained by a railroad in purchasing equipment since the war.

"The present series (A) will be a straight purchase, with thirty semi-annual payments, the notes maturing in fifteen years. Notes of the corporation will be secured by a direct lien on the equipment of the carriers participating, title to the equipment to remain, as stated, in the trustee or the corporation until paid for. There will be three parties to the equipment trust agreement—the corporation, the trustee and the carriers.

Must Keep Equipment in Repair.

"Each carrier will give its individual equipment notes, which, together with the agreement, will be deposited with the trustee as additional security for the payment of the equipment notes of the corporation. The carriers are to keep the equipment in full repair during the life of each trust.

"The carriers participating in the present issue are the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad to the extent of $14,000,000, the Rock Island and the Minneapolis and St. Louis Railway to the extent of $11,000,000, the Bangor & Aroostook to the extent of $150,000. Several other roads applied at the same time for equipment. Decision has not been reached as to which will participate in the present series.

"Under the plan proposed the Government is amply secured and the investors are secured from the fact that the equipment notes held by the Government are not paid until the notes of the corporation in the hands of the investors are paid. This is a public corporation. It will operate without profit. The stock issue is nominal, is owned by the National Association of Owners of Railroad Securities and transferred in blank to the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States. Congress will be asked to reincorporate this corporation by Federal act.

"Fifty thousand open top cars are necessary to relieve the congestion at the steel mills, coal mines and other industries requiring this class of car."

Mr. Warfield stated that the Board of Trustees, when completed, would number twenty. The present trustees are S. ## SHORE LINE TROLLEY SOLD.

Plant Estate's Idle 50-Mile Route to be Dismantled.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW LONDON, Conn., July 29.—Residents along the Shore Line Electric Railway, between Flanders Junction, Saybrook and New Haven, who had hoped for a restoration some day of trolley service, found their hopes shattered today when it was announced that the property was sold to the United States Rail and Equipment Company, which purposes immediately to dismantle the entire line and dispose of the material and equipment as junk. The line is about fifty miles long.

Robert W. Perkins, as Receiver, obtained an order from the Superior Court on June 15, authorizing him to dispose of the line at public or private sale, subject to approval of the court. The Hollandersky Real Estate Agency here found a customer in the United States Rail and Equipment Company, owned by Louis I. Levinson, of New York.

The sale has been approved by Judge George E. Hinman of the Superior Court and papers in the transaction have now been passed. The sale involves $340,000. Practically all of the stock in the line sold is owned by the estate of the late Commodore Morton F. Plant.

The property to be removed comprises trackage, turnouts, sidings and materials, starting from State and Ferry Streets in New Haven and extending variously to Old Saybrook, Chester, Guilford, Stony Creek, Branford, Flanders Corner and East Lyme.

Perry Hollandersky represented the United States Rail and Equipment Company, and Attorneys Charles B. Whittlesey of this city and Edward M. Day, of Hartford, represented the Shore Line Electric Railway Company and Mr. Perkins, the receiver.

The portion of the road's property sold has not been in use for about a year, operation having ceased when the trolley men went on strike last July.

GOOD CROP REPORTS SEND COTTON DOWN

Ideal Weather and Anticipation of U. S. Statement Prove Bearish Factors.

NEW SELLING EVIDENT

Market Heavy Until Noon—Weakness Most Pronounced in Distant Months—October Off 45.

Almost perfect weather and the publication of several additional private crop reports, in anticipation of Monday's official statement by the Department of Agriculture, all of which were extremely bearish, brought out a lot of new selling, both for local and Southern account, yesterday, and during the morning and until 1 o'clock the cotton market was very heavy. The weakness was more pronounced in the distant months than in the near options and by early afternoon March and May had gone off a maximum of 78 and 70 points, respectively, while October was down only 45 points and December and January were off about 65 each.

The trade and most of the organizations which issue crop forecasts are convinced that Monday's official exhibit will show very marked improvement in the condition of the crop. One of the reports put out yesterday predicted an indicated crop of more than 13,100,000 bales, which probably is a little large, and most of the others were not far short of this prediction. There is a question as to how much a 13,000,000 bale crop has been discounted, for the talent has been talking this figure for at least two weeks, and most of the weakness in that time has been attributed to the expectation of a Government indication of this size.

The fact that the distant months have been going down more rapidly than the near months of late is surprising. The premium on near months was so large two weeks ago that many then thought there would be a narrowing, but instead of this the spread has been widened. In some quarters it is still felt that the premium on near months will be cut down very shortly, and some keen ring operators are laying their plans in accordance with this theory.

The Liverpool market was less buoyant yesterday than in several days. Spots were still in rather good demand, but the future market, which started steady, reacted later, closing down 14 to 42 points, the greater losses being in the near months.

Our market, after the morning decline, rallied a little in the afternoon, and final prices were down only 23 to 40 points, with the far months losing the most. Spots here were again unchanged, despite some good-sized sales.

Yesterday's quotations follow:

| | Open. | High. | Low. | Close. | Previous Day. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|

The local market for spot cotton was quiet, unchanged, at 40c for middling upland; sales, 8,900 bales.

Southern spot market were: Galveston 37.50c, New Orleans 39.25c, Savannah 41c, Augusta 40c, Memphis 39.50c, Houston 36.50c, Little Rock 39.50c.

Yesterday's cotton statistics were:

Liverpool cables: Spot cotton was in fair demand at 26.04d for middling. Sales 6,000 bales, of which 5,000 were American. Imports 3,000 bales; all American. Future opened quiet, 2 to 7 points up, and closed barely steady, 12 to 42 points down on the day. Prices: July, 24d; October, 22.56d; December, 21.61d; March, 20.84d. Manchester: Yarns and cloths were steady and in moderate demand.

Big Increase in Gulf Steel Earnings.

Cuba sent U.S. in 1919 $418,000,000 of her products

POPULATION and territory set no limits to Cuba's trade. With less than one-half the population of New York City, she stands fourth in importance in volume of trade with the United States.

Through Havana passes a tonnage second only to that of New York, which means that Cuba has the second largest port in the Western Hemisphere.

Cuba imports nearly everything she consumes and exports nearly everything she produces.

If the value of American goods imported last year were equally divided, every Cuban would have paid $105.95 to American exporters at the port of entry.

The pearl of the Antilles. The gigantic sugar bowl of the world. Rich almost beyond imagination. A fertile ground for the American exporter, manufacturer and Banker to cultivate.

Our affiliate in Havana, the Banco Mercantil Americano de Cuba, affords the necessary banking facilities for business.

MINE OWNERS MEET IN CHICAGO TODAY

Coal Operators Are Expected to Refuse Miners' Proposal of a Joint Conference.

COLLIERIES STILL TIED UP

Four Chicago Railroads Put Embargo on Coal—St. Louis Prepares for Regulation.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 29.—Under a call issued today in St. Louis by Thomas T. Brewster, Chairman of the Scale Committee of the coal operators, a meeting of the operators of the central compentitive field will be held here tomorrow to consider the request of John L. Lewis, President of the Mine Workers, for a joint conference on the coal situation as affected by the recent strikes. Great importance is attached to the meeting, and while no official statement has been made indications tonight were that the following line of conduct would be followed:

The operators will inform Lewis that they put into effect an agreement drawn last April by the Federal Bituminous Coal Commission, that the agreement has been broken by the miners and that, while they are willing to make any modifications which the Government considers warranted, they cannot consider any new agreements or modifications until the miners return to work.

The operators will send a communication to President Wilson, in which his letter urging them to sign the agreement will be brought to the President's attention, and ask that means be taken to have the miners cease breaking contracts and to get them to return to work pending a satisfactory settlement of their grievances.

Operators Ask President's Views.

E. C. Searles, President of the Illinois Coal Operators' Association, made public today the telegram which the Illinois operators sent to Secretary Tumulty following their conference yesterday. It follows:

"Referring to our letter of July 19, addressed to the President and our discussion of the same with you on Thursday and Friday of last week, we would now advise you of the receipt of a telegram from Thomas T. Brewster of St. Louis, Chairman of the Operators' Wage Scale Committee, stating that John L. Lewis, President of the United Mine Workers of America, has requested a joint conference between the Wage Scale Committees of the operators and miners. Such meeting, if held, will doubtless take up for consideration the changes demanded by the Illinois miners in the terms and conditions of the existing contract entered into between the operators and the miners and embodying the terms of the award of the Wage Scale Commission appointed by President Wilson.

"Before taking any steps in this connection we desire to be advised as to what the wishes of the President are. We would respectfully ask you to inform us concerning the same, and we would particularly request a reply to our letter of July 13. We would again affirm our desire to be guided in this connection by the wishes of the President and to take no steps that could possibly be considered by him as unwise or improper in the present emergency, which threatens a general tieup of the entire coal industry in the Central Competitive Field."

Four of the largest railroads with headquarters in Chicago have placed an embargo on all deliveries in the central district, excepting steam coal. The coal thus "confiscated" by the roads is being held in reserve until a week's emergency supply can be built up. The four roads taking this action are the Illinois Central, Chicago and Eastern Illinois, Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul and the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy.

The Chicago and Northwestern Railroad, according to the coal traffic manager's office, is making all deliveries as usual.

CHICAGO, July 29 (Associated Press).—Coal operators of Indiana today declined to participate in a joint conference with the miners, as suggested by John L. Lewis, with a view to changing or amending the interstate agreement and the Coal Commission's award.

The Executive Committee of the Indiana Bituminous Coal Operators' Association, in announcing its action, said it was influenced "by the fact that all contracts, State and interstate, were but a reaffirmation and acceptance by the operators and miners of an award mandatory in its provisions."

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 29.—Coal dealers here today were requested not to dispose of any coal until the sale had been approved by the Municipal Coal Committee, appointed last night by Mayor Kiel to take charge of the local coal situation. Many large industries reported they had only sufficient coal to last them twenty-four hours. In the event the shortage became more acute, Mayor Kiel asserted, he would issue a proclamation declaring the public health in danger and empowering the Health Department to confiscate coal for distribution.

STEEL TRUST SILENT ON CHURCH REPORT

Gary's Secretary Gives Out Letter from Minister Praising Welfare Work.

EMPLOYED IN MILLS AS BOY

Declares Company Today Furnishes Men with Finest Comforts, Recreation and Inspiration.

No reply was made yesterday by officials of the United States Steel Corporation to the Interchurch World Movement report on conditions in the steel industry. It could not be ascertained whether James A. Farrell, President of the corporation, intends to reply to the report after he has read a copy.

A letter written to Elbert H. Gary, Chairman of the board of the corporation, by the Rev. John Weidley, pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Reformation, of Washington, which contrasts conditions in the steel industry of fifty years ago with those of today, was made public by Mr. Gary's Secretary. The letter read:

"I am in receipt of several copies of your address at a meeting of the American Iron and Steel Institute at New York on May 28, 1920, and also the pamphlet illustrating welfare work in the steel industry. I read them through with a great deal of interest. They brought vividly before me the experiences I had as a lad and a young man in mill work. My first work was that of a "pull-up" at a bar mill heating furnace for 50 cents a day, beginning at 3 o'clock in the morning, quitting at 3, 4 and 5 o'clock in the evening. My next promotion was to that of "straightener" at an eight-inch guide mill. From that I went through every position till I became a "rougher-up."

"When I was 21 years of age I resigned and started for a preparatory school, carrying with me my last month's wages—$75—which were sufficient to pay tuition, room rent, books and board for one year. The Summer vacations were spent in the mill to get sufficient money to pay for the next year at school.

"My reason for writing the above is to make note of the change in conditions for workingmen from that of forty-five years ago to what they are at the present time. Then not the slightest interest was taken in the boys and the men. The loafing place for us boys after working hours was mainly in the mill with tramps, listening to their stories and watching them at their tricks, which they would perform for a little bit to eat. I have seen as many as fifty tramps sleeping by the warm furnaces on cold wintry nights.

"While at work, if anyone was injured, no matter how seriously or how painfully, there was no provision made by the company for the suffering one, not even first aid. Such a one was never visited; not even as much as inquiry made. All the machinery was exposed. If some one was killed there was no inquest, no thought of preventing a like occurrence by putting up protection. There were no reading rooms, no bathing facilities, no entertainments, no encouragement for a boy to try to make good.

"Forty years have passed since I left the mill for college, but my interest of those days abides. At night my dream of work in the mill is as real as if I were back again in those far off years.

"How good it is of the employer of today, instead of cuffing the boys and cursing the men, to make it possible for them not only to have a decent wage, but to furnish for them some of the finest comforts, recreation, diversion, inspiration and, best of all, a heart that beats in sympathy and even love for them and theirs.

"I wish in this way to give expression of the feeling I have for the manner in which you and those associated with you treat the men who make it possible for your great industrial concern to be so signally successful.

"Fraternally,

SPANIARDS DESTROY WINE.

Dump Large Quantities in Rivers Rather Than Reduce Price.

MADRID, July 28.—Thousands of persons in Spain are incensed over the action of the wine-growers in the Valdepenas and other vineyard districts, who after a meeting, threw large quantities of this year's yield, which is extremely bountiful, into the rivers, in order, it is said, to maintain the high prices of wines.

Lack of transportation prevented the producers from exporting wines and fruits, therefore, in the course of their meeting the wine-growers decided to destroy the products rather than permit the public to obtain wines at moderate rates.

SEEK LEEWAY ON LOANS.

Railroads Ask Authority to Pay Over 7 Per Cent.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Representatives of the railroads today asked the Interstate Commerce Commission for permission to borrow from private capital at a higher interest rate than 7 per cent. so as to share in loans from the revolving fund created by the Transportation act.

The commission has certified to the Treasury a number of loans to be made to railroads at 6 to 7 per cent. interest, and has required carriers to borrow similar sums from private capital at similar interest rates. Spokesmen for the Association of Railway Executives, the American Short Line Railroads' Association, the National Railway Service Corporations, the Fruit Growers' Express and a number of individual railroads said private loans could not be obtained at less than 7½ to 10 per cent. because of the prevailing short money market.

To Investigate Albany-Buffalo Fare.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Investigation was ordered today by the Interstate Commerce Commission to determine whether the rate of fare for passengers between Albany and Buffalo, N. Y., on the New York Central Railroad, reduced to two cents per mile by the New York Public Service Commission, will cause any unreasonable advantage as between persons in intrastate commerce and interstate commerce. Hearing was set for August 20 in New York.

Not Taking Much of a Chance.

While quite a little interest is taken in local wholesale circles in reports from certain Middle Western and New England cities that retailers there are to guarantee patrons of their August fur sales against possible loss resulting from a reduction of prices later in the year, the opinion was expressed yesterday that they are not taking much of a chance in doing so. In spite of the lower prices at which most raw skins are now held, it was asserted that the scarcity of merchandise resulting from the fur workers' strike would preclude the possibility of lower quotations on finished goods. Particularly true will this be if the strikers win. Another point brought out, on which not much stress was laid, was that manufactured furs lend themselves very easily to price manipulation. Were this resorted to by retailers, it was said, it would be easy enough to keep prices at their present levels regardless of what happened in the wholesale market.

To Make Their Own Boxes.

Announcement was made yesterday by Executive Director David N. Mosessohn of the Associated Dress Industries of America that plans have been laid by that organization for the manufacture of pulp-board and corrugated paper boxes on its own account. A factory is to be erected by the association, and it is hoped to have it in operation in time to supply containers to the dress trade next Spring, thereby bringing to an end troubles that manufacturers have been having for some time. Several sites in and near this city have already been offered to the association, and orders for the necessary machinery are to be placed in the near future. The new factory will be backed by members of the association and operated under its direction. Long delays in shipments from factories already established and the very high prices said to be asked for the kinds of boxes mentioned were given yesterday as the chief reasons for the step the association has taken.

BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday.....8 per cent. for the best names
Wednesday....8 per cent. for the best names
The quotations are for six months' paper.

Gray Goods Still Slipping.

Gray goods prices continued to slip in this market yesterday. In the sheetings, for instance, July-August deliveries of 5.50s were sold at 13⅛ cents. Spot 38½-inch 64-60 print cloths brought only 17 cents, with the same goods sold for October-December delivery at 16 cents. September-October shipments of 39-inch 68-72s were also disposed of at 16 cents. Buyers again paid 23 cents for 39-inch 64-104 4.20-yard sateens for shipment during next month.

Better Call for Ribbons.

Although there continues to be some unsettlement of conditions in the ribbon trade, a better feeling is noted. The trade has experienced an improved demanded recently from retail buyers, and the cutters-up also are placing more business than was the case until lately. The increase in home dressmaking, it is said, has encouraged a greater use of ribbons, because more trimmings are used on the home-made garments than usually are found in ready-to-wear apparel. Style information is also regarded as favorable to the narrow silk fabrics.

Women's Neckwear Prospects.

With a large demand promised this Fall for flouncings and yard goods, the women's neckwear houses see prospects of an active business. The demand will not be confined to the articles mentioned, from all accounts, but will include collars, gilets and sets. The Tuxedo style of collar is regarded as one of the style leaders for wear with dresses. The latter are having a fairly large sale and therefore provide a good outlet for neckwear. Net and organdie are the materials principally sought at present.

Spring Clothing May Be Delayed.

The talk in the woolen trade is that general openings of goods for next Spring clothing lines would not be made before September. In view of the fact that it takes the mills about ninety days to ship samples, the preparation of Spring clothing lines would not be completed until the beginning of December. The prospect of this delay is disturbing to the clothing trade, which would like to see matters revert to a normal basis. One advantage seen in the situation, however, is that a late opening will be in conformance with the retailer's desire to operate closer to his selling season.

Silks Are Still Quiet.

Little change has occurred in the silk trade of late. Buyers from various sections of the country visiting the local market still confine themselves principally to "looking around." Some orders have been placed, but they are said to be smaller than usual. One feature of the situation, however, is a slightly better demand from the cutting-up trades. The garment manufacturers have been out of the market for several months, but they are now making some inquiry for goods. If it turns out that the surplus stocks carried by them have dwindled to a point where replenishment is necessary, the silk trade feels that more business will result in the near future.

Offers a Novel Handbag.

One of the newest things in women's handbags is a novel two-in-one effect that has just been put on the market here. One side of the bag is equipped with a mirror, and in it may be carried toilet articles, handkerchiefs, etc. The other side is furnished with a change purse, and in this section there is ample room for bills and other things the owner may want to carry there. The new bag has several advantages, one of which is to make its contents easy to get at. It also lessens the risk of losing paper money, which often happens when bills and miscellaneous articles are carried together. It retails from $5 up and, in assorted leathers, is offered in black, tan, navy and brown. Substituting gray for brown, it may also be had in velvet in the same shades.

Figuring on a Mark-Up.

Failing to get a definition from Government officials regarding the dividing line in prices between necessities and luxuries, the retailers are forced to use their own judgment on the question. One generally-used plan is to follow the profiteering cases brought by the Government agents for the purpose of discovering just what percentages of profit are not considered within the scope of the Lever act. Ordinarily it has been found that 60 per cent. has been permitted, with a somewhat lower mark-up on staple or necessary articles. Even this system of finding out what the Government permits is not regarded by merchants as a very safe one to follow, but it appears to them as the best guide possible under the circumstances.

Raw Silks Still Dropping.

Prices continue to drop in most of the world's raw silk markets. Japanese silks have suffered another sharp decline and stand on the basis of 1,200 yen for spot lots of Sinshiu No. 1. There is practically no business being done in Yokohama, where visible stocks are now estimated at 31,000 bales. About one-third of this quantity is new silk. Canton is depressed by conditions at Yokohama, but reelers are not trying to force sales. Shanghai seems to be the strongest market of all just now, although there is practically no buying there to sustain prices. Reports from Milan received by H. L. Gwalter & Co. of this city say that that market is dull and that concessions on the part of reelers have so far failed to stimulate trading. The local market is very quiet, with both buyers and sellers engaged in "watchful waiting."

LOST SHIP THOUGHT TO BE THE KEHUKU

Since Then Not a Trace of the Steamer and Her Crew of 31 Has Been Found.

The tank steamship reported to have blown up within sight of crowds on the beach at Avalon, south of Atlantic City, on Tuesday morning is believed to have been the steamship Kehuku, which sailed from New York for Port Lobos, Mexico. The Kehuku left here on the day before the explosion, and, figuring her speed, she should have been somewhere off Atlantic City at the time those on shore saw the disaster.

At the office of the Columbus Shipping Company, 20 Broadway, owner of the Kehuku, it was said there was a standing order for all their skippers to report their positions by wireless within twenty-four hours after clearing a port. No report has been received from the Kehuku since the shore observer noted her passing out Sandy Hook.

For more than forty-eight hours the company has been in touch with every radio station along the Atlantic, and vessels coming over the course have been asked for word of the Kehuku. For thirty-six hours the Naval Communication Service, 44 Whitehall Street, has been sending out wireless calls at frequent intervals from the stations at Cape May and Virginia Beach, all without response from the missing steamship.

The Kehuku, a tanker, was bound south in ballast. She was commanded by Captain J. Robertson. The ship's papers list her crew as follows:

First mate—H. M. Lake, Woodlawn Beach, S. I.
Second mate—August Roescher, Kenduskeag, Me.
Third mate—Not given.
Ship's carpenter—Nicholas Langon, Constantinople.
Boatswain—L. Miller, Rotterdam.
Able seamen—R. M. Winn, Glasgow; P. Berrervers, Rotterdam; N. G. Hansen, Denmark.
Ordinary seamen—Alfred Hartman, Point Carbon, Pa.; William P. Goldrick, Syracuse; A. J. F. Doyle, 40 West 128th Street, New York City.
Chief engineer—A. Overton, Bath, Me.
First engineer—Robert C. Farrell, Bayonne, N. J.
Second engineer—J. F. V. Hutchinson, Redfield, Me.
Third engineer—W. I. Hanson, Brockton, Mass.
Pumpman—P. C. Harris, Massachusetts.
Oilers—F. Rodriguez, Panama; Louis Vargas, Cambridge, Mass.; George O'Reilly, San Francisco.
Firemen—George Johannson, Stockholm; John Coffey, 200 East Sixtieth Street, New York City; Thomas W. Carey, Staten Island; Charles Siaskowsky, Brooklyn.
Cooks—M. Frantzen, Edward Ryan, New York.
Steward—J. H. Tanntenere, Rotterdam.
Utility man—Ramon Diaz, Spain.
Messmen—Morris Wolf, New York City; Matteo de Martino, Brooklyn.
Wireless operator—Joseph W. Conrad, 916 North Bradford Street, Baltimore, Md.

The Columbus Shipping Company obtained the Kehuku from the United States Shipping Board on June 9. She was built by the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation at Wilmington, Del. She is of 7,500 tons dead weight, 392 feet long, 51 beam and has a speed of 11 knots.

ATLANTIC CITY, July 29.—There is still no trace of any wreckage or survivors of the oil tanker supposed to have been sunk off Avalon on Monday. Keeper Christopher Bentham, head of Station 130, at Sea Isle City, conducted a search of the waters within a radius of thirty miles of the place where the boat was sighted.

Inquiry at all wireless stations within range of the position where the tanker was last seen resulted in the information that no calls for assistance had been received within twenty-four hours of the time of the reported disaster.

Reports from the lower coast stations tonight are to the effect that not the slightest trace of oil, wreckage or cargo of the ill-fated steamer had been noted either at sea or along the shore line.

HOUSE UNSAFE, GETS $10,000

Policeman, Hurt in Tenement, Obtains Verdict Against Owner.

A Sheriff's jury awarded $10,000 damages yesterday to Thomas McClatchey, a policeman, in his suit against Richard A. Stackpoole, owner of a tenement house in West Fortieth Street because the latter failed to have hall lights burning and maintained the balustrade in an unsafe condition. McClatchey, who was a probationary policeman on Oct. 25 last, heard cries for help coming from the house when he was passing and rushed inside. He had a battle in the dark with a burglar and in the scuffle the balustrade gave way and he fell to the floor with his prisoner on top.

McClatchey was so seriously injured that he was pronounced unfit for anything but station house duty. He sued for $50,000 and the defendant did not answer the case.

BORROWS FOR ADOPTED BOY

Broker Sues Foster Mother of Belgian Stowaway for $1,900.

Mrs. Marion Gilhooley Curry, foster mother of Mike Gilhooley, Belgian stowaway, was examined in the Supreme Court yesterday in supplementary proceedings brought by Edward T. Toole, a broker, because of his inability to collect on a judgment for $1,900 obtained June 3 last. She admitted that she owns no real estate and is unable to pay the claim.

When questioned concerning her interest in the stowaway whom she adopted, she said she has been supporting the boy on borrowed money and that he is boarding with Mrs. Milton C. Vincent at 209 West 147th Street. She says she is now engaged in a business venture which she believes will be profitable and that she thinks she can settle the judgment by Aug. 12. The case was adjourned until that time.

THEATRE COMPANIES SUED.

Widow of Colonel Davidson, Killed by Canopy's Fall, Asks $50,000.

The New Netherland Theatre Company and the Playhouse Theatre Company were sued in the Supreme Court yesterday for $50,000 damages because of the death on Feb. 6 last of Lieut. Col. Fred L. Davidson of the 22d Infantry, stationed at Governors Island. He was crushed under the canopy of the Playhouse, in West Forty-ninth Street, when it fell under a load of wet snow.

The suit is brought by the widow, Mrs. Emma H. Davidson, who contends that the New Netherland corporation as owner and the Playhouse company as lessee are responsible for her husband's death because of their failure to have the snow removed. Lieut. Col. Davidson was cited for bravery in France by General Pershing and was gassed several times.

WASHINGTON, July 29. — United States district attorneys and other Federal agents as well as the fair price commissions have been instructed by the Department of Justice to watch closely for profiteering in the re-sale by dealers of the millions of dollars worth of canned meat now being distributed by the War Department.

Justice Department officials said that the low price at which the army was disposing of its surplus would give unscrupulous dealers an opportunity to take large profits in re-sales.

A transaction involving a modern office building in the Grand Central Terminal zone was featured in a moderately active real estate market in which the demand for business and residential space was fairly well distributed.

The twelve-story structure at 15 and 17 East Fortieth Street was sold by Harris, Vought & Co. for W. H. Bixby, as head of the 15-17 East Fortieth Street, Inc., to a client of Electus [illegible], who is negotiating for a resale of the property.

The building, which was erected about three years ago for the Anderson Art Galleries, occupies a plot 53.6 by 100, adjoining the northwest corner of Madison Avenue, and had been valued at $900,000 by the seller. The building now shows a rent roll of $85,000, which, according to the brokers, averages about $2 a square foot. Completion of negotiations for the resale of the property is expected to be announced next week.

In December, 1916, the Anderson Galleries purchased the site from Mrs. L. B. Hyde and subsequently resold it to Mr. Bixby's corporation, which proceeded at once with the erection of the present building. Shortly afterward the Madison Avenue corner was taken over by a corporation headed by Godwin Starrett and improved with a twenty-three story office building. The Anderson Galleries continued to occupy the properties until it purchased the building of the Arion Society at Park Avenue and Fifty-ninth Street, which it remodelled and took possession of about two years ago.

Other Business Building Deals.

Daniel Birdsall & Co. sold for St. Mark's Church property at 182 Franklin Street, a five-story building, 21 by 87.10, near Hudson Street, to Daniel Birdsall; also 64-66 North Moore Street, a five-story building, 50.2 by 87.10, near Hudson Street, to Thomas Van Loan.

William F. Behrens bought from Frederick Brown 273 Greenwich Street, adjoining the northeast corner of Murray Street, a five-story building, on plot 33 by 56 irregular, through Samuel Echler. He will alter the property for his business.

David J. Oliver sold for the estate of Charles Weisbecker 5,221 to 5,227 Broadway, a two-story business building, on plot 100 by 100. The buyer, the Arrowhead Garage Company, plans extensive alterations.

Queens Borough Transactions.

The last parcel remaining in the estate of Thomas Leggett at Flushing has been sold through Ira L. Terry. The property comprises a plot 31 by 100 feet at 162 Amity Street. It was sold by the executors of the estate to John Lichti and was formerly occupied by Sylvia's Bakery. The Leggett estate formerly owned a large part of the tract bounded by Amity on the south, Locust Street on the north, Union on the east and Main Street on the west. Many of the largest business establishments of Flushing, including the Bank of Manhattan Company and the Flushing National Bank, are now located on former holdings of the estate.

G. E. Clay sold for Mrs. J. L. Fitzpatrick the vacant plot on West Avenue, northeast corner of Seventh Street, Long Island City, to Frederick Russell of Great Neck, who will erect a garage to be used in connection with the Russell Iron Works and Machine Shops.

Lewis H. May Co. and J. H. Mayers sold for Sol Schildkraut thirty lots and house at Edgemere, L. I., for a total amount of $56,000. Among the buyers were Max Kempe, Lena Kissenstein, Frank Marino, A. Ponti, A. Wetzler, D. Korn, G. Pach, S. Schnurmacher and W. West.

Film Star Adds to Estate.

William S. Hart, film star, bought sixty-five acres and an old house at Westport, Conn., from Willard S. Adams through John Crawford. The property adjoins some sixty-acres already owned by Mr. Hart. Both parcels are on high land and command extended views of Long Island Sound for many miles. It has been in the Adams family for more than 100 years. It was held at $30,000.

New Jersey Sales.

FERNANDEZ WARRANT HERE

Extradition on Old Charge Discussed in Connection with Clearing Up Hotel Mystery.

In the event that O. J. Fernandez, alias O. J. Woods, alias Eugene Le Roy, should be arrested for the murder of Mrs. Katherine Lou Jackson, whose body was found in a trunk here last Friday, indications yesterday were that the police of New York will question him as to his whereabouts on the night of Aug. 14, 1919.

On that night two men registered at the Hotel McAlpin. One was Cecil E. Landon, a soldier from Oregon. The other wrote the name "P. P. Poulverer" on the register. The following day Landon was found dead in the room to which the two had been assigned, his head beaten in with a candelabrum. "P. P. Poulverer" had vanished.

As is their custom when any murder occurs, the police in this trunk murder tragedy promptly began to compare all the evidence gathered in connection with it with evidence collected in investigations of past crimes that remain unsolved.

During this routine task the police compared the handwriting of "Poulverer" with the handwriting of O. J. Fernandez, and it was learned yesterday that they believe there is a striking similarity in the way the characters are formed--well worth further inquiry, anyhow.

Old Warrant for Fernandez.

In the same way the well oiled machinery of the detective branch of the Police Department turned up the fact that Fernandez, as "O. J. Woods," was found guilty of grand larceny in connection with the theft of Liberty bonds and jewels from a man living in West Fiftieth Street, and received a suspended sentence in the Court of General Sessions on Aug. 8. Judge Wadhams ordered him to report to a Catholic organization in order that a check might be kept on his behavior and whereabouts. He never reported. In September, 1919, a warrant was issued for his arrest.

This warrant still holds, and even should Fernandez be arrested, tried and acquitted of a murder charge in Detroit, there is nothing to prevent the New York authorities from requesting his extradition here under the warrant and questioning him in connection with the Landon murder. Best information yesterday was that this, in any case, is the purpose of the New York detectives.

Every day has added to the total of knowledge of Fernandez's past in New York City. As told in newspapers yesterday, the detectives traced him to two different addresses here, in one of which he lived with his friend, Joseph Yanez. It developed yesterday that when Fernandez and Yanez came to New York for the first time, so far as is known, their trunks were shipped from San Antonio, Texas, and were handled by Andrew J. Branic, the New York expressman, who first informed the police of Fernandez's identity.

Reported Located in Mexico.

Detectives are awaiting with interest developments in the case of Ferdandez, who is reported to have been located in Saltillo, Mexico. A warrant for murder has been issued in Detroit and a reward of $5,000 has been posted.

The Fernandez who was known to Branic under his own name and the aliases of "Woods" and "Le Roy" in New York and Detroit had for his best friend Joseph Yanez. Joseph Yanez now is an airplane inspector for the Mexican Government in Saltillo. His family lives in San Antonio. A. J. Fernandez former Mexican Consul in San Antonio, is the father of the O. J. Fernandez who is said to be in Saltillo. Records show that Yanez and Fernandez crossed into Mexico on the same day.

It should be remembered, however, that no suspicion of any sort is directed against Yanez. He is merely known as the friend of Fernadez. And it was learned yesterday that on one occasion he said to Branic, the expressman:

"He (Fernadez) will get into trouble some day—using all those names."

New York authorities were notified yesterday that L. A. Fondron, brother of Katherine Lou Jackson, had asked that her body be shipped to her family in Sturgis, Miss.

Photographs of the dead young woman corroborate the statements of members of her family and her friends that she was very pretty. As her husband, Kid McCoy Jackson, said in an interview, however, "Katie Lou found her home town too small, and she went away."

In any event, it looks now as if her poor, torn body would go back to its native earth for decent burial instead of occupying an unmarked niche under the nodding daisies of New York City's Potter's Field.

ANTHEM ROW ON NOORDAM.

Germans Refuse to Rise to Air and Fight Is Barely Averted.

An incident on the voyage of the steamship Noordam from Rotterdam to this port came near causing open hostility and created a spirit of unfriendliness that lasted until the vessel arrived yesterday. On board were 839 passengers and the list included a number of Germans and American business men. When the American national anthem was played some of the Germans would not stand up. This caused such a row that a fist fight was barely averted. Then when the band struck up "Die Wacht am Rhein" the Americans were undemonstrative and there was another row.

Among those who arrived was Dr. J. Rudolph Katz, of Amsterdam, who has an international reputation as a nerve specialist. He said that the ouija board and other forms of alleged spiritual demonstration were causing as much discussion in Europe as here. Dr. Katz will give several lectures while in this country and will speak especially on the latest cure for insanity by analysis of the dreams of the patient. Dr. Katz comes to visit relatives in Boston.

E. E. Boyer, a Young Men's Christian Association worker of Plymouth, Ind., who left Warsaw on July 12, was another passenger. He said conditions in Poland are very bad and that women as well as men have been helping to hold back the Bolsheviki. Roy Imbrie, special agent of the State Department, returned from Russia, where he had been for two years.

ESTATE HIT BY "DRY" LAW.

Wine Company Stock of Par Value of $5,000 Appraised at $21.50.

In the estate of August Bitzen of 321 West Fifty-fifth Street, who died Nov. 25, 1919, was certificate No. 52 of the United Wine and Trading Company for fifty shares of the par value $100. A memorandum attached to the appraisal, filed in the Surrogate's Court here yesterday, states that, in December last, ten shares of the stock were sold in the market for $43 or $4.30 per share. "In view," the statement continues, "of national prohibition since enforced and which was contemplated, said stock is actually less than its par value and considerably less than the above quotation. The fifty-share certificate was appraised as valued at $21.50."

The appraisal fixed the gross value of the estate at $104,126, and the net at $94,518. It is divided equally between the daughters, Amanda L. Bitzen and Mabel B. Nevins.

SAYS HER HOME IS HAUNTED

Woman Claiming to be Late Senator's Niece Committed to Hospital.

Mrs. Myra Stevens, 62 years old, who said she was the daughter of the late Justice Van Buren of the Louisiana Circuit Court and a niece of the late Senator Joseph Blackburn of Kentucky, was committed to the Kings County Hospital for observation by Magistrate Miller in the Jamaica Police Court yesterday after she had been charged with the theft of 50 cents. She testified that she was the widow of John Stevens, a former wealthy produce merchant, and had a considerable amount of property.

Miss Genevieve McLaughlin, a policewoman on the staff of Deputy Commissioner Ellen O'Grady, who made the arrest, testified that Mrs. Stevens lived alone in a seventeen-room house at 1,155 Guion Avenue, Richmond Hill. It was after Mrs. Stevens had told Judge Miller that the house was haunted and that ghosts make their appearance late at night that she was sent to the hospital.

The complainant, Miss Florence Ruhnke, employed in an office at 25 Union Hall Street, Jamaica, testified that Mrs. Stevens said she was President of the Women's and Children's Rescue League and asked for contributions to buy bread for a needy family. Miss Ruhnke gave her 50 cents, but became suspicious when Mrs. Stevens handed her a card with the name of the society she said she represented, but no address, and started an investigation.

Ireland and Sinn Fein

The Irish question is comprehensively discussed in four new works which will be reviewed next Sunday in The New York Times Book Review and Magazine.. All are frankly partisan, one being friendly and the others opposed to Sinn Fein. The article is freely illustrated.
